SUMMARY.

The sole armament will be two 16.7 guns, with projectiles weighing 5940lb, fired from a single movable turret.

The journal declares that Britain and Germany are working feverishly at models of these monitors, intended to destroy Dreadnoughts.

The Berlin "Tageblatt" predicts that the German Emperor, King George, and the Czar will meet at Friedrichof, near Kronberg.

The Battersea Liberal and Radical Association has decided to cease registration of voters.

It claims that Mr. John Burns, who represents Battersea, should pay the cost, £300, now that his salary is £5000.

The employees of the Shipbuilding Employers' Federation number only a third of the boilermakers.

The assets of the Boilermakers' Society amount to £135,400, of which £20,000 are immediately available.

The strikes in South Wales are due to badly paid quarrymen of North Wales moving south and not joining the unions.

The Archbishop of York says that quarrels between religion and science are now confined to the camp followers of each.

The "Financial News" declares that wages are lower, accidents greater, and coals dearer since the eight-hour shift in mines.

Meetings are said to have been arranged in all ports in Great Britain, the Continent, and Australia re a shipping strike.

The Emperor Menelik o, Abyssinia has had a further apoplectic seizure, and his condition is critical.

In M. Morane's descent after attaining 8000ft, the motor stopped at 7500ft. He alighted in control of his monoplane.

Polling-day will be October 14.

"The Wade Administration has put more people on the land than any other Government."—Mr. Perry, at Alstonville.

"Our opponents prefer to fight on any battleground but that of the Government's political achievements."—Mr. Garland, at [illegible].

"I am satisfied that the country is on fire with enthusiasm for the Labour cause."—Mr. McGowen.

The cadets will not be allowed to drink any intoxicating liquors or bring the same to the college.

Gambling and cigarettes will be prohibited.

Mr. Tudor proposes to consult the Cabinet with regard to some kind of Australian commercial representative in Canada.

The report of friction between the Governor-General and the Federal Government is regarded as without foundation in Melbourne.

The Merchants' Service Guild at Wellington (N.Z.) wants all ships trading between Australia and New Zealand to conform to local labour conditions.

Sir Joseph Ward says that it would be a proper thing to bring the question up at the next Imperial Conference.

Mr. Charles Spencer proposes to establish a factory for turning out cinematographic films dealing with Australian subjects.

Father Dwyer, at Albury, said: "There is no law of God or man to stop tennis, football, and other innocent games on Sunday."

The special board which inquired into the cause of the Richmond railway disaster has presented its report.

It found that the accident was caused by a succession of contraventions of the railway regulations.

"Had even one of the men concerned fully complied with the railway regulations, no accident would have occurred."

The president of the Sydney Seamen's Union says that the proposed international strike does not concern Australia.

Senator Guthrie, president of the Federated Seamen's Union, does not think there is much in the suggested international strike.

Light to heavy rain has fallen over the northern half of the State, and scattered in the north-west and along the coast.

The trouble among the slaughtermen threatens to spread to members of other unions closely allied with the trade.

The Slaughtermen's Union has invited the Butchers, Carters, and Basil Workers' Union to make common cause with the slaughtermen.

Already the Lithgow works are showing signs of activity in connection with the State's steel rails contract.

The Newcastle City Council is indignant at the Board of Health sending its inspectors to report on sanitary conditions.

The Mayor (Alderman Reid) declares that the council will make its own inspections, and not have the board stepping in.

Newcastle is endeavouring to get into wireless communication with the Dutch squadron to invite a call at that port.

Miss Nellie Stewart has raised £1400 on behalf of the Radium Fund. The matinee yielded £800 alone.

Mr. Hogue declares that Labour statements circulated about the State schools are "unmitigated thumpers."

Last year the number of births in New Zealand was 27.79 per thousand, an increase of 2.25 per cent.

The death is announced of Mr. George Gibson (Gibbie), an old intercolonial cricketer, who played for Victoria in the 60's and 70's.

It is stated that matches now being supplied in Australia are non-poisonous, and useless to would-be suicides.

Work in connection with the deviation and duplication of the line between Lithgow and Bell is proceeding rapidly.

Captain Coulter has been selected as the New South Wales militia officer for six months' training in the Indian army.

A special conference will consider the difficulty in regard to the Commonwealth Protectionist Association.

Lord and Lady Chelmsford visited Brewarrina yesterday. They called at the Public School and the convent school.

Active preparations are said to be going on for renewal of the Spreckles service between San Francisco, Auckland, and Sydney.

The Parramatta and the Yarra, which will sail from English waters on September 15, will fly the Blue Ensign of the British Navy.

There was not a great deal of business transacted on the Stock Exchange yesterday.

Forecast.—Fine in the eastern districts, but becoming unsettled again in the west and in the Riverina, with further showers; northerly

LADIES' STYLISH COATS, AT FARMER'S, FOR THE RACES AND OTHER SMART FUNCTIONS.

The new shipments of Dust Coats, Theatre Coats, and Motor Coats we have just opened display some of the smartest and most stylish garments we have yet placed on display. And many of them are SPECIAL VALUES.

Perhaps the most dainty fabric is Satin de Soie and Batiste de Soie, which are represented in several elegant model Coats, and are such that they can be worn over the most elaborately trimmed frock without a suspicion of crushing or disarranging it. Here are a few examples:—

STYLISH COATS IN SHANTUNG SILK.

SMART DUST COATS, in striped Shantung Silk, colours Sky, Natural, Pale Reseda, and Rose, half fitting panel back, finished stitched bands of self and buttons, double breasted fronts, pockets and coat collar of black silk. Price, 59/6.

TOURIST TICKETS ISSUED TO ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

The RESTORATIVE EFFECTS and LIFE-GIVING PROPERTIES of a sea voyage under favourable conditions are becoming more recognised in all parts of the world, while all authorities agree that to travel in warm latitudes, being constantly in the open air, breathing pure ozone, is preferable to visiting colder countries where artificial heat in cabins and rooms often vitiates the air.

BURNS, PHILP, and CO. HAVE REGULAR SERVICES to all points in the PACIFIC away from the usual beaten tracks of Tourists. CIRCULAR and OTHER VOYAGES prepared to a dozen different groups of ISLANDS, to PAPUA, to JAVA and SINGAPORE, JAPAN, AMERICA, CHINA, BURMAH, INDIA. SMOOTH-WATER VOYAGES in suitable steamships. MILLINERY FOR THE RACES.

A special Display of Race Millinery is made in our Showroom on the 2nd Floor. Each Model is original in conception, embodying the newest and most fascinating ideas of this Season's Fashions. Many are importations direct from Paris, distinctive in shape, and in soft and perfect shades.

WE PAY CARRIAGE

HATS FOR IMMEDIATE WEAR.

OUR MILLINERY ON THE FIRST FLOOR.

The descriptions given below are of our Hats Ready to Wear, which are undoubtedly charming this Season, both in trimmings and shapes, and ideal for Walking, Driving, or Tennis Wear.

A very dainty Hat of fine Pedal Straw, Sailor shape, very smartly trimmed with coloured Velvet Band and Bow in Navy, Brown, Moss, Rose, Heliotrope 12/6

Another charming Hat of Pedal Straw, in Prunelle, Moss, Navy, Cinnamon, Mole, Saxe, and Rose, is trimmed with an artistic Paisley Scarf in harmonious blends 15/9

Fine Straw Sailor-Shaped Hats, trimmed with beautifully folded Chiffon and Satin to match, in colours—Black, White, Cream, Saxe, Brown, and Vieux Rose 15/9

An extremely dainty Mushroom-shaped Hat, with slightly upturned brim all round. It is beautifully fitted with Floral Muslin, and has bind of plain-coloured with a Satin finish material. The trimming of same material is arranged in a piped band with choux at side. Colours of bind and trimming to harmonise with Floral Muslin are Pink, Pale Blue, Saxe, Moss, and Amethyst 13/9

Effective Hats of Burnt Pedal Straw, trimmed with Bows of Fancy Straw, in colours—Navy, Saxe, Moss, Black, and Vieux Rose. They are splendid in quality, and most becoming for Spring and Summer Wear 27/6

UNTRIMMED HATS.

Our Untrimmed Hats are very smart in shape, and only need the simplest trimming to obtain effective results. Moreover, the Straws are substantial in quality, although dainty in appearance.

Large Coarse Straw Mushroom Hats, in colours—Cream, Burnt, Navy, Vieux Rose, Brown, and Moss. Very smart 2/11

Rice Straw Mushroom Hats, in colours—Cream, Navy, Brown, and Burnt. These are charming shapes, and only need a simple trimming 3/11

TO-DAY, 5/9.
A MADAPOLAM NIGHTDRESS.

USUALLY 6/6.

The Nightdress for our "Special Line" to-day is made of good quality Madapolam. A daintily-designed all-over embroidery forms the yoke, while an insert of embroidery beading, edged with lace, and threaded with Ribbon, trims the neck. Clusters of pin tucks below the square yoke add to its attractiveness—the sleeves are finished with small cuffs and frill of embroidery. In Women's and Out Sizes only. These Nightdresses are splendid value. The reduced price for to-day only makes them even more desirable to those who wish a strong serviceable Nightgown, moderately priced. The reduced price is for to-day only, and if you live at a distance and wish to take advantage of it, Mail or Telephone your Orders immediately on receipt of this announcement, and they will be executed at the reduced price, and sent carriage paid.

DEMONSTRATION TO-MORROW OF THE WILLCOX AND GIBBS SEWING MACHINES.

An interesting demonstration of these Sewing Machines will be given at 3 p.m. to-morrow. You are invited to this demonstration without being under the slightest obligation to purchase.

LASSETTERS

SPRING AND SUMMER FASHIONS,

and rely upon the EXCELLENT QUALITY

and MODERATE PRICES of the goods

as the MOST ELOQUENT ARGUMENTS

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT.

Our imported models just to hand from the leading Salons in Paris, Vienna, Berlin, and London are the most gorgeous yet charming collection it has ever been our privilege to invite you to inspect.

There is a wonderful fascination about the large hats which are so decidedly becoming and quite correct for the approaching season, but for those who prefer the more moderate shapes we have made ample provision.

This is undoubtedly to be the greatest floral season we've had for many years; we have a perfect galaxy of flowers and grasses, which provide for every requirement. We have catered specially for infants and children's wear this season, and everything new and dainty will be found in this section.

MANTLE AND COSTUME DEPARTMENT.

The great question in circles feminine, "What shall we wear?" is already commencing to make itself heard with some amount of insistence.

In our showrooms we have endeavoured to make the reply to this question quite easy for our customers by representing an array of the newest garments, embodying the latest ideas and most practical working out of the dominant fashion tendencies, and at the same time illustrating most of the delicate and charming nuances of art tones, which bid fair to render the colour schemes of the coming season a joy to the refined in tastes, and which offer great opportunities of colour blending. Subtle or somewhat daring combinations will both be quite a la mode.

UNDERCLOTHING DEPARTMENT.

We are making a very attractive display of dainty lingerie in the Underclothing Department. Some new and effective designs in muslin, soft satin, glace silk, and moirette underskirts, specially designed for wearing with the close-fitting gowns, forming a leading feature.

SILK AND DRESS DEPARTMENT.

We take the fullest advantage of a somewhat unique position in the textile trade to obtain, through our expert staff of London and Continental buyers, all the latest information concerning the fashions of the moment.

Our new season's materials embrace all that is likely to be worn with good taste and effect, while our prices are strictly competitive.

CORSET DEPARTMENT.

The present modes are undeniably the most beautiful, rational, and comfortable that have ever been designed. Before going seriously into the question of Summer frocks, we would urge you to interview our Corsetiere on the highly-important matter of corsets, as it matters not how exquisitely a gown is made, its effect is completely spoilt when worn over ill-fitting corsets.

LACE AND RIBBON DEPARTMENT.

Our exhibition of Laces, Veilings, made-up Lace Goods, Embroideries, Handkerchiefs, Ribbons, etc., is now open, and the goods displayed in the various sections allotted to them in the most convenient way for your inspection. All the newest and daintiest goods from the most authoritative fashion centres of the world will be found amongst the collection.

BELTS AND BELTINGS.

BELTS, BELTINGS, and BUCKLES have seldom been in SUCH VARIETY as that now presented for the SEASON. The SHAPES, SIZES, COLOURS, and FINISH offer a selection that is ALMOST BEWILDERING.

As we are in ALL things UP TO DATE it follows that the ASSORTMENT of BELTS and BELTINGS shown in the HABERDASHERY DEPT. embraces ALL that is NEW as well as the FAVOURITE STYLES that are STILL in demand. In EVERY CASE they ILLUSTRATE the ECONOMY always to be found in

BICYCLES AND MOTOR CARS.

MARK FOY'S MOTORS.

I only want to talk to the buyers. These motor cars are good, "every one of them good." £10 will put anything right with them, and it can only be the body work a little worn. This—and you will have them

RIGHT UP ALONGSIDE OF NEW.

For they have been kept up to new, and are written off, in a businesslike way, so that they owe Foy nothing. Also, except one—they are all of the best makes known in the motor world.

TRIED AND TRUE.

NOW HERE IS AN ASTOUNDING OFFER
FOR AN UNRESERVED SALE OF MOTORS.

You can pay 10 per cent. down on the amount of your purchase for a car, and you can have a week to pay the balance, and if you wish to change your mind at the end of that week you can get half your deposit back again; also, when the car is paid for, a driver will be sent with your car to your home within 25 miles of Sydney

FREE OF CHARGE.

SALE DAY, TO-MORROW, WEDNESDAY, 7th SEPTEMBER,
AT 3 O'CLOCK, AT BELLEVUE HILL.

The Cars can be seen to-day, the 6th, and to-morrow, the 7th. And to-day a trial can be had on the stiff hills in the vicinity, to show that the cars are right, and any gentleman or lady can send an engineer to overhaul every part of them to see the condition they are in.

It's a safe sale.

To Mr. Raleigh.

Sir,—I am pleased to certify that you ROASTED A JOINT OF MEAT, BOILED VEGETABLES IN THREE VESSELS, and ALSO WATER IN A KETTLE, AT THE SAME TIME in your "Paragon" Gas Stove, WITH A RING taken from the English Stove which I had in use, and which ring, fixed in the English Stove, WOULD ONLY BOIL ONE VESSEL. The test was carried out in my own kitchen, and in my presence. I cannot now understand any person using an English Gas Stove when such convincing evidence of its great waste of gas can be so clearly seen. You may use this certificate in any way you please.—Yours, etc., M. STEPHEN.

Mr. M. Raleigh.

Dear Sir,—This is to certify that you took a ring from the English Gas Stove I am using at present, fixed it in one of your "Paragon" Stoves, and with it ROASTED A JOINT AND COOKED VEGETABLES IN THREE VESSELS AT THE SAME TIME. I can only boil ONE VESSEL with the same ring in the English Stove, and I not seen the work done in my own kitchen, I could scarcely believe it possible. You are at liberty to publish this testimonial for the benefit of the public.—Yours, etc., A. C. THOMAS.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

MR. JUSTICE NEVILLE.—1910 A. 666.

IN THE MATTER of the AUSTRALIAN MORTGAGE, LAND, AND FINANCE COMPANY (LIMITED), and IN THE MATTER of the COMPANIES (CONSOLIDATION) ACT, 1908.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Petition was presented to His Majesty's High Court of Justice by the Australian Mortgage, Land, and Finance Company (Limited) on the 15th day of July, 1910, for confirming the alteration and extension of the objects of the Company proposed to be effected by Resolutions passed on the 28th May, 1910, and confirmed on the 16th June, 1910, to the effect following, namely:—

1. That the provisions of the Memorandum of Association of the Company with respect to the Company's objects be altered as follows, viz.:—

(A) By cancelling the following words in Clause III. thereof, viz.: In sub-clause 1, "in the Australian Colonies;" in sub-clause 3, "in and with the said Colonies;" in sub-clause 4, "in any or either of the Australian Colonies;" in sub-clause 5, "into any or either of the said Colonies," and "the Colonial;" in sub-clause 6, "in the said Colonies;" in sub-clause 3, "whether English or Australian;" and in sub-clause 10, "in connection with the said Colonies or either of them," and

(B) By inserting the following words in Clause III. thereof, viz.:—In sub-clause 3 after the word "stations," the words "estates, lands, and properties of all descriptions;" and at the end of sub-clause 6 the words "or other security," and by inserting immediately after sub-clause 10 the following, viz.:—"11. To do all or any of the above acts, matters, and things in or in connection with all parts of the world."

2. That when and so soon as the above alterations in the Company's Memorandum of Association shall have been confirmed by the Court the name of the Company be altered to "The Australian Mercantile Land and Finance Company, Limited," or to such other name as the Court may approve.

And further take notice that such petition is directed to be heard before his Lordship Mr. Justice Neville on the 4th day of November, 1910, and any person interested in the said Company, whether as Debenture Stock-holder, Creditor, or otherwise, desiring to oppose the making of an order for so altering the Memorandum of Association of the Company under the above Act, should appear at the time of hearing by himself or his Counsel for the purpose, and is requested to send notice of such desire, with the grounds of his or her objection, to the Secretary of the Company, Mr. H. R. B. Lilley, at the Registered Office of the Company, No. 13 Leadenhall-street, London, E.C., on or before the 3rd November, 1910, and a copy of the Petition will be furnished to any such person requiring the same by the undersigned, the Solicitors of the Company, on payment of the regulated charges for the same.

Dated this 5th day of August, 1910.

101 Leadenhall-street, London, E.C.,
Solicitors for the Company.

PURSUANT to an Order of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, made by Mr. Justice Swinfen Eady in an Action in the Matter of the Trusts of the Will, dated 8th March, 1878, and a Codicil thereto dated 23rd December, 1879, of JOHN GREENE, deceased, Riddle v Greene, 1909, G. 1483, dated 13th May, 1910, whereby it was ordered that the following inquiry be made; that is to say, an inquiry whether FRANK ALFRED GREENE, in the said Will named, was living on the 21st October, 1883, when his youngest sister attained 21, and, if so, whether he is now living or has since died, and, if dead, when he died, and who is his legal personal representative.

Now, any person or persons claiming to be interested under the said inquiry are, on or before the 31st day of December, 1910, to come in and prove their claims at the Chambers of Mr. Justice Swinfen Eady and Mr. Justice Neville, at the Royal Courts of Justice, Strand, London, England; or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said Order. Wednesday, the 11th day of January, 1911, at 11.30 o'clock in the forenoon, at the said Chambers, is appointed for hearing and adjudicating on the claims.

Dated the 20th day of July, 1910.

H. HUGHES ONSLOW,
Master of the Supreme Court.

PROSPECTUS OF THE

MANLY PALACE PIER COMPANY, LIMITED.

TO BE REGISTERED UNDER THE COMPANIES ACTS, NEW SOUTH WALES.

15,000 Shares, fully paid up, are issued to the Vendors, as hereinafter stated; 5000 Shares, fully paid, are to be issued to the contractors for the erection of the pier as part payment of the contract price; 80,000 Shares are offered for subscription. 80,000 Shares are offered for public subscription on the following terms:—On application, 5s per share; on allotment, 5s per share; three months after allotment, 2s 6d per share; six months after allotment, 2s 6d per share; balance as required in calls not exceeding 2s 6d per share, as and when required.

The whole of Capital of the Company, less flotation and legal expenses, will be applied to the purposes of this Company, and the Vendors undertake not to sell any of their shares until a dividend has been declared. The Provisional Directors are willing to underwrite a proportion of the shares.

PROVISIONAL DIRECTORS: H. A. MEREWETHER, Managing Trustee, Rothbury Estates, 14 Martin-place, Sydney; A. LUSK POTTER, Potter and Birks, Limited, Sydney; C. T. METCALFE, M. Metcalfe and Co., Sydney; S. M. DEMPSTER, Marshall and Dempster, Sydney.

BANKERS: BANK OF NEW SOUTH WALES, SYDNEY. SOLICITORS: McLACHLAN and MURRAY, Sydney. AUDITORS: A. J. BRIERLY, F.C.P.A., Sydney; DAVID FELL, F.C.P.A., Sydney. PROVISIONAL SECRETARY: R. R. ALLISON, A.C.P.A., Room 15, 78 Pitt-street, Sydney.

PROSPECTUS.—OBJECTS OF THE COMPANY.

This Company is being formed to acquire from the Vendors all their right, title, and interest in and to the concession granted by the Manly Council, and the Government of New South Wales, for the construction of a Pier—more particularly described hereafter—together with tender, plans, and specifications, as approved by the Government Department, architects' drawings, surveys, soundings, borings, etc., made and held by them in connection therewith.

DESCRIPTION.

The Pier will be about 900 feet long by 38 wide, and at the seaward end the area of the Pier Head will be about 300 feet long by 126 feet wide. Upon this will be erected a handsome Pavilion, with a broad Promenade Balcony outside and interior galleries provided with seating.

This Building will be used for entertainments of all kinds, such as Grand Concerts, Varieties, Picture Shows, etc., and will accommodate about 1500 people.

The floor of the building will be graded so that the audience will have a clear view of the stage, the proscenium of which will be 26 feet wide by 25 feet high.

The Pavilion will also contain large Tea and Refreshment Rooms, and a number of small shops for the sale of tobacco, sweets, confectionery, etc., and with two larger ones will form part of the Pavilion Building.

On the ocean frontage of the Pier Head an area of about 126 feet by 80 feet will be set apart, on which is to be erected a Band Stand, surrounded with seating accommodation, from which a high-class Orchestral Band will give performances.

At the Pier Head a staging for fishing will be constructed at a sufficient level above high water.

The Pier will be provided with a large amount of free seating accommodation.

The Pier will be constructed on Cast Iron Piles and Columns, and the Piles will be sunk deeply into the bed of the sea, and will be strongly braced with Steel Bars, Girders, and Tie Rods.

The fact of the Government Engineer having approved the plans for the construction of the Pier should be sufficient evidence as to its safety.

SOURCES OF REVENUE.

When it is considered what an immense attraction such a Pier would be, it can easily be understood what great numbers would avail themselves of it. It is estimated that last year about 2,000,000 people visited Manly, exclusive of Manly residents and season-ticket holders. It is estimated that at least 1,500,000 should make use of the Pier during the season. A considerable revenue is also derivable from the Manly residents, and from a population of 8500 it may be reckoned that there would be at least 2000 season-ticket holders. It is the intention of the Company to make the low charge of 3d for adults and 1d for children under 10 years of age.

The following figures show the dividends paid by some of the English companies:—

BLACKPOOL PIER CO.—Capital, £75,000. Dividend and bonus for last fourteen years—12 per cent. per annum. Improvement, contingent, and reserve fund, £22,700.

SOUTHSEA PIER.—Private Company. Capital, £85,000—Dividend, 12 per cent. per annum.

BRIGHTON PIER CO.—Capital, £100,000—Dividend for the last ten years averages 15 per cent. per annum.

SOUTHEND PIER CO.—Corporation Property—Profits estimated to be 15 per cent. per annum.

There are other Promenade Pier Companies in England paying large dividends, of which statistical data is not in the hands of the Vendors.

When it is considered that in England the season at the seaside lasts little more than three months, and that the above profits are gathered in that short period, the significance of the above figures may be better realised by comparing the length of the season at Manly, which lasts about 9 months, so that the shareholders may confidently expect handsome dividends.

REVENUE.	£ s d	EXPENDITURE.	£ s d
Visits to Pier (adults)—1,000,000 at 3d ...	£12,500 0 0	Special Band and Conductor and Cost of Entertainments	£8,000 0 0

Leaving a balance of equivalent to 17½ per cent. per annum on Capital of the Company.

The above is an approximate estimate of receipts and expenditure based on data gathered from English Promenade Pier Companies, and also upon a visiting and residential population equivalent to that of Manly.

The Vendors have received a firm tender from Messrs. J. and A. Mayoh, of "Strathkyle," Bligh-street, Sydney, for the construction and completion of the Pier and Pavilion at Manly for the sum of £65,500 0s 0d without extras. The tender compares favourably with the cost of any of the Piers constructed in England.

The Pier has been specially designed by them, and they have constructed Piers in very exposed positions in the Irish Sea and the North Sea. None of the Piers they have erected have suffered any damage from storms or rough seas. It is well known that the English Coast is frequently visited by heavy storms, and it is Messrs. Mayoh's opinion that no sea ever likely to visit Manly will interfere with the stability and success of the work.

The Tenderers have taken borings, and have satisfied themselves as to the suitability of the site, and report that the strata and depth of water is particularly suitable for building the Pier.

This firm has had a large experience in this class of work, having constructed Promenade Piers in the following resorts of England:—

PENARTH
BEAUMARIS
MUMBLES,

And other Seaside Resorts.

Applications for Shares should be forwarded on the enclosed form, together with a deposit of 5s per Share, to the Directors, c/o the Secretary, at the Registered Office of the Company.

In the event of a lesser number of Shares than those applied for being allotted, the balance of the application money received will be applied towards payment of the allotment money due in respect of the said Shares.

The Directors will proceed to allotment on 65,000 shares being applied for, and if no allotment is made money will be returned in full.

Dated the 27th day of August, 1910.

I herewith enclose the sum of £................being a deposit of 5s per share on .... Shares in the above-named Company. I request that you will allot me that number of shares, and I agree to accept the same or any less number that you may allot me. I further agree to pay 5s per Share on allotment, 2s 6d per Share three months after allotment, 2s 6d per Share six months after allotment, and the balance as required, and I hereby authorise you to place my name on the Register of Members in respect of the number of Shares allotted to me.

THE BROWN MASK.

BY PERCY JAMES BREBNER.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

Truly, they were almost powerless to baulk him now, he argued, as he drained his glass again. What could two men do in Dorchester at the present moment, with the town full of soldiers and Jeffreys at hand to deal out summary justice? The brown mask no longer hid a person of mystery; the features of Gilbert Crosby were known to dozens of men who had been outwitted by him. He would not dare to walk the streets by day. As for this fiddler fellow, what power had he to cajole rough soldiery? He might work upon the superstition of Sir John Lanison at Aylingford, might play upon the heartstrings of a woman, but these hard-drinking, hard-swearing men were not likely to fall victims to his fooleries. Even if he discovered where his mistress was lodged, he would not be able to come near her.

"I have played the trump card and taken the trick," laughed Rosmore. "Now comes the taming of Mistress Lanison. I should hate her for defying me did I not desire her so much."

What he chose to think love was perhaps not far removed from hate. He longed to possess, to bend to his will, to have the woman who stood for so much in the estimation of so many men. Self-satisfaction controlled him, the desire that men should once again know how useless it was to attempt rivalry with him. He had a reputation to maintain, and he would maintain it at all hazards. He began to weigh carefully in his mind the plans he had formed, and then the door opened.

"Ah, you lovable little trickster," he exclaimed as Harriett Payne entered. "Come and let me thank you. Gold and trinkets I have not to-night, but——"

"I do not want them," she said.

"Love and kisses, my love and kisses," he said, drawing her on to his knee. "I've spent wakeful nights thinking of you; now I am happy again."

"Playing the traitor is not pleasant," she said.

"That would be to curse myself."

"You are so clever that I wonder you should think me capable of asking you to do a treacherous action, even for love of me," said Rosmore. "You shall know the whole scheme now that you have so well earned full partnership with me. But tell me the whole story first. I heard of the dropped handkerchief. That was excellently conceived."

Harriett told him of her visit to Barbara Lanison in London, repeating almost word for word what had been said. She told him of the journey to Dorchester, almost acted for his benefit the part of sobbing and frightened woman which she had played so well; and Rosmore laughed and applauded her.

"Excellent. Most excellent."

"And now?" said the girl, "what is to happen? What is in store for her now she is in Dorchester? You swore to me that I should not be bringing her into the hands of Judge Jeffreys. Into whose hands have I delivered her?"

"Into mine," said Rosmore.

"For what purpose?"

"To save her from herself. It is a long story, but you shall have it presently. I shall still want your help."

"You do not love her?" the girl said almost fiercely. "There are those about you who believe that I am your plaything, useful to do your bidding, only to be thrown aside when you have no more need of me."

"Who has dared to say so? Tell me." Rosmore was splendid in his sudden wrath, and Harriett Payne was a little frightened.

"Nay, I will not injure anyone. It is natural for a man to think so seeing what you are and what I am."

"Learn, mistress, to value yourself at something nearer your true price. I see in the mirror as dainty a piece of womanhood as this fair land, with all its treasures of beauty, holds. Hast heard of Trojan Helen, that woman who was a world's desire, whose beauty made men sigh for her until they fell ill with their desire; for whom two nations fought, pouring out their noblest blood for her possession through ten long years; and at the end dooming a city to flames and massacre? I would not have you so like this ancient Helen that all the world should be my rival, for then could I not hope to have my arms about you as now they are, but as she was fair, so are you; as beside her all women were naught, so to me are all women naught beside you. Kiss me; and, if you will not tell me who has done me such slander, at least know this that they were lying words which he spoke."

She kissed him, contented.

"Then you will not treat her harshly?" the girl said. "Mistress Lanison is a true, brave woman; I would not have her hurt in any way."

"It is my desire to help her, as I will show you presently," Rosmore returned. "Tell me what she has said to you. Two women in adversity ever grow confidential."

"I do not know whether she loves Mr. Crosby—I think there are barriers which even love cannot break down—but she is willing to make some great sacrifice for him, that is why she consented to come to the West. No sooner were we lodged in Dorchester than she sent me with a message to Judge Marriott praying him to go to her."

"And you delivered the message."

"I made pretence of doing so, but told her that I could not get speech with the Judge."

"You are as wise as you are fair," said Rosmore. "I must see Marriott at once. He is a blundering fool, this Judge, and might ruin everything. Tell me, have you seen Mr. Crosby since he fled from Lenfield?"

"And you threatened to have my shoulders bared and whipped," laughed the girl. "No, I have not seen him since then."

"It was the bare shoulders I thought of, not the whipping, you witch."

"Now, tell me your purpose concerning Mistress Lanison," said the girl.

"She is a woman in love," said Rosmore, "and loves not as her guardian would have her do. It is the usual way of women who have guardians. Had you such an ogre to direct your actions and you loved me, he would be certain to have some other lover for you and would hate me. This is Mistress Lanison's case, and although she does not like me, I would do her a service and outwit her guardian. I would——"

He stopped suddenly. There were footsteps in the passage, and Harriett slipped from his knee and was standing sedately at a little distance from him when the door opened and a servant entered.

"Judge Marriott is asking to see you, my lord."

"I was thinking of him. Bring him in." Then, as the servant departed, he turned to Harriett. "Come this way, into this other room."

"Your room," she exclaimed, "I would not have anyone find me here."

"No one shall enter unless they kill me first upon the threshold. Have no fear. You could not leave the house unseen by Judge Marriott, and I would not have him see you for the world. He is foul-mouthed and foul-minded. Let the curtain fall close, so, to keep from you as much of his conversation as possible."

"This assize work makes one thirsty, Rosmore, and, hearing you had arrived, a longing came over me to drink a bottle with you."

"You are welcome. Had you not come within a few minutes I should have been knocking at your door."

"Good. Then we may have an hour's peace. The town's astir, Rosmore; there'll be great doings in Dorchester. Do you hear what that wag Jeffreys has done? Had the court hung with scarlet to mark the occasion. He does not mean his lesson to die quickly out of the memory."

"That is what they mean, then, by 'Bloody Assizes.' I heard the name whispered as I entered the town."

"Oh, they were quick enough to see that this was no ordinary dispensation of law," laughed Marriott. "The dogs are sleepless and trembling to-night, I warrant."

"Aye, it is certainly the King's turn now, and I would he were making better use of his opportunity."

"What a glutton you are, Rosmore. There are over three hundred prisoners in Dorchester alone."

"And most of them might be released," was the answer. "Such clemency would do more for the King than will be accomplished by this revengeful spirit."

"Since when have you turned sentimental?"

"I think I was born with a horror of wholesale injustice."

Marriott laughed, then grew serious.

WASTED FORTUNE ON SKIN TROUBLE.

"I began to have an itching over my whole body about seven years ago, and this settled in my limb, from the knee to the toes. I went to see a great many physicians, a matter which cost me a fortune, and after I noticed that I did not get any relief that way I went for three years to the hospital. But they were unable to help me there. I used all the medicines that I could see, but became worse and worse. I had an inflammation which made me almost crazy with pain. When I showed my foot to my friends they would get really frightened. I did not know what to do. I was so sick and had become so nervous that I positively lost all hope.

"Finally I decided to use the Cuticura Remedies, and I tell you that I was never so pleased as when I noticed that, after having used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, the entire inflammation had gone. I was completely cured. Mrs. Bertha Sachs, 1621, Second Ave., New York, U.S.A., Aug. 20, 1909." Reference: R. Towns and [illegible].

EDUCATION.

TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOLS.

The year has been full of expectancy concerning secondary education. At the Teachers' Conference of 1909 (the 1910 conference is in sight) the Director of Education, Mr. P. Board, M.A., delivered a most important and progressive address on secondary education, forshadowing the proposals of the Department of Education.

It was expected with confidence that the proposals would be brought into practical operations by the close of the year. But though Parliament died before the birth of this important infant the great changes that are to be made in education are deferred.

But developments in secondary education have still gone on apace—in a few directions. The district schools are being fully staffed and equipped; Fort-street has been divided into primary and secondary schools, the recent appointment of the second master marking the beginning of such division, and, generally, preparations have been, and are, being made to meet the new conditions. While, however, this has been going forward, there has been established in the past two years a day school in connection with the Sydney Technical College, which is designed to meet all the requirements of a secondary education for youths, upon technical lines—requirements equal to those of Germany, America, and Great Britain, and of a nature which many parents, knowing only the old conditions, are not yet realising. This day school for school children at the Sydney Technical College is now known as the Technical High School. Its name conveys its nature, and marks the new development in education.

Parents and teachers should become very closely acquainted with the purposes of the Technical High School—parents, that they may know what facilities are afforded to them for their children; teachers, that they may direct their pupils there and be able to advise parents upon what the Technical High School offers for children who have completed their primary courses of education. Schools that are staffed and equipped only for primary education cannot—no matter how correctly the principal and the staff work—give to pupils after the primary course closes a secondary education.

Yet this is what is being attempted in the senior classes of many schools in New South Wales to-day. Further, many parents do not want that form of secondary education which leads on to the course closing with an arts degree at the University. They prefer rather the practical form that is contained in the word technical, and which is extended into science. Both divisions are to be provided in the secondary education scheme, but while that is being considered, the Technical High School is leading the way.

The syllabus of this school has just been issued. It sets forth that the Sydney Technical High School is conducted within the central college buildings in well-appointed classrooms. The students have ample opportunities for scientific and practical instruction in fully equipped laboratories and workshops. The aims of the school are to prepare boys for the engineering trades and professions, and for architecture. The great developments now taking place in the city in engineering and architecture make such a school a necessity. A sound preparatory course in English, mathematics, science, and drawing is provided in the curriculum. For those who wish to specially follow trades, scientific or professional careers the subjects treated will be found both suitable and helpful in securing the foundation work upon which to subsequently build. Nor is the school established only for boys. Girls attend, and may elect to take domestic science, dressmaking, and millinery.

The conditions of admission make the standard that at which primary education closes—those who have reached the standard of VI. class in Public schools are eligible for admission. This does not mean that pupils of private or denominational schools are ineligible to attend, but they must reach the standard set down. The students of the Sydney Technical High School have free access to the general library of the college, containing 6000 volumes of reference, with magazines and other publications, chiefly scientific in character. In addition the pupils have their own library, which contains a carefully selected stock of general literature. Comparison with British and American syllabuses shows that the Sydney Technical High School is on a standard well equal to those schools. The time-table shows a routine commencing at 9.30 and terminating at 4, in which it agrees with the prevailing time-tables of the general Public schools.

The division of work is into hour periods, the sections or classes being three. The provision for practical work in the laboratories and workshops is very liberal, and as these are well found in every respect the advantages to the pupils are very apparent.

The syllabus contains full particulars of the scholarships and bursaries associated with District and High schools, agricultural scholarships, and Technical scholarships and bursaries, senior, intermediate, and junior. Extensions of these are made in affording opportunity for students in small Technical schools to proceed to similar classes in the central college. Also an important alteration is made in providing three scholarships for competition amongst girls over 16 years of age, who have gone through a course of instruction in cookery in any of the Technical schools or colleges or Public schools under this department. Scholarships also are provided for students attending the evening courses at the various central technical schools and colleges. Two of these will be allotted amongst the students of each year in each subject. Research scholarships are provided for one or more years to students who have completed their full course at the Sydney Technical College on the recommendation of the lecturer or teacher, as approved by the superintendent. Bursaries are provided to correspond with scholarships.

The Sydney Technical High School is already becoming largely attended, but there is no doubt that many parents and teachers are not yet aware of the nature and advantages of the school so easily available to all.

SUPERANNUATION.

The women teachers, who have throughout evinced great interest in the recent superannuation proposals of the Government and the Teachers' and Public Service associations, propose to discuss superannuation among themselves in a generally informal manner before proceeding to further discussion at the meeting of metropolitan teachers, who will be called together to deal with the scheme shortly. At the Women's Patriotic Club rooms on Saturday evening Miss Golding, vice-president of the Teachers' Association, will explain to women teachers of all grades the present proposed superannuation scheme.

THE P.S.A.A.A.

Final rehearsals will be held this week at the Sydney Cricket Ground for the sports and displays on Wednesday, the 14th. Maypole dancers will rehearse on Thursday, and the display squads generally on Friday. The full programme is now complete, the number of competitors exceeding all previous records, while the range has been extended to schools in the country and along the Illawarra, Western, Southern, and Northern lines. A total of 9000 boys and girls will take part in the displays.

COUNSEL TO THE CORPULENT.

KNOW EXACTLY WHAT YOU ARE TAKING.

Whether a man or woman be excessively stout or quite normally proportioned, the first consideration is—or should be—the maintenance of health and vigour. That is what many over-fat persons are inclined to forget when, apart from the deplorable abuses of fasting, exercises, etc., they swallow medicines of which they know absolutely nothing. Such unwisdom is much to be reprehended. Here is a recipe of a remedy which has proved wonderfully efficacious in thousands of cases of obstinate obesity,—a recipe which any chemist will make up for you, or for which, if you prefer it, he will supply you with the necessary ingredients:—One half-ounce of Marmola, one ounce of fluid Extract of Glycyrrhiza B.P., one ounce of pure Glycerine B.P. Mix well with peppermint water to make six ounces in all, and take in doses of two tea-spoonfuls after each meal. Appetite and digestion will be much improved, and as a consequence perfect health and strength will accompany the quick recovery of normal weight and shapeliness. Firm limbs, a bright, healthy complexion, a delightful feeling of bodily ease, a graceful, alert bearing—these are the priceless results of a wonderful treatment now within every stout person's reach.—Advt.

HARBOUR LIGHTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In reply to the very scathing remarks of your correspondent, "Skipper Brand," I would like to ask him, has he really given the matter any serious consideration at all; and, further, is he himself qualified to give a reliable opinion, by having at any time navigated a ship alone in Sydney Harbour, or is he one of the "brand" that always have to have a nurse in the shape of a pilot at his elbow?

In regard to his proposal to having daylight sailings, even if that were possible, how does "Skipper Brand" propose to get over arrivals which cannot be timed to a minute, or even a good number of hours?

Fixed lights, about which he expresses so much concern, need not worry him any longer, as I will give him this piece of information, free, which I hope will save him from grey hairs in the future: If he has any doubts as to which light is which, the bearings of any pair of lights as proposed and given in the Festu scheme will promptly settle accurately and lay at rest all "Skipper Brand's" doubts and fears on the subject. All these details, as set forth in the "Herald," have been very carefully and thoroughly gone into; evidently the writer had a few "Skipper Brands" in view when he went to so much trouble as he did.

About the Miller's Point light, which "Skipper Brand" says ought to be occulting, does he know what the red sector is for? Well, if he does not, it is one of the benefits gained as the result of the Argus-Mildura collision; and the use is it gives the knowledge of when to turn into Darling Harbour. In reply to "Observer," the genesis of a pilot is the master mariner, and exempt masters perform for their owners the same services as a local pilot does a ship arriving overseas. I am, etc.,

A GENUINE SKIPPER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your correspondent "Skipper Brand's" criticism of the above subject in Friday's issue leaves the Festu scheme absolutely untarnished. Criticism of the scheme is most desirable, but when a correspondent in his communication classifies as Tom, Dick, and Harry the capable authorities that have unreservedly approved the necessity for improving the lighting and beaconing facilities of the port he defeats his own object, and brings upon himself well-merited ridicule.

He is anxious to have the public believe that he is a practical mariner, since he admits Mr. Festu's scheme to be good theory; when as a matter of fact if he is a practical seaman he should know that the scheme is not put forward as a theoretical one, but is intensely practical; so much, indeed, as to be of general adoption throughout Australasia, even in poor benighted Newcastle. It is the very reverse of elaborate, being simplicity itself, for what can be simpler in any problem than a straight line, or an intersection of two straight lines. It possesses also the merit of economy, both in material, structure, and design. There is nothing imposing about it, since the beacons, as "Skipper Brand" should know, are in most cases constructed of wood, and painted such colour as will contract with the background.

No costly light towers are required, as the beacons for use by day also serve the purpose of the lighthouse by night, the lights being attached to them, to which the now almost universal system of electricity could be applied at very small cost, with the very best result. The multiplicity of lights so much dreaded by him need not cause him any uneasiness of mind, for even he should know that if they were innumerable, as he suggests, only two of them could possibly be in use at the time by any one ship, and that the use of them is confined always to navigators qualified to use them.

Therefore the Festu scheme can be safely recommended as being absolutely the best for the following reasons—economy, efficiency, and simplicity—and at the same time it will bring Sydney into line with a system everywhere adopted, and with which every shipmaster and officer is perfectly familiar.

The Toms, Dicks, and Harrys of your correspondent (although according to him not practical seamen) recognised this at first sight, and have readily endorsed the scheme.

Then your correspondent hits out at the ferry skippers as being, in his opinion, in some way responsible for the movement. This is really too bad. They are a fine body of men, conducting an important industry, and have my unbounded admiration. Placed in their position I fear "Skipper Brand" would cut a most sorry figure. These men show marvellous skill and unerring judgment, handling their vessels with the utmost regularity, and almost absolute freedom from mishap of any kind, while conveying their priceless human freights. They deserve the gratitude of all people, and that a reflection is cast on them should call down upon the head of your correspondent such condemnation as would in truth brand him as being absolutely incapable of expressing an acceptable opinion on any subject. I am not without hope that some day the great public of Sydney will remember their obligation to these men, and will recognise it in such a manner as will do credit to all concerned.

I am, etc., R. ROBERT.

THE TIRED AUSTRALIAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As one of your numerous readers I would like to give you my experience in England as one of the tired Australians.

I had about a third-rate training here as a dentist, and had a rather poor opinion of my ability. I was prepared to find the English dentists ahead in every way.

I stopped at Capetown and accepted a situation as dental mechanic. There I met three English L.D.S. men, and was surprised to find I had a better all-round knowledge of dentistry. I could do all they could, and a lot they could not do, and do it faster and better.

I stayed there six months and went to London. I found the boarding-houses charged 25s a week for board inferior to what can be obtained here for 18s.

I applied to the largest dental manufacturing company to see what chance there was of a situation. First, I was met with the difficulty that the wages were to low; then there were about 100 men before me. After four weeks they offered me a situation where apparently they had tried most of the 100. This was in one of the largest West End practices, and employed three men before I came, and gave his best work out. After I came I did all the work with only a boy to sweep, etc, and no work was given out. I soon found that sweating was the rule, and was expected to work about an hour overtime every night. After three weeks I gave notice to leave, with the result he agreed I should not work overtime, and increased my wages £1 a week. I stayed there five months, and earned the reputation of being equal to, or better than, the best dental mechanic in England. This man's workroom cost him £8 a week before I came, he paid me double what he had paid before, yet saved £2 10s a week. I was also asked—Why was it that Australians who came to London generally got the best billets? I found the average Briton was slow and knew less of what went on outside England than can be said of the Australians.

Australians do lack politeness and deference to their elders, but most of the politeness of the British is abject servility. The average employee is afraid he will lose his situation and it will be impossible to get another. I noticed men scrubbing floors and doorsteps, and it struck me however much the Briton refuses to be a slave abroad he is one at home.

I am, etc.,

DON'T NEGLECT
A COMMON CASE OF PILES.
IT MAY LEAD TO SERIOUS RESULTS.

When people generally understand that all such fatal diseases as fistula, ulcer of the rectum, fissure, etc, almost invariably begin in a simple case of piles, they will learn the wisdom of taking prompt treatment for the first appearance of this trouble. Doan's Ointment will certainly cure every form of piles, itching, bleeding, protruding, and blind piles, and hundreds of lives have been saved by using this cheap but effective remedy right at the start, because at such times a single pot will effect a cure, while in the old, deep-seated, chronic cases several pots are sometimes necessary to cure. Here is a case:—

Mr. William Gilliver, of Gilliver and Son, general contractors, whose private address is Avoca, Bankstown, writes:—"I have previously written you, stating that Doan's Ointment had cured me of itching piles after twenty-two years' affliction. I had let six months go by before I wrote that letter, as I wished to see if the cure were a permanent one, and it has proved to be so. I had used many remedies in those twenty-two years' suffering, and could scarcely believe that only half a pot of ointment could work such a cure. Since I wrote first I have had more lasting proof of the permanency of the good this preparation has done me. I have had no occasion to use Doan's Ointment since. It was a permanent cure. Many people have written me about Doan's Ointment, and I advised them all to give it a trial; and now I want to make a public statement, so that all sufferers may know that Doan's Ointment will permanently cure Itching Piles."

There is no need for you to go on suffering with piles or any other torturing skin irritation, for there is a safe, sure, and proved cure in Doan's Ointment. Get this remedy to-day, and put an end to your suffering. Doan's Ointment is sold by all Chemists and Storekeepers at 2s 9d per pot, or will be posted on receipt of price by Foster-McClellan Co., 76 Pitt-street, Sydney.

But be sure you get Doan's.—Advt.

AUSTRALIAN MUTUAL PROVIDENT SOCIETY.

ESTABLISHED, 1849.

Notice is hereby given that a SPECIAL MEETING of the Members of this Society will be held in the Hall of the Y.M.C.A., Bathurst-street, Sydney, at Two O'clock in the Afternoon of TUESDAY, the 18th Day of OCTOBER, 1910, for the purpose of considering the following alterations in and additions to the Bylaws of the Society:—

EXISTING BYLAWS.

I.—Every person, on applying for admission as a Member of the Society, shall make such declarations and furnish such information and evidence in regard to the application as the Board or Local Board may require. And it shall be in the power of the Board or Local Board to accept or reject any such application as they may think fit.

II.—Policies for one hundred pounds of assurance and over containing the terms of the contract and the obligations of the parties thereto shall be subscribed by two of the Directors or by two Directors of a Local Board, and countersigned by the Secretary or a Resident Secretary. Policies for under one hundred pounds of assurance shall be issued subject to such formalities as the Board may prescribe. Such Policies shall be delivered to each Member on admission, and on payment of the first contribution; and by acceptance of such Policy the Member shall be bound by the Bylaws, Rules, and Regulations of the Society. Any variation in the mode of payment of moneys payable under Policies shall be sufficiently evidenced if subscribed and countersigned as herein provided in respect of the original Policies or otherwise as the Board may determine.

IV.—The Board may, upon application to that effect, issue Policies not to participate in profits on such tables or rates as the Board may determine.

V.—The Board shall have power to issue Policies to persons resident in the Commonwealth of Australia, the Colonies of New Zealand and Fiji, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the British South African Colonies.

LVIII.—The Board shall have power to revise, remodel, adjust, or extend the tables of the Society, and from time to time make such orders as may be deemed expedient for the framing of any calculations of rates for cases to meet which the Society may have no complete tables. No alteration or extension of the tables shall, however, be made, and no new tables shall be adopted without the approval of at least one professional actuary.

VI.—The Policy shall be void, and the benefits assured shall be forfeited, and all claims on or interest in the funds of the Society shall cease and determine, if the proposal and declaration made at admission, as the basis of the contract, shall be found to be fraudulently untrue in any particular, or if the assured shall, whether sane or insane, die by his own hands within one year and thirty days from the commencement of the risk, as defined in the Policy. Provided always that should any other person or persons have a bona fide interest in any Policy issued on the life of an assured dying by his own hands, acquired by assignment or by legal or equitable lien, then, upon proof being furnished to the satisfaction of the Board of the extent of such interest, the funds of the Society shall be liable to pay to such person an amount equal to such interest as determined by the Board.

VII.—Where any person proposing to become a member of the Society, or on whose life a proposal for assurance shall be made, shall at the time be resident beyond the authorised limits, the Directors shall have power to make such special agreements or stipulations relative to the limits of residence as they may think proper, and at any time to grant such license as the circumstances of the case may seem to them to require. In all cases in which a Policy is rendered void, those of fraud excepted, the Directors shall have power to revive the same or to make such allowances to those who would otherwise have had an interest therein, as to the Directors may seem fit; and in cases of innocent error as to age to make such arrangements, with a view to the correction of the error and its consequences as they may deem equitable. The Directors may appoint any officer or officers of the Society to reinstate Policies that may have lapsed owing to the nonpayment of premiums.

VIII.—Every Policy now effected, or hereafter to be effected, with the society (provided the age of the assured shall have been admitted), shall, upon the expiration of five years from the date of the assurance, and upon the assured having attained thirty years of age, be exempt from forfeiture in all cases except fraud, unless previously to the expiration of such five years any mis-statement, error, mistake, omission, or suppression shall be ascertained by the Society, and notified in writing to the person in whose name such Policy shall stand. Any notification in writing by registered letter to the person in whose name a Policy stands, or who, in the opinion of the Board, may be interested therein, as to any misstatement, error, mistake, omission, or suppression, ascertained by the Society, shall, after the expiration of one month from the posting of such letter, in the discretion of the Board, be proof of the fact that an adjustment or amendment of the contract is equitable and necessary, and such adjustment as may in the discretion of the Board of the said Society, be considered necessary may then be made in such Policy, and shall be binding upon all persons interested therein. This Bylaw shall apply to all conditions of forfeiture contained in all Policies heretofore issued. The failure or omission to pay the premium shall not render a Policy void, so long as the surrender value of such Policy, as fixed by the Board, after deduction of any loan or charge thereon, is available by the Society, and is sufficient for the payment of the premium then due. Any sum as appropriated shall carry interest at such rate as the Board shall determine, and shall be a charge upon the Policy.

X.—No greater risk shall be taken on any one life than the sum of £10,000 irrespective of bonuses.

XIX.—The amount of remuneration to be paid to the Directors for their services shall be One thousand eight hundred and fifty pounds per annum, of which the Chairman shall receive three hundred and fifty pounds.

XXIV.—The granting of pensions and gratuities to retiring Officers is inconsistent with the principles and objects of the Society, and shall in no case be allowed without the consent of a Special General Meeting.

XXV.—Every officer of the Society or other person who shall be appointed to any office touching or concerning receipt, management, or expenditure of any money of the Society shall give such security as the Board may require.

XXVII. There shall be two Auditors of the Society, each of whom shall hold the same qualifications which a Director is required to hold, and each Auditor shall be liable to the disqualifications contained in Bylaw XIII.

XXVIII. In addition to the disqualifications contained in Bylaw XIII. an Auditor shall be also disqualified if he shall for the space of seven days after the Secretary shall have intimated that any books, balance-sheet, or statement of accounts are prepared or ready for the inspection of the Auditors, neglect or shall at any time be unable or unwilling to act. At each annual meeting the Auditor then longest in office shall retire, but shall be eligible for re-election. At such meeting an Auditor shall be elected by show of hands of the members present in person, unless a ballot shall be demanded in terms of Bylaw XLV., in which event the Chairman of the meeting shall forthwith appoint a day on which such ballot shall be taken, at the Head Office in Sydney, and such ballot shall be restricted to members attending personally. No member shall at any annual meeting be eligible for election as Auditor unless notice in writing of his being a candidate shall have been given to the Board or the Secretary at least thirty clear days previous to such meeting. If both Auditors shall have been in office for the same period it shall be determined by lot (unless mutually agreed upon) which shall be the retiring Auditor. Should no election take place, or should any vacancy occur by resignation or by reason of any of the before-mentioned disqualifications, the Board may appoint an Auditor or Auditors to hold office until the next Annual Meeting.

XXX. The remuneration to be paid to each of the Auditors shall be Two hundred pounds annually.

XXXII.—The Board shall lay out and invest the Society's funds in all or any of the modes following, or may from time to time vary or transpose any investments made for or into others of any nature hereby authorised at their discretion, and such investments may be made either by the Board or by Local Boards having authority in that behalf, subject to such limitations and control as the Board may impose:—

1. In the purchase of or advances on:—(a) Public or Government securities of Great Britain or of the Commonwealth of Australia, or of any State thereof, or of any Colony, State, or possession of the British Empire. (b) Any stocks, funds, or securities guaranteed by the British Government.
2. Upon the security of freehold or leasehold property within the Commonwealth of Australia, the Colony of New Zealand, and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, excepting Crown lands held under pastoral or mineral lease.
3. In the purchase of or at interest upon reversionary interests or life interests in funds or estates, together with, where necessary, the security of policies of assurance.
4. On deposit or current account, with the ordinary bankers of the Society and any incorporated joint stock bank or banks making returns to the Government according to law.
5. In the purchase or taking upon lease of premises or of land on which to build premises, in whole or in part, for offices for the use of the Society in any part of the Commonwealth of Australia, and the Colonies of New Zealand and Fiji, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the British South African Colonies, and in building such premises.
6. Upon the security of city, municipal, borough rates or other rates, tolls, or dues, raisable or made chargeable by or under the authority of any Act of the Parliament of any of the States of the Commonwealth of Australia or of the Colony of New Zealand.
7. In repairing, adding to, building upon, or otherwise improving the properties, the equities of redemption in which have been or hereafter may be acquired by foreclosure or in any other manner.
8. In the purchase of or advances on:—(a) Bonds, debentures, mortgages, or other securities of any municipality, public commissioners or trust, or other public body, secured upon any undertakings or works or upon the rates, tolls, dues, or revenues, raisable, leviable, or obtainable therefrom. Provided that such undertakings or works and any such bonds, debentures, mortgages, or other securities issued, raised, or to be given in connection therewith have been duly authorised under or by virtue of any Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom or of any Colony or State of the British Empire or any Act of the Commonwealth of Australia.

XXXVIII.—Notice of every meeting of the Society, setting forth the purposes for which it is convened, and the time and place at which it is to be held, shall be given by public advertisement in New South Wales, not less than twice in two newspapers; the first of such advertisements to be at least forty clear days before such meeting; and also in the other States of the Commonwealth of Australia and the Colonies of New Zealand and Fiji, once at least during as nearly as practicable the same period.

XLVI.—Any person or persons holding the Power of Attorney of any member having business under the management of such attorney, if such member have appointed no proxy as aforesaid, and if voting at any meeting be within the scope of such Power of Attorney, shall be entitled to vote on behalf of such member, provided that such Power of Attorney shall have been previously produced to the Secretary or a Resident Secretary for examination and be determined by him to be sufficient, and any person holding such Power of Attorney can also vote at the election of Directors.

PROPOSED ALTERATIONS AND ADDITIONS.

Omit existing Bylaws I., II., IV., V., the first part of Bylaw VII. down to the word "require," and LVIII., and insert in lieu thereof the following:—

The Board shall have power to issue Policies in the Commonwealth of Australia, the Dominion of New Zealand, the Colony of Fiji, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the British South African Colonies. The Board may make such regulations, variations, terms, and conditions with regard to Policies as in the interests of the Society it may deem equitable and expedient; and also may frame, revise, remodel, adjust, or extend the tables of the Society, and from time to time make such orders as may be deemed advisable for the framing of any calculations of rates for cases to meet which the Society may have no complete tables. No form of Policy and no alteration or extension of the tables shall be introduced, and no new tables shall be adopted, without the approval of at least one professional actuary. The Board may, upon application to that effect, issue Policies not to participate in profits on such tables or rates as it may determine. The Board may require in connection with the issue of any Policies or the taking of any risk such statements, proposals, information, and evidence as it may deem necessary, and may accept or decline any proposal or risk.

As soon as a proponent for a Policy shall have paid the first premium, and the risk shall have been accepted by the Board, the Proponent shall thereupon become a Member, and be bound by the Bylaws, Rules and Regulations of the Society, and a Policy shall be issued to such Member as soon as practicable.

Every Policy for one hundred pounds of assurance and over containing the terms of the contract and the obligations of the parties thereto shall be subscribed by two of the Directors, or by two Directors of a Local Board, and countersigned by the Secretary or a Resident Secretary. Every Policy for under one hundred pounds of assurance shall be issued subject to such formalities as the Board may prescribe. Any variation or alteration in a Policy shall be sufficiently evidenced if subscribed and countersigned as herein provided in respect of the original policies, or otherwise, as the Board may determine.

Omit Bylaw VI. and balance of VII. from "require," and insert in lieu thereof the following:—

Any Policy shall be void, and the benefits assured shall be forfeited, and all claims on or interest in the funds of the Society shall cease and determine in any of the events specified under the following heads; that is to say:—

- (a) If either the proposal or personal statement made at admission as the basis of the contract shall be found to be fraudulently untrue in any particular.
- (b) If the assured shall, whether sane or insane, die by his own hands within one year and thirty days from the commencement of the risk as defined by the Policy. Provided always that should any other person have a bona-fide interest in any policy issued on the life of an assured dying by his own hand as aforesaid, acquired for value in money or money's worth, by assignment or by legal or equitable lien at a date being at least two calendar months anterior to such death, then the funds of the Society shall be liable to pay such person an amount equal to such interest, if the sums assured will admit, but no more.
- (c) If the premium shall be in arrear and unpaid beyond the days of grace fixed by the Board for the payment of the same. Provided that the failure or omission to pay the premium shall not render the Policy void so long as the surrender value of such Policy as fixed by the Board, after deduction of any loan or charge thereon, is sufficient for the payment of the premium then due. The Board may appropriate a sufficient portion of such surrender value towards the payment of any premium due, and any sum so appropriated shall bear interest at such rate as the Board shall determine, and shall be a charge upon the Policy, and may be deducted from any moneys payable under the Policy.

In any case in which a policy is rendered void, that of fraud excepted, the Board shall have power to revive the same, or to make such allowances to any person who would otherwise have had an interest therein, as to the Board may seem fit; and in any case of innocent error as to age to make such arrangements with a view to the correction of the error and its consequences as it may deem equitable. Any officer appointed by the Board for that purpose may reinstate upon such terms and conditions as it may determine any Policy that may have lapsed owing to the nonpayment of premiums.

BY-LAW VIII.—Omit the words "and upon the assured having attained thirty years of age." Also omit the last two sentences, commencing with the words "The failure or omission to pay the premium."

NOTE.—These last sentences have been incorporated in sub-clause (c) above.

BYLAW IX.—Insert the words "in writing" after the word "notice"; omit the words "in writing" after the words "given to the Society"; also insert the words "shall have been" in place of the words "be duly".

Omit By-law X., and insert in lieu thereof the following:—

The Board shall have power to issue Policies of assurance for such capital sums as it may deem expedient. Provided always that no greater sum than £10,000 exclusive of bonus additions shall at one time stand at the Society's own risk on any one life, and in every case in which the Board shall agree to issue a Policy by which the aggregate sum assured upon one life would be more than £10,000 exclusive as aforesaid, they shall be bound at the time of issuing such Policy to take out reassurances to the amount of the excess with such other Life Assurance Association or Company as the Board may select, and the Society shall maintain such reassurances as long as may be necessary to limit its own risk to £10,000 exclusive as aforesaid on such one life. Provided always that the reassurer shall accept a rate of premium not greater than that which is payable under the Society's Policy, and shall be liable to pay a rate of bonus not less than that which shall be declared by the Society and shall be bound by the same terms and conditions as are comprised in the Policy issued by the Society.

The Board may grant to any other Life Assurance Association or Company a reassurance on any life that it may approve of on such terms and conditions, including those relating to rates of premium and bonus, as may be contained in the Policy issued by such Association or Company. Provided that the Board shall not grant any such reassurance for an amount exceeding the sum of £10,000 exclusive of bonus additions on any one life. Provided, further, that no such reassurance shall be granted to any Association or Company for an amount exceeding the sum held at risk on such life by such Association or Company itself.

BY-LAW XI.—Omit the words "Act of Incorporation," and insert in lieu thereof "Australian Mutual Provident Society's Act, 1910."

BY-LAW XIII (Directors' disqualifications).—Insert at end "if he be found to be lunatic or become of unsound mind."

BY-LAW XVII.—Omit after the word "State" the words "and Colony where business is carried on by the Society," and insert in lieu thereof the words "of the Commonwealth of Australia, in the Dominion of New Zealand, and the Colony of Fiji."

Omit By-law XIX., and insert in lieu thereof the following:—

The amount of remuneration to be paid to the Directors for their services shall be two thousand six hundred pounds per annum, of which the Chairman shall receive five hundred pounds.

Omit By-law XXIV., and insert in lieu thereof the following:—

No pension or gratuity to a retiring officer shall be allowed without the consent of a Special General Meeting.

Omit By-law XXV., and insert in lieu thereof the following:—

Every officer of the Society or other person who shall be appointed to any office touching or concerning receipt, management, or expenditure of any money of the Society, shall give such security, if any, as the Board may require, or the Board may enter into such indemnity and guarantee arrangements with its officers, or any of them, or such other person as it may deem expedient.

Omit By-law XXVII. and first part of XXVIII. down to the words "unwilling to act," and insert in lieu thereof the following:—

There shall be two Auditors of the Society, each of whom must be a member and shall not be eligible for or qualified to retain office as an Auditor unless he shall be over the age of 30 and the holder of a paid-up policy on his own life for a sum of not less than £500, or be and continue a contributor to the funds of the Society of not less than fifteen pounds per annum by virtue of a policy or policies issued in his own name not pledged or assigned to or made security for advances from the Society, or

- If he hold any other office or place of profit under the Society.
- If he be a bankrupt or compromise or compound with his creditors, or assign his estate for their benefit.
- If he be concerned in or participate in the profits of any contract with the Society, except such contract be made by a Company of which such Auditor is a member.
- If he resign his position and his resignation be accepted.
- If he assign, mortgage, or encumber the policy or policies forming his qualification, and of such dealing notice be given to the Society.
- If he become indebted to the Society for advances on mortgage of real or leasehold estate.
- If he be surety or trustee for any officer of the Society or his creditor for money lent to an amount exceeding five pounds.
- If he be a Director, Auditor, Agent, or Officer of any other life assurance Society, Office, or Company engaged in the business of life assurance in the Commonwealth of Australia, the Dominion of New Zealand, or the Colony of Fiji.
- If he be found to be lunatic or become of unsound mind.
- If he shall for the space of seven days after the Secretary shall have intimated that any books, balance sheet, or statement of accounts are prepared or ready for his inspection, neglect, or shall at any time be unable or unwilling, to act.

Omit Bylaw XXX. and insert in lieu thereof the following:—

The remuneration to be paid to each of the Auditors shall be Three hundred pounds annually.

Bylaw XXXI. Omit the words "and the Colonies of New Zealand and", and insert in lieu thereof the words "the Dominion of New Zealand, the Colony of."

Bylaw XXXII.—Omit all that portion after the words "may impose" and insert the following:—

1. In the purchase of or advances on:—(a) Public or Government securities of the United Kingdom, the Commonwealth of Australia, or of any State thereof, the Dominion of New Zealand, or of any State, Colony, or possession of the British Empire. (b) Any stocks, funds, or securities, guaranteed by the British Government.
2. Upon the security of freehold or leasehold property within the Commonwealth of Australia, the Dominion of New Zealand, the United Kingdom, the Colony of Fiji, and the British South African Colonies, excepting Crown lands held under pastoral or mineral lease.
3. In the purchase of or at interest upon reversionary interests or life interests in funds or estates.
4. On deposit or current account with the ordinary bankers of the Society or any joint stock bank or banks.
5. In the purchase or taking upon lease of premises or of land on which to build premises, in whole or in part, for offices for the use of the Society in any part of the Commonweath of Australia, the Dominion of New Zealand, the Colony of Fiji, the United Kingdom, and the British South African Colonies, and in building such premises.
6. In advances upon the security of city, municipal, shire, borough, or other rates, tolls, or dues, raisable or made chargeable by or under the authority of any Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, or of the Commonwealth of Australia, or of any State thereof, or of the Dominion of New Zealand, or of any State, Colony, or possession of the British Empire.
7. In repairing, adding to, building upon, or otherwise improving the properties, the equities of redemption in which have been or hereafter may be acquired by foreclosure or in any other manner.
8. In the purchase of or advances upon bonds, debentures, mortgages, or other securities of any city, municipality, shire, borough, public commissioners, or trust, public body, corporation, or company, secured upon any undertakings or works, or upon the rates, tolls, dues, or revenues raisable, leviable, or obtainable therefrom. Provided that the power to carry on or construct such undertakings, or works, and to issue or give bonds, debentures, mortgages, or other securities in connection therewith, has been duly conferred under or by virtue of any Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, or of the Commonwealth of Australia, or of any State thereof, or of the Dominion of New Zealand, or of any State, Colony, or possession of the British Empire. Provided further that in the case of a company registered under the Companies Act such undertaking or works as aforesaid shall have been authorised by some express enactment extending to the company.
9. In advances upon the security of policies of assurance, whether of the said Society or any other society, corporation, or company.
10. In purchasing or otherwise acquiring equities of redemption, reversions of leaseholds, or any other outstanding interests in respect of any property the subject of a security held by the society under which default has been made.

BY-LAW XXXIII.—Insert in two places in lieu of the word "Directors" the word "Board."

BY-LAW XXXVI.—After the words "Sydney in" insert the words "or before".

Note.—This alteration would enable the Annual Meeting to be held before the month of May if expedient.

BY-LAW XXXVII.—After the words "objects authorised in" omit the words "its Acts of Incorporation" and insert in lieu thereof "the 'Australian Mutual Provident Society's Act, 1910.'" Omit the last paragraph as follows:—"No business shall be transacted at any such Meeting other than that for which it shall have been specially convened."

Note.—This proviso is contained in existing Bylaw XXXIX.

BY-LAW XXXVIII.—Insert the word "Dominion" in place of "Colonies", and after the words "New Zealand and" insert the words "the Colony of." After the word "period" add the following:—"Provided always that in any case where it is necessary to convene a second meeting for finally passing or confirming any resolution such meeting shall be convened for a date not earlier than 14 days after the date of the first meeting. The two meetings may be convened by one and the same notice and it shall be no objection to such notice that it only convenes the second meeting contingently on the resolution being passed at the first meeting."

BY-LAW XLIV.—Insert after the word "discussion" the words "and shall be decided by a show of hands, and no ballot shall be demanded thereon."

Note.—This is a mere formal amendment setting out the established procedure and is in accordance with the Society's Act.

BY-LAW XLV.—After the words "revokes all the others" insert the following:—"The instrument appointing any proxy shall be deposited at such office as the Board may determine not less than 48 hours before the time for holding the meeting at which the proxy named in such instrument proposes to vote"; and after the words "each member shall only have one vote" insert the following—"except that in the case of an equality of votes the Chairman shall have a casting vote in addition to the vote to which he may be entitled as a member."

Note.—The latter provision is in accordance with the Society's Act.

OMIT BY-LAW XLVI and insert in lieu thereof the following:—

Any person or persons holding the Power of Attorney of any member having business under the management of such attorney, if such member have appointed no proxy as aforesaid, and if voting at any meeting be within the scope of such Power of Attorney, shall be entitled to vote on behalf of such member at any meeting, provided that such Power of Attorney shall have been produced forty-eight hours at the least before such meeting to the Secretary or a Resident Secretary for examination, and shall have been determined by him to be sufficient, and any person holding such Power of Attorney can also vote at the election of Directors.

BY-LAW XLIX.—Omit the words "and the Colonies of New Zealand and", and insert in lieu thereof the words "the Dominion of New Zealand and the Colony of".

BY-LAW LIV.—Omit the word "Directors" in the three places in which it appears and insert in lieu thereof the word "Board."

BY-LAW LV.—Insert in lieu of the word "Directors" the word "Board."

OMIT BY-LAW LVI, which is as follows:—

"Each Annual valuation shall include all lands purchased by the Society, as well as the mortgaged properties and other securities, and shall embrace all the Colonies and shall be made by such person or persons as the Board shall appoint."

Note.—This By-law is covered by existing By-law LIV.

Note.—The alterations as above made in existing By-laws 9, 11, 17, 31, 33, 37, 49, 54, and 55 do not alter their effect and are merely formal.

A resolution will be submitted that the By-laws which it is not proposed to alter, together with such of the amendments and additions to the By-laws above proposed as may be finally passed, shall be numbered as may be necessary, and in any By-law where another By-law is mentioned by reference to its number the new number shall be inserted in lieu of the old number.

Members unable to attend personally may vote by proxy. Forms of proxy may be obtained on written or personal application at any office or agency of the Society.

By order of the Board.

THE WEEK IN LONDON.

AN AUSTRALIAN'S NOTES.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The August Tradition.

LONDON, August 5.

Among the traditions of London are some which the soujourner from afar finds lacking in substantial basis of authority. They have survived, apparently, by a species of parasitic tenacity. They have clung fast to such of their fellows as are four-square by right of tenure, and they have flourished under shelter of them. The stranger, coming upon these lesser hardy growths, is inclined to suspicion both of them, and their firmer-rooted supports. But he is wrong in respect of the latter, at least. Not all tradition cumbers its ground space, and there is many a survival of the immemorial past which is well worth its room. Further, among that baser body of London tradition which is so little worth preserving, is some that would be gladly dispensed with if it had not established place, or could be eluded. Unpleasant tradition, sometimes, this, and sometimes merely that which must be obeyed. Of such is the tradition of the London August. It is inescapable, and it has its rights. The London August, indeed, holds indubitable advantage as a tradition. It has the virtue of adaptability. It can be either wearisome, or a refreshment to the soul. That it really is a tradition, thousands of Londoners are attesting to-day, both actively and passively. They are out in the enjoyment of August, or they are groaning and travailing under the heavy and the weary weight of it. Moreover, they have watched the month's approach these many days past. They have anticipated it with joy, or they have patiently faced it as inevitable. The joys of August are obvious to us Londoners. So are its poorer attributes. The bad eminence of priority belongs to these latter, I think.

The Dog-Days.

August's chief misfortune is in the fact that it is the month of aggravated summer. An astronomical fiction has it that when August is signalled, midsummer is long past. We know better than that. We know, for one thing, that our chance of any summer at all is flimsy enough, and for another thing, that that week of June in which midsummer day occurs, finds us, as often as not, hard-pressed for normal warmth. Even the advent of August has caught us, in these latter years, dubious as to the remnant of summer still to be vouchsafed us. But ordinarily, when August is really upon us, there is no more room for doubt. In that aspect of it the traditional fear of August is soundly-enough based. August carries the dog days. By immemorial consent it is the month of inaction. The official midsummer month may have given grudgingly of its sunshine, and July may have been sportively uncertain. August remains to us immovably dark and steamy, and oppressive. The weight of its mass of inertia is upon us all. To do anything in the dog days is a weariness, to do much an impossibility. Affairs recede into dim obscurity of significance, become the merest shadows of what is. The great world of action swings on outside us. We know things are happening, but they are nebulous and of no account. This very letter is evidence enough that August is the only thing that matters, at least to its writer; and for most of us alike, events have lost all suggestion of importance. Such Londoners as remain in London go about their city subdued into sluggishness. There is even an absence of silk hats. It is a significant sign of the time. Your city man in every other month, shinily impeccable in respect of his head-wear, bows to the tradition of August, and puts on straw. That sacrificial disfigurement, that yielding of a cherished remnant of outer significance, is his votive offering at the shrine of August. But it is insufficient. The month is relentlessly imperative in spite of it, and even though they be straw-hatted, or felt-hatted, or not hatted at all, men pace the London streets conscious that they remain out of harmony with August. Leaden-footed clerks turn disconsolately into their offices. The precincts of the bank swarm with wearied financiers, and tired-eyed merchants, who once were the happy alert. Thousands of uninviting spaces in the West End, which a month ago were teeming business establishments, now house few other than their assistants, languidly in waiting for reluctant customers. Some theatres are closed; others struggle as best they can against the prevailing ennui. In Mayfair, blinds are down, and the show streets of the West End are, for the most part, given up to the tireless American tourists, who know not even August as a tradition. For the rest of us, August in London is a blank, and depressing month.

The Joys of August.

It holds, however, a compensating other side. By reason of that other side the Londoner's August is at once the desert of the year and its oasis. If some thousands are doomed to the enervating spell of its dog-days, other thousands come upon it through the glamour of its holidays. In that aspect of it tradition is strong upon August. In that aspect of it the very name of the month, even when it is yet far off, has suggestion of rest and refreshment. In thousands of homes plans for the due garnering of its joys are made weeks beforehand. The thought of it has power to spur on to their tasks hosts of jaded men and women. The promise of it suffices to urge unnumbered toilers of the city to live through the present in hope of what it holds for them. For if August is the month of heat and inertia, it is also, and by long-conceded privilege, the people's month of holiday. Even the very poor people know it for a respite from the unavailing struggle, while in all ranks alike it signals the pause of the year. That is no mere hazard of arrangement which ushers August in with the great carnival of Bank Holiday, and a season of relaxation through all the length and breadth of Great Britain. On the contrary, that trumpeting is the fittingly jubilant prelude of a joyous scheme. It is the appropriate herald of a month which thereafter, to its close, maintains its holiday level. There is fine weather in August, too—sometimes. If it rains in London, at least the sun shines at the seaside, and it is there that the lure of August has its freest play. The Londoner is bereft, by many miles, of sight of the sea. Thus its attraction for him is irresistible. He guesses the boon of its open spaces. He is never quite without hope of a season spent within call of it. When August comes hope intensifies to realisation. Londoners are out on the seashore to-day in tens of thousands, and every day go other batches of city people to join them in the breezy Channel bays. And more than they, and keenest in pursuit of enjoyment, and happiest in possession of it, go the children. Tens of thousands of them are daily strewn upon the sunny English coast, and wherever a strip of yellow sand or the rough shingle of a beach gives them room they make summer holiday where it is best made—within sound of the tumbling waters, and among the myriad wonders of the sea.

THROWING EGGS.

AT A NO-LICENSE MEETING.

At the North Sydney Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Love, D.S.M., John Peters was called upon to answer a charge of throwing eggs to the danger of persons in Lane Cove-road, Gordon, on August 22 last. It was stated that during a "no-license" meeting defendant threw an egg at Mr. Hansen, a no-license advocate, who was delivering an address. On being told that the eggs which were thrown at the speaker were fresh, the magistrate imposed a fine of £1, or in default seven days' imprisonment.

EVERY MOTHER'S DUTY.
So much prominence has been given to the danger lurking in a bottle of medicine containing opium or other narcotics that it is the duty of every mother to know something about the medicine she is giving her child.
We want every mother to know that she can give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to her youngest child with as much confidence as to the oldest member of the family, for it contains no opium or other narcotics.
This is not merely an assertion of our own, but each bottle bears the Government analysis, showing that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been officially declared free from all narcotics.—Advt.

LAW REPORT.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

THE MAP CASE AGAIN.

Banks v Williams.

Dr. Brissenden and Mr. Curtis, instructed by Mr. Arthur Deery, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Lamb, K.C., and Mr. Weigall, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, for the defendant. This was an action brought by William John Banks against James Leslie Williams (nominal defendant) to recover compensation from the Government for breach of contract in reference to the construction of an embossed map of New South Wales for the Department of Public Instruction. Dr. Brissenden, in explaining the case to the jury, said that they had not to try the existence of the contract or the breach, as those matters had already been determined. The only question was as to the amount of damages to which the plaintiff was entitled. The contract was one of a somewhat peculiar nature, and concerned a piece of work which, in the form in which it was contracted for at all events, had never been done before in the State. It was one by which the plaintiff agreed with the Minister for Public Instruction, on behalf of the Government, to construct certain maps for the Department of Public Instruction, and they were to be in relief, showing the elevations and depressions of the country on a certain scale agreed upon by the parties. Plaintiff was to construct 2000 maps, and they were to be taken by the Government at the rate of 500 in each year, plaintiff to receive £1 10s for each map supplied. The whole amount, therefore, which he would be entitled to receive would be £3000. The contract was accompanied by a specification providing for certain technical details, such as colouring, matters which were to be included in the maps, and other things. The contract, which the Government broke, commenced on September 23, 1903, and was cancelled by the Government on June 4, 1908. On the latter date the contract was still unfinished, and the question the jury had to consider, subject to his Honor's direction, was to what extent the plaintiff had been injured pecuniarily by the refusal of the Department of Public Instruction to proceed with the contract. The £3000 claimed by the plaintiff would be subject to certain deductions, including the amount which it would have cost him to complete the contract, and the value of the materials still on hand. The payment had also to extend over a period of four years, and after making the necessary deductions the jury would arrive at the amount to which plaintiff was entitled.

The case is part heard.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and juries.)

A MERCANTILE DISPUTE.

M'Donald and another v Dalgety and Co., Ltd.

His Honor summed up in this case, and the jury retired to consider the verdict.

After some hours' retirement, the jury asked whether the parties would be prepared to accept a majority verdict. The parties agreed to accept the verdict, and the jury, by majority, found for defendants in the sum of £269 13s 3d. The case was tried as a commercial cause, and the verdict, therefore, was to the effect that the defendants were entitled to set off against the plaintiff's action for damages the amount of £269 13s 3d in excess of the sum claimed by plaintiffs.

SALE OF A LAUNCH.

Barnard v Bale.

Mr. Mack, instructed by Messrs. Sullivan Bros., appeared for the plaintiff, George Barnard, trading as Barnard and Co.; and Mr. J. Sheridan, instructed by Messrs. Lobban and Lobban, for the defendant, John Bale, farmer, of the Clarence River. This case was one in which plaintiff claimed £90 for balance of money due for a motor launch supplied by plaintiff to defendant, and sent to the Clarence River for defendant. On the other hand, defendant brought a cross-action against plaintiff for damages sustained by loss of business caused by the failure of plaintiff to supply the launch equipped up to agreement. Defendant claimed the damages as a set-off against the claim for £90, and asked for any excess beyond £50 he had already paid for the launch to be awarded him.

The case stands part heard.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF.

Rudd v another v Byrnes.

Mr. E. Milner Stephen, instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Jaques, and Stephen, appeared for the plaintiffs in a writ for ejectment issued by J. V. I. Rudd and A. J. Keane, against T. J. Byrnes, of the Union Club Hotel, Wagga Wagga, in respect of an allotment in Bayliss and Forsyth streets, South Wagga. There was no appearance for defendant, and a verdict was by direction recorded for plaintiffs.

EQUITY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson.)

ATTACHMENT ORDER ASKED.

The Sydney Milk and Ice Company applied for a writ of attachment to issue against William Moir for contempt of a decree made on August 5 last. The decree was made restraining Moir until February 4, 1912, from soliciting or serving the customers of the plaintiff company in whose employ he had been, within a radius of five miles from their depot in Ivy-street, Redfern, with milk.

Mr. I. B. Norris, instructed by Mr. M. I. Brown, appeared for the plaintiff company, and Mr. Breckenridge, instructed by Mr. E. J. Peterson, for the defendant.

His Honor granted a writ of attachment, but ordered it to lie in the office for 14 days on defendant undertaking to obey the decree in the meantime, and to take steps within seven days to set aside the decree. If he did not move within that period, or did not obey the decree, the writ to be enforced.

IN DIVORCE.

BARDEN v BARDEN, FAITHFULL AND M'GREGOR CO-RESPONDENTS.

Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. James, instructed by Messrs. Morgan and Morgan, appeared for petitioner, Stanley Frederick Barden; Mr. J. C. Gannon, K.C., Mr. Black, and Mr. Chubb, instructed by Mr. W. M. Daley, for the respondent, Elsie Barden; Mr. Pickburn, and Mr. Martin, instructed by Messrs. Gannon and Sons for Gordon Faithfull, who was joined as a co-respondent; and Mr. Bradburn, instructed by Mr. A. S. Bolton, for Christopher M'Gregor, who was also joined as a co-respondent.

The suit was one brought by the husband for divorce on the ground of misconduct against his wife, Elsie Jane Barden (formerly Robinson), such misconduct being alleged to have been committed with Gordon Faithfull and Christopher M'Gregor. There were counter charges of cruelty and misconduct and condonation of the misconduct (if any) brought by the wife against the husband.

Petitioner said that he was married to respondent in June, 1905, according to the rites of the Church of England, by Rev. J. Howell Price. There was one child of the marriage. Witness said he objected to his wife's companionship with a certain girl, and often had to remonstrate with her for absenting herself from his home till late hours at night. On one occasion witness said he prevented his wife going out the front door, and she said she would go out the back. He thereupon locked the back door also. Witness had frequent quarrels with his wife, who said she would do as she liked. Witness, after seeing his wife with Faithfull coming out of a certain house, remonstrated with her, and left his home with his little boy. He went to his people at Arncliffe, and his wife came to see him, and asked him to forgive her and live with her again. For the sake of avoiding scandal he went to live with his wife again, but occupied a separate room. After discovering that his wife had been out with M'Gregor witness told his wife that he would "make her and Faithfull and M'Gregor put up with it." Respondent now had the child. Petitioner said he first made the acquaintance of Faithfull through buying a gramaphone from him. Faithfull sold these machines, and frequently came to the house afterwards. He and Faithfull had been to the races together. Witness borrowed about £4 from Faithfull once. The latter borrowed some from him also.

The case stands part heard.

MARTIN v MARTIN.

Mr. T. Michell appeared for Mary Mathia Martin (formerly Roscholler), who petitioned for dissolution of her marriage with Donald Heap Martin on the grounds of desertion. The parties were married at Booligal in December, 1886, according to the rites of the Church of England.

The hearing was adjourned generally.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

A DISPUTED WILL.

Same v Hawker and others.

Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. Whitfeld, instructed by Mr. A. C. Ebsworth, appeared in each case for Frederick Charles Jones and George Hubert Stanfield Holliday, executors of the will and codicils of Sarah Wilson, of Penrith, formerly of Lawson, widow, and moved for probate of the will. Mr. Bignold, instructed by Mr. A. D. Oliver, appeared for the defendants to oppose the application. In their affidavits applicants stated that on September 16, 1898, testatrix, being of sound and disposing mind, memory, and understanding, executed her will, and appointed defendant Charles Abraham Wilson and Dinah Fanny Jones her executor and executrix respectively. She subsequently executed several codicils, in one of which she appointed plaintiffs her executors in substitution for the defendant and Dinah F. Jones. Testatrix died on December 28, 1909, at Penrith, and plaintiffs afterwards gave due notice of their intention to apply for probate of the will and codicils; but on January 10 last, defendants lodged a caveat against probate being granted, on the ground that when she executed the will and codicils testatrix was not mentally capable of doing so, and did not know or approve of their contents. Defendants, in the second suit, Frances Hannah Hawker, Lucy Rose, and Adelaide Martin, had also caveated, and it was agreed that the suits should be heard together.

The suit was heard some time ago, and the reserved judgment was now delivered. His Honor said the late Sarah Wilson died on December 28 last, being then upwards of 90 years of age. Until the year 1901 she carried on the business of an hotelkeeper at Lawson, on the Blue Mountains, a business which had been carried on previously in the same premises by her husband in his lifetime. In the light thrown upon her by the evidence, the testatrix appeared to have been a shrewd and thrifty person, and as a result of her care and thrift she was able to leave behind her an estate of the value of about £9000, to be fought for by her descendants. The grounds of attack by the caveators were:—(1) That at the time at which the will and codicils were made the testatrix was suffering from senile dementia; and (2) that independently of this she suffered from insane delusions, which were the proximate cause of the alteration of her will in 1903, by which her son Charles' interest was cut down to a life interest, with remainder to Mrs. Jones. The insane delusions relied upon were not relied upon merely as manifestations of senile dementia, but, as he understood the argument, as indications of insanity, which existed before there were any manifestations of senile dementia. So far as the question of insane delusions was concerned, he was of opinion that the case sought to be made failed altogether. That brought him to the consideration of the question whether the evidence, as a whole, indicated that the testatrix's mental faculties were so impaired by infirmity arising from extreme old age as to render her testamentarily incapable when she executed her will and codicils. His Honor, after citing various authorities on the question, and quoting at considerable length from the evidence, said he had no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that it had been affirmatively established that in the years 1898, 1902, 1903, and 1906, the testatrix's mental powers, even if they were to some extent impaired by reason of old age, still remained sufficiently sound and vigorous to enable her to know and understand, and I am satisfied that she did know and understand all that was necessary to enable her to make a valid testament. The testamentary documents propounded must, therefore, be admitted to probate, and the defendants must pay the costs of the suit.

BANKRUPTCY COURT.

CREDITOR'S PETITION.

Binns, Wadge, and Brown, Ltd., versus A. Dixon Chater. The Registrar made an order sequestrating the estate. Mr. C. F. W. Lloyd official assignee.

CERTIFICATE APPLICATION.

Re Thomas Bellamy. Adjourned to September 6.

MEETING AND EXAMINATION.

Re Wilfred Chapman. Bankrupt did not attend, and the Registrar made an order for the matter to be brought under the notice of the Judge in Bankruptcy, under section 27 (5) of the Bankruptcy Act.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Murray.)

A LAND TRANSACTION.

In this case the plaintiff, Frank Lee Alexander, alleged false, fraudulent, and deceitful misrepresentation on the part of Lewis Parker Solomons, of 55 Boyce-street, Glebe Point, in connection with the sale of certain property at Belmore. He claimed £50, being the amount which he considered he was out of pocket over the transaction. Plaintiff, who resides in William-street, Granville, set out that he purchased the defendant's share in some land for £925, on defendant's representation that he had paid £100 as his share in the cost of buildings erected on it, when he had only paid £50. Plaintiff had, therefore, paid £50 more than he otherwise would have offered.

Defendant pleaded not guilty, and denied the misrepresentation alleged. He also denied that plaintiff had lost anything over the deal.

Mr. James (instructed by Mr. H. W. Shepbard), appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Mocatta (instructed by Abbott Tout and Co.), for the defendant.

After hearing a portion of the evidence plaintiff accepted a nonsuit.

His Honor said it was fair to the defendant to say that not only was the finding that there was not sufficient proof of the plaintiff's case, but it was a finding that through an unfortunate series of accidents there was a most unfair imputation thrown on the defendant, from which he had completely and absolutely exonerated himself. He (his Honor) was quite satisfied that the defendant did pay the money, and there was no suggestion of wrong-doing resting upon him, or which could possibly rest upon him.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before the Registrar, Mr. G. C. Addison.)

S. H. Watson, secretary of the Aerated Waters Board, proceeded against Pocock and Co. for terminating an employee's employment without giving a week's notice or a week's wages. Evidence by the employee concerned, a bottle-washer, is that he left on December 11, having received a conditional notice to leave on the previous Saturday, that if no coal could be procured he would have to stand off. He had finished 48 hours' work on the Friday night. He was also paid for 5½ hours worked on Saturday. For the defence it was stated by a member of the firm that on December 4 he notified the employees that they were all to take a week's notice, and that on the following Saturday their time expired, no conditions being mentioned. The employee was paid up to Saturday at midday, the custom being to pay till Saturday, but for the convenience of the hands pay was issued on Friday night. The Registrar reserved his decision. Mr. Croft appeared for complainant, and Mr. Cowan (instructed by Mr. F. C. Petrie) for the respondent.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Acting-Justice Fitzhardinge and Jury.)

Mr. C. A. White, Crown Prosecutor.

ACQUITTED.

Tasman Riley pleaded not guilty to a charge of having at Coogee on July 19 assaulted a girl under the age of 14. The case for the prosecution was that the girl and the accused had spoken to one another on several occasions prior to the day of the alleged assault. On the date mentioned, however, accused walked home with her, and on the way the assault was alleged to have been committed.

Accused, who was defended by Mr. E. R. Abigail, admitted having spoken to the girl on the beach. She had invited him to see her home, but he had refused. Evidence was given by accused's father, to the effect that at the time the assault was alleged to have been committed he (accused) was at home.

After a few minutes' retirement, a verdict of not guilty was returned.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

Mr. H. Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

A MYSTERIOUS DOCUMENT.

Thomas Hargreaves appealed against his conviction and sentence of six months at the Central Police Court on a charge of vagrancy. Appellant said that he considered the sentence was too severe, as he had only been in Sydney four months when he was arrested. When charged at the police court a document was handed to the magistrate. This was not read, nor was he questioned on it, and it was his opinion that it had prejudiced the magistrate. Appellant, however, admitted that his record was not a very good one, but that he had been punished for his offences. His Honor confirmed the conviction, with costs, and dismissed the appeal.

POLICE COURTS.

ROBBED WHILE HE SLEPT.

A young engineer named Cyril Dutton, gave evidence at the Central Police Court yesterday, that he was robbed of a watch, chain, hat, tie, and 15s in cash, whilst he slept on a doorstep in Cleveland and Regent streets, on the afternoon of the 29th. He was tired, and had been working during the night. Joseph Fitch, 29, was charged with the offence, and evidence was given that he pawned some of the property stolen. Fitch denied his guilt, and endeavoured to place the blame on another man. He was found guilty, and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

IMPUDENT THEFT.

David Darcy, a clerk, was charged with stealing a purse containing 13/6 from Margaret Wilson, on Saturday night last. The charge was heard yesterday at the Central Police Court. Prosecutrix stated that accused snatched the property from her in Cooper-street, Surry Hills, and threatened if she made a noise to "bash" her brains out. He was however, captured after a smart chase by Constable C. J. Harrison, who was just leaving duty. Darcy was brought back, when he attempted to drop the purse. He was taken to the station struggling violently. The accused's defence was a direct denial. He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

ROBBING HIS MASTER.

Before Mr. Wilkinson, D.S.M., yesterday, at the Central Police Court, Alfred Singleton, 23, pleaded guilty to a charge of having stolen 3s, the property of McIlraths Ltd., whilst in that firm's employ. The general manager of McIlraths stated that Singleton had been with the firm for three or four years. On Saturday last witness marked a shilling, a sixpence, and a threepence, which were given to a man with instructions. Witness accused Singleton of handing the cashier less money than he received from customers for the goods sold, and that in two specific instances he rang up 9d for purchases which were 1s 9d, and another is 6d for a purchase made for 2s 6d. Some of the marked coins were found in accused's possession. Singleton admitted to witness that he had not taken more than £3 or £4. Accused was fined £15 or four months, the magistrate remarking that the offence was more serious than an ordinary offence.

A VIOLENT MILK CARTER.

PECULIAR BEHAVIOUR.

Edmund Rawdon, 34, a milk carter, was charged at the North Sydney Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Love, D.S.M., with having assaulted James Carmody, Thomas Warmold, and Violet Maitland on September 1. The evidence was to the effect that on the evening of the date named he entered James Carmody's bootshop in Junction-street, North Sydney, and took a seat upon the counter. He was asked to go away by Mr. Carmody, who is 75 years of age, but declined, and, becoming excited, started to fight the aged prosecutor, who was hit on the neck and face. Thomas Warmold, Carmody's son-in-law, on hearing a noise, ran into the shop, when accused gave him his attention, and struck him on the ear. Miss Violet Maitland entered the shop, and in turn was roughly handled by accused, who struck her on the jaw, causing her to fall. The police were sent for, and when Constable Wilson appeared upon the scene accused was being held down on the footpath outside the shop by three men, with whom he was struggling violently. Accused, who pleaded guilty, asked for the leniency of the Court on the ground that it was the first time he had ever been in trouble. Mr. Warmold informed the magistrate that before he knew the extent of his injuries he would have to consult an ear specialist; consequently Mr. Love remanded the accused on the charge until the 12th instant. For assaulting Carmody and Miss Maitland accused was in each case fined £5, or in default one month's imprisonment, the sentences to be cumulative.

KICKING HIS WIFE.

Before Mr. J. L. King, S.M., yesterday, at the Water Police Court, William Thompson, 25, was charged with using bad language within hearing of passers-by in Riley-street on Sunday. It was stated that about 1 a.m. he was using the words complained of, and had his wife down kicking her. He pleaded guilty, and was fined £1, in default 14 days' imprisonment.

WOUNDING A COW.

At the Paddington Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Barnett, S.M., W. D. Hollis was charged with cruelty towards a cow. G. E. C. Fletcher, the prosecutor, a dairyman, of Randwick, stated that the accused told him on August 28 that he had thrown his chisel at the cow, which had been rubbing against his fence. Witness could only see the handle. When witness took the chisel out of the cow's side accused said "That's my chisel. I want it to finish my fence with." Witness replied that if the cow died he would want a new one; meanwhile he would keep the chisel. In consequence of the wound, which was about 6 inches deep, the animal had given less milk. Evidence was given by a veterinary surgeon that the animal's stomach had been pierced, and that the wound, which might prove fatal, was a very painful one. Accused denied that the chisel was his. He was fined £5, with costs, amounting in all to £10 12s. The magistrate remarked that if he thought Hollis had inflicted the horrible wound purposely he would have sent him to gaol without the option of a fine.

ALLEGED MURDER.

REMANDED TO NARRABRI.

George Fanning, a young man, appeared at the Central Police Court yesterday, charged with having murdered Francis V. Kean, or Kane, at West Narrabri, on June 22 last. Formal evidence was taken, Constable J. T. O'Sullivan, of the Balmain police, stating that the accused made no reply to the warrant read to him. The officer applied for a remand to Narrabri.

Mr. S. Stewart, appearing for the accused, asked the constable if it was not true that the accused practically gave himself up.

Sergeant Mankey: It already appears on the depositions that Fanning had said, "I'm the man you are after."

In reply to Mr. Stewart, Constable O'Sullivan said he had known Fanning for over 10 years.

Mr. Stewart (addressing the magistrate, Mr. Wilkinson, D.S.M.): In view of that, is there any doubt that accused would not appear at Narrabri if bail were granted?

Mr. Wilkinson: I can't grant bail.

Mr. Stewart: But if certain facts were brought under your notice?

Mr. Wilkinson: No. It is a murder charge.

Accused was remanded to Narrabri.

THE COST OF LIVING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The recent advance in the price of boots and shoes can only be looked upon as the forerunner of what is likely to happen in connection with the increased cost of other necessaries of life. As an instance, the Operative Bakers' new claims, which have just been submitted to the Master Bakers, if agreed to in their entirety, will mean that an all round advance of at least one farthing per 2lb loaf will have to be made to meet the extra cost of production. In the past these claims of the workers, in various industries, have been fought against by the employers, but there is no question that the feeling is gaining ground that the employers, rather than expend heavy legal and other expenses in settling these disputes, find it is wiser and cheaper to submit to all claims, pay the worker the wages he asks, and pass the extra cost on to the poor suffering public. The question arises—How long is the public going to submit being the "football" between the master and the worker?

I am, etc., A. B. C.

MINING.

MARKET OPENS RATHER QUIET.

Early telegrams received in the morning showed that the Adelaide Stock Exchange had opened a shade easier in silver shares, except in the case of Broken Hill Souths, and that the tone of the sister market for copper shares was not at all vigorous.

Taking their cue from this, operators also assumed a quiet attitude. Except in one instance, however, scrip-holders did not show any disposition to mark down prices, and, as a matter of fact, it will be seen by a glance at the list of Stock Exchange sales that values were firmly maintained in the transactions recorded in British (old), Broken Hill South, contg. Broken Hill South Blocks, and Sulphide Corporation, whilst the call for Broken Hill South paid shares firmed to buyers at £5.

Copper shares were rather listless, with Chillagoes selling at slightly easier rates. Gold scrip was also slack, with Cosmopolitan contributing (N.S.W.) receding a shade. The same was the case with Tongkah Harbour Tin shares.

The afternoon showed no improvement either in the tone of the market or the amount of business transacted. Indeed, the trend of prices, except in a very few instances, was to the weak side. This was particularly noticeable in the case of B.H. Junction North.

MINING NOTES.

Our Perth correspondent telegraphs:—During the past week the State batteries crushed 2179 tons for 1626oz of gold.

The manager of the Great Fitzroy Mines, Ltd., telegraphs:—"No. 3 level: Incline winze at 360ft north sunk to 53ft. Last 25ft, average assay 5.5 per cent. copper and 2dwt gold."

The call (the 14th) of 1½ per share has been made on all the contributing shares of the Homeward Bound Gold Mines, Ltd., Wyalong, and is payable on Tuesday, September 27.

Referring to the output of the Zinc Corporation during August, our Melbourne correspondent states that the estimated income from all sources, taking spelter at £23, was £26,640, whilst the estimated net profit, taking spelter at £23, was £10,075.

The eastern drive at No. 5 level of the Harden Gold Mine has reached 520ft, but still shows no ore. The intermediate rise is up 66ft, and the back assays 4/ per ton, over a width of 28in. No. 3 level is in 778ft east, with no ore in the face. Last week the mill crushed 162 tons of ore, and there were cyanided 120 tons of sand of an assay value of 4/9 per ton.

The mine manager of the Main Ridge Outcrop Company reports, for the week ended Sept. 3:—"Crosscut drive going west extended from No. 1 rise 14ft, and shows in face 1ft of free wash. Crosscut drive going east extended 6ft, total from No. 1 rise of 49ft, showing in face 18in of free wash. Drive going north-east extended 6ft, total from No. 1 rise of 24ft, and shows in face 2ft thick of nice free wash."

The smelting operations of the Wallaroo and Moonta Company for the fortnight ended August 27 are officially reported as follows:—"Ore received from Wallaroo mines, 1858 tons of 9 per cent. Ore received from Moonta mines, 389 tons of 15½ per cent.; precipitate, 31 tons of 82 per cent.; outside ore received, 3 tons; ore smelted, 2952 tons; copper placed to store, 268 tons; sulphuric acid delivered, 258 tons; bluestone made, 34 tons."

The directors of the Clarence C.C. Mining Company at Pulganbar Creek, about 35 miles from Grafton, have decided to instal a rock-drilling plant, to be driven by a 20-h.p. engine. Both the engine and the compressor drilling plant have been cabled for, and it is expected that the machinery will be running at the mine in about two months' time. This is the first installation of this character in this district, and, while it clearly shows that the directors have faith in their property, the installation of this drilling plant will be watched with great interest by promoters and directors of other companies. The directors of the Grafton Copper mine have been recommended by Mr. G. H. Blakemore to instal a rock-drilling plant on the mine.

BROKEN HILL MILL RETURNS.

Broken Hill Junction North Company.—Weekly return, Sept. 2: Treated 2088 tons of crude ore, assaying 14.3 per cent. lead, 20.6oz silver, and 8.5 per cent. zinc, producing 479 tons of concentrates, assaying 66.2 per cent. lead, 34.6oz silver, and 4.1 per cent. zinc. Recoveries: Lead 79.6 per cent., silver 51.5 per cent. The mill ran 144 hours.

North Broken Hill Company.—Weekly return: Treated 5487 tons crude ore, assaying 15.4 per cent. lead, 6.3oz silver, and 14 per cent. zinc, producing 885 tons of concentrates, assaying 70.6 per cent. lead, 20.4oz silver, and 6.6 per cent. zinc.

SULPHIDE CORPORATION, LIMITED.

During the four weeks ended August 27 19,539 tons of crude ore were milled at the Central mine, Broken Hill, producing 3904 tons of leady concentrates and 5711 tons zinc concentrates. At the Cockle Creek works during the same period 4556 tons of purchased ore, leady concentrates, etc, were smelted, yielding 1554 tons of lead, containing 4879oz gold and 98,835oz silver.

For the week ended August 27 the mill of the Central mine treated 4798 tons of ore, and produced 991 tons of concentrates, assaying 26.5oz silver, 58.4 per cent. lead, and 9.6 per cent. zinc. During the same period the Cockle Creek Works produced 539 tons of bullion, containing 1232oz of gold and 24,141oz of silver.

MINING IN THE STATE.

COFF'S HARBOUR, Monday.

Mr. D. Griffin, of Coff's Harbour, attended the meeting of the Mount Brown Copper-mining Company, held in Grafton on Monday night, on behalf of the Coff's Harbour shareholders. He asked a large number of questions as to the future management, and was assured by the chairman that it was intended to sink to the 150ft level, where it was expected to strike the lode, and that there were ample funds on hand to enable the company to do this, without selling any of the 10,000 shares held in reserve, or making any calls. During the week Messrs. Zeitsch, Kritsch, Schwinghammer, Shaw, and Blackmore, formerly of Cobar, visited the mine, and expressed themselves as pleased with the progress made to sink the shaft further.

GRAFTON, Monday.

The manager of the Grafton Copper-mining Company's mine, Cangai, writes:—"C east crosscut tunnel was advanced 6ft 6in; C west crosscut tunnel was advanced 7ft 6in; D west was advanced 5ft; D east 12ft; and E intermediate 12ft. Stoping has been carried on over D level west. 187 tons ore were mined, and added to the roast heaps. No. 2 furnace treated 51 tons 11cwt of matte, producing 26 tons 11cwt of metal, containing 16.3 tons copper. Despatched 24 tons 18cwt of metal, containing 15.1 tons copper.

PAMBULA, Monday.

For want of rain, mining matters are at a very low ebb. The Diorite Syndicate is negotiating for capital to sink the shaft, and erect a crushing plant. There is a splendid body of payable ore in sight.

BROKEN HILL MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Monday.

The Silver City Blocks development at the 115ft level continues good. The eastern crosscut is in about 7ft. More lead is showing in the ore, which continues of high-grade.

The B. H. South Extended mines' crosscut at 930ft has entered the rich body of ore proved by the diamond drill. This, with the ore bodies passed through nearer to the shaft, will give about 85ft of payable ore at this level.

The B.H. South mine last week sent away 1006 tons of leady concentrates. Very little work, except in the way of plat making, is proceeding at the 1070ft level. The four winzes from the 970ft level are all in ore at various depths.

The B.H. South Blocks mine last week deepened its main shaft to 844ft. The main north drive, on No. 5 level, was extended 14ft to 443ft, in ore averaging 17.9 per cent. lead, 2.4oz silver, and 12.3 per cent. zinc. The south drive was taken 17ft to 444ft in ore going 14 per cent. lead, 2.1oz silver, and 13.1 per cent. zinc. The latter drive shows a width of 4ft of ore.

EXTENSION OF THE BARRIER LODE.

BROKEN HILL, Monday.

The good developments in the Silver City Blocks Mine at 115ft have drawn fresh attention to the southern end of the line of lode. Even those mining men who thought the mine was off the track, or, at best, thought that no ore would be met with except at a great depth, are content to admit that the property has yielded a surprise. A number of leading mining authorities advised sinking to at least 300ft before opening out, but results have proved the wisdom of the board in testing the country at the 115ft level. The west crosscut was taken 59ft without meeting the wall, and the eastern cut is in 5ft. The ore body will probably prove about 100ft wide. Of the 60ft, most of the way was in payable ore, assays going high for both lead and zinc, but particularly zinc. The eastern crosscut is in zinciferous ore of high value all the way. These developments, taken in conjunction with those at the deeper levels of the Central and South mines, and the highly satisfactory result of crosscutting on the South Extended's 930ft level, are decidedly favourable to the future of Broken Hill.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN MINES.

KALGOORLIE, Monday.

Messrs. Bewick, Moreing, and Co. have cabled to the London office of the Lake View and Star, Ltd., particulars of interesting developments. The cable sets out that in the Lake View Consols leases, below the 1900ft level, the winze, 405ft north and 130ft west, has been sunk 45ft. The ore is 107in wide, averaging 46s per ton. The present face is 78in wide, averaging 85s ton. In the Star leases, at the 500ft level, the south drive has been extended 26ft in ore 66in wide, and averaging 51s per ton, with additional values in the walls. At the 300ft level the north drive is in 55ft west on Morrison East lode. A body of ore has been intersected, probably the same shoot as that exposed on the north of Morrison shaft, at the 175ft level. The ore for 9ft in length and 60in wide averages 28s per ton.

MOUNT LYELL FIELD.

THE TROUBLE AT THE LYELL CONSOLS.

QUEENSTOWN, Monday.

At the North Lyell mine, 1100ft level, the limit of No. 36 stope ore body, on the ground floor at the south end, is pretty well reached. The area proved is about 180ft long, and from 20ft to 25ft wide. Exploratory work with the diamond drill will shortly be started off the north drive from the east crosscut in a westerly direction. The extension of No. 2 north drive at the 1000ft level has been resumed, with the object of determining the area of ore occurred recently located by the diamond drill at the 850ft level. There are yet about 120ft in length of ore between the face of the ground floor workings of No. 26 stope ore body, and the limit is proved by No. 3 crosscut. No. 22 stope ore body continues to produce excellent grade ore, and the crosscut put through the body to facilitate working has proved over 50ft of similar material.

At the Lyell Consols the trouble caused by the recent breaking through of the creek into working is likely to prove serious. The workings at No. 2 level are in such a state that production is impossible, and as the whole available output from No. 1 level is only sufficient to keep the mill going one shift four days a week operations under such conditions would involve a heavy loss. It is understood that the directors are considering the position, and it is very probable that the mine will be closed down.

COUNTRY NEWS.

THE CHURCHES.

BALLINA, Monday.

The combined bazaar, sale of work, and garden fete in the R.C. presbytery grounds, in aid of the presbytery funds, concluded on Saturday night. A net profit of £200 is expected.

Mr. Richard V. Rigby, of Echuca, Victoria, has been appointed stipendiary reader of the local Church of England parish.

MURWILLUMBAH, Monday.

The Rev. M. Graham Hart will be inducted to the Tweed Presbyterian charge next Wednesday evening in the local church, when several clergymen from the Richmond district will be in attendance.

THE SCHOOLS.

WINGHAM, Monday.

A sum of £92 has been granted for the erection of a picket fence along the Superior Public school frontage in Isabella-street. The erection of the manual training rooms is now exercising the minds of members of the Parents and Citizens' Association. The people have raised money with which to equip the room, and the time is patiently awaited when the department will have the room erected—as it agreed to do some considerable time back.

ODDFELLOWS' CONFERENCE.

GRAFTON, Monday.

About 30 delegates, representing various lodges of the Order of Ancient Foresters throughout the State, arrived to-day, and were officially welcomed by the deputy Mayor at the Town Hall to-night. Afterwards they were entertained at a social in the Criterion Hall. They will meet in conference to-morrow.

ARMIDALE, Monday.

At a meeting of local hotel property owners, hotelkeepers, and others interested in the liquor trade, it was decided to form an association with a view to carrying continuance of licenses at the local option poll. The following officers were elected:—President, Mr. R. S. Turner; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. A. Allen. Mr. W. A. Purkiss was engaged to canvass the district for votes, and it was decided to commence a vigorous campaign at once. It is expected that Hillgrove, Walcha, and Uralla will follow Armidale's lead.

BYRON BAY, Monday.

A life-belt has been picked up on the beach bearing the name Moirweba, London.

BELLINGEN, Monday.

The clam dredge Kappa, after doing a little on Bushell's Flat, below Fernmount, has commenced work at Cahill's wharf, which at present is the terminus of Bellinger shipping.

CASINO, Monday.

On Saturday morning Mr. Petersen, jeweller, Casino, discovered his shop had been broken into. On opening the front door he found several articles of silver-ware had been taken from the top showcases, and strewn on the floor. Going into a vacant room at the back of the shop, he found a window opposite the staircase broken. An examination showed that several gold watches, chains, rings, etc., were stolen. At 5 p.m. Sergeant Esther found a clue, and communicated with the Lismore police, who made an arrest.

COFF'S HARBOUR, Monday.

Mr. Inspector Usher, of the Railway Department, has fixed the sites of the stations between Glenreagh and South Grafton. The Glenreagh station will be on Mr. Stanton's land, on the other side of the Orara. Tenders for the first section will be called on October 1.

LISMORE, Monday.

At the Police Court to-day John M'Cormack was charged with stealing goods valued at about £60 from Petersen's jewellery shop at Casino. M'Cormack was committed for trial. It is understood that the whole of the missing property has been recovered.

MANILLA, Monday.

A small dwelling owned by Mrs. Rose was destroyed by fire. The occupant, who was nearly 80 years of age, had £30 in notes and gold. The latter were recovered, and portion of the notes, which were in a tin box.

WHARF-LABOURERS' PRESIDENT

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Whilst being compelled to answer mis-statements through the press at this juncture, I, as the leading executive officer of the Wharf-labourers' Union, must confess my profound regret at having to in the same manner defend myself, and to an extent necessarily criticise my colleague, the secretary (Mr. S. T. Harrison). To-day he is at his old game again, attempting by a crude method to misrepresent the finding of the committee of management. I have not that finding or resolution arrived at in my pocket. I challenge Mr. Harrison to give the correct resolution moved by Mr. George Cole, and finally carried satisfactorily to all, as the chairman of the committee stated that no charges had been made. I do not ask Mr. Harrison to add to the finding his own biassed and prejudiced views, as, according to to-day's papers, he has done; but that resolution referred to above. If so, he will then have held himself further in the eyes of those of the union watching him to be no longer worthy of their confidence. He would look most sheepish if by next meeting that petition, which is commonly spoken of, was laid on the table. He would find that members were disgusted and ashamed of his attitude and utterances, that he be called upon to resign instead of the president, that he had not the remotest intention of attempting to work in harmony with the newly-elected president. This is a direct insult to the members of his union, who do not average £2 per week yearly, and are paying him £3 10s per week, wet or fine, and 5s for each sitting on the committee of management, which might sit every week in the year, with hours daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday to Friday, Saturdays until noon. Truly, not a bad position at all. And how many members of the thousands who pay him would not take it on, and sit and work, which they would be paid for, with anyone elected to fulfil the position of president; and especially as I have been twice in the month, the last by an absolute majority of votes polled. The president's is not a salaried position. For his attendances and services he receives £10 10s yearly, with 5s for each sitting on the committee of management. And the secretary, who is the paid servant of the union, acts as though he were a rival wharf-labourers' union, though paid by the same members as those who elected me as their president. He now attempts to dictate terms to those men, that they must displace me, restore the old order of stagnation, for reasons I suppose best known to himself. For one thing, he does know, I am of an inquisitive term of mind, that is, I want to be exact, and to be in a position to answer any question concerning finance which the members rightly should know, and it is for me to promptly make known. Mr. Harrison need not fear my absence from next meeting. I certainly will be in my position to defend myself against any untrue statements, and I will watch that nothing not directly concerning the business of the night will be accepted. Finally, I say it is deplorable in the interests of the men and our large union that such an attitude of defiance should be resorted to on the part of the secretary. He is a man whom I always had the greatest respect for; but when I was nominated for the presidency he immediately showed his antagonism. I hold no ill-feeling against him even now. For the union's sake I want to work in harmony with him so long as he is the secretary of our union. I believe he has recognised his folly, that is, his attitude towards the president, and if so I am sure the men will be prepared to look that over, if he admits his mistake. For him at this juncture to all at once be seen in secret alliance with the larrikin element in the union which is causing all the trouble in the meetings, and must be put down, looks decidedly bad indeed.

Marrickville, Sept. 5. I am, etc.,
T. W. McCRISTAL, President W.-L. Union.

MR. HARRISON AND THE BELMORE SELECTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The secretary of the Wharf-labourers' Union has, in your paper to-day, referred to the Belmore P.L.L. selection. Mr. Harrison is sublime when he states he is not acquainted with the manner in which Alderman English or Mr. Minahan was selected. He then informs us that he is acquainted with rule 42, which he would have the public believe my league has broken. I desire to inform Mr. Harrison and the public generally that, as there was only one nomination—that of Alderman English—handed in, the Belmore League could not very well break the rule named by holding a ballot without submitting nominations for endorsement. Like other electorates, Belmore is having a gentleman they did not select forced upon them by the central executive. The members of the local league will not submit to be systematically robbed of their right to select, and will stand to John English as the Labour candidate. I am, etc.,

LIQUOR CAMPAIGN.

THE SLAUGHTER OF YOUNG MEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Anent Mr. J. B. Sutton's last letter under the above heading, as already stated, we did give the name of the hotel to the police, and we have no objection to their supplying Mr. Sutton with full particulars should they deem it desirable. One of our number went for a policeman, found him, and brought him to the hotel. It was on the advice of this policeman that we went no further in the matter. He said that a conviction of this kind would be practically impossible unless the boys were caught in the bar itself. It would be necessary, in fact, to catch them in the act of drinking, and even then the publican would get out on the plea that they had told him that they were over 18 years of age. The attitude of the police was, in short, one of complete helplessness, and shows what a farce the so-called control of the trade really is.

We are all men of great experience in this drink fight, and if Mr. Sutton thinks that we were fooled by a little horseplay we are confident that the public do not so think. We do not wish to labour this painful subject. It is as painful to us as it is to all who wish the youth of this State to grow up a credit to Australia.

It is within the power of all who doubt our statement to test it themselves. All we ask is that those who really want to know should spend an evening from 10 to 12 finding out. They will be sadder but wiser after the experiment.

We are, etc.,

Sept. 3.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As a man who has travelled a good deal (perhaps more so than some of the narrow-minded and bigoted letters of those who seek notoriety by appearing in your columns) I would like to give my humble opinion upon this all-important question which will shortly be put before the people of this State at the forthcoming elections. Considering the great outcry against the publicans in New South Wales one is apt to ponder the question: "Is drunkenness so rife in this State and New Zealand that such stringent measures as total prohibition are advocated or required?" In one of your letters recently has appeared statements such as this:—"Strong drink used as an ordinary beverage is destructive of human life, and liquor consumption injures health and shortens life, etc., etc." It is a pity that men when they sit down to write cannot use proper arguments or make use of better expressions. The words "over indulgence in" put before these sentences would have altered the whole complexion of the affair. If any legislation is needed surely it is against the drunkards of our community. Why harass the moderate drinkers and inconvenience them in this way? The percentage of drunkards in this State is, I presume (at any rate I hope so for the good name of Australia), very much less than that of the moderate drinkers. Let me say here that I do not wish to defend the evils of drunkenness, but when it comes to making the majority suffer for the sins of the minority, then it is certainly time for the moderate drinkers to rise in a body and defend themselves against "wowseristic" oppression, and unjust, unlawful, and unwarrantable interference with their just rights as citizens and with their own liberty.

Let us pause a while, and consider the question: What is a license, or rather, a hotel bar? Answer: A place for the convenience of the public to get liquid refreshment in, etc., etc. So to legislate against the convenience of the public is, in my mind, a dangerous precedent, viz., to interfere with the liberty of the subject. We have in history that such interference has been the outcome of revolutions on more occasions than one. Again, when such interference commences how will we know when it will end? The women (unfortunately for Australia) have the vote in this part of Australia. They will object to smoking, perhaps, as their husbands spend so much money on it, etc., etc. This will eventually be abolished. They will object to horseracing and betting, for their husbands' money goes in this. This will be eventually put down. Share market transactions, etc., etc., and so on, ad lib. I can see a lovely picture of the Australian man of the future sitting at home minding the baby, and afraid to speak, lest his wife hit him over the head with the kitchen poker.

The "wowsers" tell us that all New Zealand will be "dry" in time. Now, if this be so, where will the money come from to keep her new ships, for the cost of their upkeep will be considerable? The women who smiled so happily when no-license was passed will not be so glad when the necessities of life will have double taxes on them to pay the country's way. As it is, New Zealand will go down the hill, as the liquor trade is certainly the benefactor of the human race, and has always an open pocket in the cause of charity. This little word "charity" is unknown to the "wowsers."

Another unfair part of no-license is that there is undoubtedly one law for the rich and another for the poor. Will this go down in a Labour country like this? I think not. Even bishops and deacons have their own cellars—at any rate, they do in the old country—and so the no-license law will not inconvenience these pious church people, but the ordinary working man who has to drink openly is the scapegoat. The wine merchant will not give him much credit, nor will his van deliver cases to the door of his humble abode. How very different to the big clubs and mansions which will have their well-stocked cellars. I particularly mention bishops here, as the "wowsers," who are generally connected with churches, don't like to think that these holy church people have wine, etc., in their cellars. The rich drink in their homes and in their clubs.

It is often a fact that men of leisure at home in the old country with drink at hand spend days in drunken orgies at home. Such doings never come to light, or are known to any outsiders.

Now I get to the root of the whole matter. Is drink to enter the homes of the people in this manner? Under no-license a working man inclined to drink may perhaps get enough stuff in on Saturday afternoon to keep him drunk well over Monday, and even on Tuesday. He may be so fuddled that he would be unable to work till the middle of the week. This will surely occur if no-license is passed. To my mind, and to anyone with a grain of common sense, to force the drink into the homes of the people (they can't drink it in the streets) will have the effect of perverting society.

The little children will see "dad" (if inclined that way) in all his carousals, etc., and his comrades will probably make Saturday afternoons, Sundays, and even Mondays merry, and the hideous cries will make the night hideous, etc. There is at present a law, which is an excellent one, that no one is allowed to enter a bar under a certain age, but under no-license the home will be the bar, and all children will be admitted there.

No-license will never be tolerated in the great countries of Europe. What would Paris and Brussels be without their gay cafes, Berlin, Vienna, and Munich without their biergarten and trinkhalle, and London her magnificent West End restaurants or splendid theatre bars? The old world at our feet wars along without any of these stupid desires, or "wowsers'" principles of reform (?). Yet we, a handful of people in a new country, must start to change the whole order of social life? It is amazing to anyone who has travelled at all. No place of any importance or size as yet has got no-license, for the simple reason that the inhabitants of such places have sufficient intellect and sense, and are sufficiently educated to show that they will not tolerate any interference with their liberty as a people.

In certain country districts where the "wowser" element is in full power, and a few parts of America and Canada, they now have no-license; but there is no reason why we should have no-license here any more than the fact that we should become Mormons because there are Mormons in America, or that we should be imbued with any other fanatical desire for cheap notoriety, and to be held up to the world as a pattern country because we do not like liquor.

Let us have the open bar, and let us educate ourselves with the help of Archdeacon Boyce, to sufficiently withstand the temptations of this wicked world, the bars and their pernicious influences, so that we can have a drink when we want it and stop when we want to. Let us have more stringent regulations against drunkards, and let us show the world we are not afraid to give licenses for fear lest we may get drunk.

The British working man has had his beer for centuries, and does not appear to deteriorate very much. Let the Australian also be allowed to continue with his, or perhaps there will be truth in Foster Fraser's remarks that the race is decadent. At any rate, it does not appear to be at present, as we seem to be the champions of the world at sport of all sorts.

Penrith. I am, etc., J. O. F.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have just read a letter in your columns by F. H. Joseph, hotel broker, on the liquor traffic, in which he champions the barmaid's cause. He asserts if one of these fair damsels was seen leaning over her bar engaged in flirtation she would be instantly dismissed by her employer. Now, Mr. Joseph is romancing. Archdeacon Boyce, if I remember rightly, said that pretty girls were employed behind bars in order to attract the guileless youths who generally frequent the Sydney hotels; and, I say, being a frequenter of hotels for 40 years, that he is quite right. If it were not for the attractions of the barmaids half the hotels in Sydney would close up. Might I ask Mr. Joseph would he like to see his own daughter or sister behind one of the respectable bars he speaks of? I am, etc., MAJOR.

LABOUR AND LIQUOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In a leader published in the issue of your paper of August 23rd, mention is made of the fact that "liquor looks to Labour in the main for its support." As you point out in the leader referred to, "local option is above all things a democratic institution," the question naturally presents itself to any logical mind, in connection with the candidature of Mr. Fitzgerald for Darlinghurst, how is it possible for that gentleman, the paid advocate of the liquor interest, to contest a seat under the aegis of Labour, one of whose fighting planks is State option, and another the nationalisation of all monopolies?

It is a well-known fact that there is no greater or more socially-menacing monopoly than that of the brewing interest, and no other monopoly in Australia has been more bitterly antagonistic to Labour. When Messrs. Fisher, Watson, and Hughes introduced into the Federal Parliament legislation authorising the adoption of the "union label" no business more strenuously opposed the measure than did the big brewing firms, who employed all the best legal talent in the Commonwealth to have it declared unconstitutional. It is, moreover, an open secret that the Liquor Trades Defence Union (which is practically a brewers' association) voted money in support of a candidate hostile to Mr. M'Gowen, the Labour leader. But this is only a surface indication of their methods. Not only is each brewing firm a relentless and exacting master over every licensee on its books, but the individual brewing monopolists constitute a "trust," which circumscribes every vestige of liberty on the part of anyone who may fall into the clutches of the individual firm.

Any person who is desirous of buying a tied-house is compelled not only to sign a bond to purchase all his requirements from the brewing firm (including wines, spirits, aerated waters, cigars and cigarettes), but he is compelled also to enter into an agreement imposing forfeiture of a large sum as a guarantee of his fulfilling this oppressive and iniquitous obligation. Nay, more, the brewing trust is stretching out its tentacles even beyond this. As a recent instance, it may be mentioned that an incoming buyer of an hotel upon which a brewing firm held a lien was refused possession of the lease, although he was prepared to pay off every penny owing thereon. The firm insisted upon holding the lease during the whole tenure, even though there were no moneys due to them on the securities. It is to be noted that the buyer had no objection to signing a bond to deal with these brewers in the same way as the outgoing licensee, but he would not consent to their retaining his lease. The brewers would not surrender the lease, although no money was owing on it, and the sale fell through, the would-be seller being compelled to remain in a business against interest and inclination.

A parallel case was reported in the "Sydney Morning Herald" of May 15 last year, in which a country hotelkeeper, with ample means, bought a city business. He purchased a £4000 proposition, but could not buy right out, as it was a brewery house, and he entered into the business with a mortgage of £750 to the brewers, the buyer paying in cash £2250. When, however, he wished to sell, he was confronted with a demand from the brewing firm that the incoming licensee, besides cash payment and securities for balance of purchase money, should enter into an additional bond for £2000, engaging himself to deal exclusively with the monopoly. This he declined to do, and in this case also the sale fell through, and the would-be seller was compelled to remain in a business which was repugnant to him after a life in the country.

Apart from these monopolistic methods, the brewing trust has invariably shown itself as one of the most implacable enemies to the Labour movement. It fought the union label, it penalised unionists who gave evidence against it before the wages boards (as reported in Labour's official organ, "The Worker"), and it has sought in every way to preserve its monopoly at the expense of the workers. Not only does it absolutely corner, in the case of tied houses, the trade in beer, wines and spirits, aerated waters, cigars and cigarettes, but it makes unceasing efforts to corner even the trade in empty bottles, a brewers' bottle-oh association having been formed for that purpose. It was suggestive to read a recent news item—to the effect that a great absentee brewery monopolist had purchased at the cost of a third of a million the historic home of the Chesterfields—in a journal which in the same issue reported the bitter but just complaint of the Sydney bottle-oh against the monopolistic methods of his powerful competitor, who was doing his best to deprive him of his precarious livelihood.

Mr. Fitzgerald, the journalistic mouthpiece of this mammoth monopoly (as editor of "Fairplay" since its initial establishment), is seeking the suffrages of Labour, though the monopoly of which he is the literary representative has done its worst to crush and humiliate the movement.

It must be remembered that the periodical "Fairplay" is a brewer-owned journal, and that it is the brewery interest it advocates. The trials and the troubles of the licensed victualler are not its foremost concern, and if they are championed at all it is only to conserve the brewing interest behind them.

Mr. Fitzgerald, with all the enormous support of a wealthy monopoly, for he still retains the editorial chair of "Fairplay," is out to capture a seat for Labour, and at several of his meetings has given the support of his voice to the candidature of the socialistic Mr. Morrish. Is this gentleman also going to bolster up the brewing monopoly? This alliance of liquor monopoly with Labour anti-monopoly must give cause for side-splitting laughter to the ironic gods! By the way, is Mr. Fitzgerald, the editor of "Fairplay," the same Mr. Fitzgerald who was so bitterly denounced at the 1893 Labour Conference by Messrs. W. A. Holman (who now supports him) and J. C. Watson as the worst for the Labour movement could have, and against whom a motion of undying hostility was passed? I am, etc.,

Sydney, Sept. 3. ANTI-TRUST.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Amongst the numerous reasons for advocating no-license given by Archdeacon Boyce is that no-license has been a pronounced success in New Zealand; also that no-license is not total abstinence or prohibition, as persons would be able to send to another electorate and obtain the liquor. Now, I should like to relate a little incident that came under my own notice during one of my visits to Invercargill since its conversion to no-license. I was quartered at a family hotel, very near the G.P.O. There were 11 permanent boarders. On the Saturday night of my arrival I overheard the landlord say to his wife, "I hope they won't make much noise." Their conversation did not interest me, so I thought no more of it. Shortly after going to bed I became aware of the fact that there was some fun going on in a room close to mine. What could be called good-humoured noise—no swearing or falling out—but half-smothered laughter and running about; no boots, but a sort of a burglar's tread. Well, this was kept up as long as I was awake. On the following morning (Sunday) I met one of the boys in the passage, and he said, "I hope we didn't disturb you greatly last night?" I replied, "No, I have been young myself." He then told me the cause. He and some of his mates had gone to the brewery, two and a half miles distant, and brought one five and two three gallon casks of beer on Saturday afternoon. This was before lunch on Sunday, and, in his own words, they hadn't enough to wet their tongues with. It will take a very strong argument to convince me these young men, who were all in good positions, mostly under Government, would have gone to this extreme had not no-license compelled them.

There is but one way to kill this foul disease, though it is as old nearly as the world itself, and it is reserved for the intelligence of the twentieth century to do it. Banish it entirely. Stop the importation. Let brewers, distillers, and all who are in any way connected with this enemy of mankind invest their capital in some other way. Treat it as opium is treated; both are equally debasing in their effects. Revenue would be a tremendous loser. What of that? See what a harvest of fines could be gathered in. Besides, have we not a Federal Prime Minister, who, with his colleagues, is an expert revenue-raiser. If it comes to the point of saving a large percentage of the human race from death and perdition, let them make it as hard to get a drop of liquor as it is to extract blood from the proverbial paving-stone. Then we shall be a happy family—I mean those who like to see it. I am, etc.,

Sept. 2. NORMAN FLETCHER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The many letters appearing in your columns almost daily on the above question indicate how keenly interest in the approaching no-license poll is growing. It is not surprising, of course, that differences of opinion should exist as to the effectiveness of no-license, or that those who are directly interested in the liquor traffic should strenuously oppose the application of the veto. The main thing, however, that should operate with the electors is the public good, and any citizen who is convinced that the country would be better without open liquor bars should have no hesitation in putting his cross in the bottom square.

If any additional argument had been needed to prove the necessity of reduction in liquor drinking facilities, it was amply furnished by Archdeacon Boyce by his recent publication of the drink bill for 1909. The Archdeacon showed that liquor expenditure in New South Wales had grown from £4,580,012, equal to £3 1s 2d per head of the population, in 1905—the year before the present law came into operation—to £5,217,668, or £3 5s 5d, in 1909. That is to say, that, in spite of the restrictive provisions of the present law, which throws upon publicans and persons found on licensed premises during prohibited hours the onus of proof that they are there for a lawful purpose, and which prohibits the sale of liquor to young people under 18 years of age, the liquor bill for last year amounted to 4s 2d more for every man, woman, and child in the country than it did in 1905.

That clearly shows that the only hope of reduced liquor consumption is in cutting off the sources of supply. Close the liquor bars, where so much of the liquor is consumed, and it will certainly lessen liquor consumption, and to that extent improve public morality. Apart from the moral effect of liquor drinking, the criminal waste of money involved in the upkeep of the traffic should arrest public attention. Other nations are fighting alcohol as a matter of self-protection, and Australia cannot afford to rest quietly under the burdens imposed by strong drink.

It is to no purpose to reply that even under no-license men will get drink. We know they will until we get an honestly-administered national prohibition law. That, however, doesn't affect the position. No-license will reduce the number of houses at which liquor can be obtained, and that must produce at least some of the results which are so much desired. That prohibition does prohibit if it gets anything like fair play is beyond all doubt. In a document issued for publication only last year, Governor Hock, of Kansas, after 28 years of constitutional prohibition, said: "Kansas is now, and has been for a number of years, the most prosperous State in the Union. The banks, barns, and bins are full to overflowing, and some of our counties have had no criminal prosecutions for more than 10 years. Fifty per cent. of her gaols are empty, and 75 per cent. of her poorhouses are without inmates, and many of them have been sold, as the State has no use for them. Nearly one-third of her entire population is enrolled in Public schools and private colleges. Kansas is a land of plenty, and nowhere on the globe exists a more sober, happy and prosperous people."

Now, if prohibition has secured such wonderful results as the above for Kansas, with its 1,655,799 people, why should we not have a taste of it in New South Wales? It is well known, of course, that local no-license will not give to this State what prohibition has given to Kansas, but it will give us something; and that being the case, I shall vote in the bottom square, and at the same time help to keep the agitation going for that larger measure of State prohibition which apparently so many of the liquor-sellers are anxious to secure.

I am, etc.,
G. D. CLARK,
Secretary Prohibition Party.

THE ECONOMICS OF DRINK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It is difficult to know for what purpose Mr. Hawkins has spread himself over so much space in your issue of Friday, unless it is to attempt to throw more dust in the eyes of the public in general and the working man in particular. He attacked me in the professed interests of the worker, insinuating that the no-license people had sinister designs in the desire to restore to any worker the efficiency lost through drink, and when I show the utter fallacy of his argument he is either too dense or too wary to admit the absurdity of his position. He has not met one single argument, he cannot meet one single criticism on his own statements, but scuttles from pillar to post, drawing red herrings across the track at every turn.

My friend would have us believe that he stood up in the interests of the working man, but in his last letter he impartially disparages the State, Federal, and British Labour leaders as men who know nothing, who are not honest in the discussion of the drink question; and, finally, Mr. Hawkins sets himself up as the one authority in the wide world who alone has an opinion worthy of a moment's consideration. Economists, statesmen, social leaders, labour experts, the oft-chosen representatives of the workers, scientists, philosophers, and all such folk are very small fry alongside of Mr. Hawkins: their opinions are nothing compared with his for he himself infers it.

Again, the drunkard's children (he says) must not be saved or helped, lest in helping them we turn into the street the publican's children, together with their parents, who, from Mr. Hawkins's point of view, are incapable of doing anything other than sell beer. Save us from our friends!

Judging from his last letter, Mr. Hawkins is so lacking in ability to see things in their proper perspective that he is worried over a 20 per cent. reduction, where I have offered him 40 per cent., quite content to let the figures speak for themselves, even with this generous concession. Upon inquiry at the office of the Government Statistician, I am assured that no reduction is needed, as duty does not come into the calculation anywhere.

He still harps on the string of "primary, subsidiary, and auxiliary industries," in spite of the fact, known to every schoolboy, that if you quadruple the hands employed in a factory of any sort you necessarily quadruple the hands employed in the "primary, subsidiary, and auxiliary industries" behind them; and my figures show that when the beer money is diverted into other channels a very large increase is necessary in the factories supplying the other commodities sure to be purchased instead of beer.

How unsophisticated my friend must be to suppose that the money now spent in grog will stay in the pockets of the people who now shingle the publican's roof instead of their own, who help to find the silks and satins for somebody else's wife instead of clothing for their own wives and children. Such innocence should pose for a sculptor. The statue would attract universal admiration.

In his simplicity, Mr. Hawkins reads into my letter the meaning that the efficiency of all workers, total abstainers included, is lessened through drink, though how this is true of the latter we must go to Mr. Hawkins to learn. The popular idea that it was only the drinker who became unreliable or inefficient through liquor is altogether wrong—everybody who ever thought so had surely never heard of Mr. Hawkins.

It would be humorous were it not pitiable to note our friend's contempt for "authorities"—nobody knows anything about the matter, except, presumably, Mr. Hawkins. According to him the leaders of labour, past and present, are tricksters and humbugs, ready to sell themselves to the highest bidder, for does he not call them all "echoes of popular fallacies, and panderers for votes?"

Mr. Hawkins, clearly, is not the worker's friend, or he would have more respect for the worker's leaders. He is not the friend of the no-license party—that is very evident from his letters, so we must conclude that he is the zealous fri-d of the liquor party, in which case I think it will not be hard for the worker to see that the liquor interest is no friend of the toiler.

My contention that the liquor traffic runs counter to the interests of the worker has not been disproved. In spite of the profundity of my friend's knowledge of economics and his self-commendation, and he cannot, with all his agility, meet the logic of facts presented by my figures, or disprove the following conclusions based on the returns of the Government Statistician:—

In brewing, every £10 paid in wages secures £38 profit.

In boots and shoes, £20 in wages returns only £8 profit.

Bricks and tiles, wages £17, profit £10.
Furniture, etc., £17 wages for £6 profit.
Clothing and millinery, £6 wages for £4 profit.
Jams, pickles, etc., £5 wages for £9 10s profit.
Taking wages and materials together, we provide for the primary producer, and we get these results:—
Brewing, wages and materials £53, profit £38.
Boots and shoes, wages and materials, £6, profit £3.
Bricks and tiles, wages and materials £32, profit £10.
Furniture, etc., wages and materials, £30, profit £6.
Clothing and millinery, wages and materials £6, profit £4.

I thank Mr. Hawkins very heartily for the assistance he has given me in setting before the worker the strong claims no-license has upon his sympathy and vote, due to the economic gains that will immediately follow the abolition or reduction of the liquor traffic.

I am, etc., W. A. MAHER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In reply to "Ad Rem" in your paper of 2nd inst. answering mine, I sincerely thank him for his sympathy; but if he can help me out of the dilemma by showing me or the many thousands engaged like me in the "trade" what we are to do or where turn for a living if people are to be prohibited from drinking alcoholic liquors, then he will be showing practical sympathy, which is of more value in the world than theoretical. What he means by a "starving crusade" I don't know, having, as I said, "never starved." His logic, too, is a bit too tough to swallow. He says, "It occurs to me that the lesser evil would be for one family to starve than a thousand." He must bear in mind that all men are equal in their feelings if not in other respects, and it would certainly not be any consolation to me to know that if I and my confreres voted no-license, and through that probably lost our jobs, while we were starving, hundreds and thousands would be having a good time. As regards the fables of the pigs and the bees getting drunk and the latter falling down a well—well, "Truth lies at the bottom of the well."

It reminds me of an old yarn, "All pigs and some men don't smoke." The same thing applies to drink. The temperate man is he who takes a little for his "stomach's sake" and stops at that. The truly intemperate one is he who follows out that old-time fable of the "dog in the manger." He cannot partake of the good things sent us in moderation himself, so he tries to prohibit those that can from using their own free will and strength of mind.

Since writing the above I have read the letters in to-day's "Herald." The first, signed G. A. Black, takes up the same argument as Canon Boyce, who said in last Thursday's "Herald," "No-license is not total abstinence or prohibition, as persons would be able to send to another electorate and obtain the liquor." (Verb. sap.).

G. A. Black says, "If you cannot find employment in the trade in N.S.W., wait until your firms open up in Queensland or Victoria." (Again, a word to the wise is sufficient.)

There are thousands to-day in Sydney alone who are making from a fair to a decent living (to say nothing of the reduced taxation caused through the greater part of the revenue of the State being saddled on the trade), but still a decent living out of the legitimate trade of liquor-selling, who, if put on the labour market in "three years'" time, when the pubs and brewers shut up shop," would not only decrease the demand for everyday necessary commodities, but would add very greatly to the competition of labour in the production of those said less-demanded commodities. That is, if they all found the billets that Mr. G. A. Black thinks they would. As regards my narrow-mindedness, I said in my letter, "Take my own case as an illustration." "There are others," and thousands in N.S.W. alone. I have gone "deeply into the question" for 20 years, and cannot see that no-license would be beneficial to me or anyone else, except those weak-minded men who must have their actions controlled by Act of Parliament instead of doing so for themselves. I am truly sorry for "Sad Mother," but her case does not, to my mind, make out a case for no-license. "One swallow does not make a summer:" neither does the fact of one or a hundred men going wrong through weakness make out a reason why men who can drink wisely and well (and they number some hundreds of thousands) being coerced to the will of weak-minded people.

I am, etc., IN VINO VERITAS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Will you permit me to thank Mr. J. B. Sutton, president of the United Licensed Victuallers' Association, for answering two lines of my letter in your issue of September 2. Might I ask him why he did not answer the more pertinent questions that I put to a "Publican" correspondent? Was it that, as president of the U.L.V.A., he preferred not to? If so, he is following closely in the footsteps of his predecessors in office, for they adopted similar tactics whenever I attacked the liquor trade and its doings. Mr. Sutton assures me that the brewers do not now dominate the United Licensed Victuallers' Association, and have not since he became president in 1902. If this is correct, his election to office must have caused quite a revolution in the affairs of his association. I presume Mr. President Sutton has recourse to documents, etc., kept in the library of his association? If so, will he for his own conscience sake peruse the minutes of evidence taken before the Select Committee on Tied Houses? On page 121 he will learn from the lips of Mr. W. J. Moat on September 12, 1901, then secretary of this U.L.V. Association, that: "Country brewers, as well as metropolitan brewers, were all taken as members of the association. . . . He was the mouthpiece for over 800 publicans . . . . There were only 250 metropolitan members of the association, the reason explained to him being that in a very large number of the new the hotelkeepers will not belong to the association, for the simple reason that they have always considered it a brewers' association—that is to say, that the brewers controlled it." Much more on this point is to be read at Mr. Sutton's leisure.

Mr. Sutton assures me that the brewers' association was not even represented on the board of the U.L.V. Association. I never said it was. This is not necessary, seeing a new association has been formed by the brewers, with its paid secretary, lecturers, etc., going about like a roaring lion seeking to prevent that which Mr. Sutton and his many assistants assure us will increase their trade beyond all bounds.

In conclusion, might I assure Mr. Sutton that my time is too much taken up to discuss with him much of the nonsense that he writes, but if he will endeavour to show the general public that the retail sale of alcohol—either in a cellar or palace—is beneficial to mankind, then I'm prepared to defend my position and show to the contrary every time.

I am, etc., A. JAMES.

WAGES BOARDS.

SLAUGHTERING BOARD.

At the last meeting of the Slaughtering Board (Mr. A. B. Piddington presiding), [illegible] Ford, manager for Miller and Co., of Glebe Island, said that there were more rejects from the sheep killed at Glebe Island for the freezing trade than at the Sydney Meat Preserving Company's works at Auburn and at Riverstone, but equally good sheep were bought for Glebe killing. It was about seven or eight miles from Homebush to Glebe Island, and about [illegible] miles from Homebush to Riverstone. During the last five or six years the Glebe Island freezing trade had increased, and at Riverstone's had decreased. There were more [illegible] now [illegible]. If they [illegible] at Glebe Island, [illegible] deliver [illegible] trade. [illegible] Todhunter [illegible] Parramatta [illegible] the award could fairly be applied to Parramatta.

PROCESS ENGRAVERS.

At the meeting of the Process Engravers' Wages Board (Mr. L. Armstrong presiding) A. H. Walton said he had been employed as an etcher in Western Australia at a wage of £3 10s per week, but as he desired to learn process engraving he decided to come to Sydney to learn the business. Accordingly, he paid Mr. S. W. Bacon a premium [illegible] operating. He [illegible] Martin, but there were several apprentices. He expected his work would cease in about three weeks, and he had no arrangement with Mr. Bacon for his employment when he had finished learning.

The witness was asked what premium he had paid Mr. Bacon, but objected to answer the question. Mr. Bacon, the employers' representative on the board, also objected, and the question was disallowed. Asked whether the premium was large or small, witness again declined to answer, and Mr. Bacon asked what the question had to do with the board or the union. He submitted that it was his private business. The question was disallowed.

TILE-LAYERS' BOARD.

Mr. E. H. Buchanan, chairman of the Tile-layers' (Cumberland and Northumberland) Board, delivered the award of the board last night as follows:—

Hours: Week's work, 48 hours.

Overtime: After 8¾ hours on week-days and 4¼ hours on Saturday, time and a quarter for the first two hours and thereafter time and a half up to midnight, double time after midnight.

Sundays and holidays: Double time.

Classification: First-grade men to be those who at the time of the award coming into operation receive 10s per day, and second-grade those receiving less than 10s. Minimum rate of wages for first-grade men, 10s per day of eight hours, and minimum for second-grade 9s per day.

Railway and tram fares to be paid by the employer beyond certain distances.

Travelling time: Time occupied in travelling to and from country work where the workman is engaged on day work to be paid for at ordinary rates. If a man travels on Saturday and Sunday he shall be paid for one day only.

Country allowance: An employee going from Sydney to work in the country 20 miles from Sydney on day work to receive an additional 2s a day, except where employer provides suitable board and lodging.

Method of work: Employer to determine whether work shall be executed by day work or piecework rates, subject to exemptions from piecework in the schedule.

Piecework rates are defined with particularity for floor and verandah tiling, mosaic tiling, nosings, steps, wall-tiling, arch, camber work or soffits, opalite and other glass tiling, moulded tiles, dadoes, hearths and covings, mantelpieces, fenders and grates.

Other clauses relate to country rates on piecework, travelling time, country allowance, shortage, and loss of time.

Apprentices: Apprentices to be bound for five years, and paid at the following rates:—10s per week for first year, 15s second, 20s third, 27s 6d fourth, 40s fifth, and the proportion of boys not to exceed one to each journeyman.

Preference: Respecting this, it is directed that no preference shall be given to either unionists or non-unionists, and both "shall work together in peace and harmony."

The usual rules respecting disputes and slow-workers are given.

Area and duration: The award shall apply to all persons engaged in the industry in the counties of Cumberland and Northumberland, and shall come into force on October 1, 1910, and remain in force for three years.

THE SOUTH-WEST.

RAILWAY FACILITIES.

I.

That portion of the State lying between Hillston, Condobolin, Wyalong, and Barellan, has attracted considerable attention during the last couple of years. The demand for land, coupled with an intense necessity for the promotion of closer settlement, has emphasised the importance of making a better use of such Crown lands as are still available for agricultural purposes. While State and private subdivision has catered to some extent to the demand, it is generally recognised that a large class of valuable settlers are still unprovided for. Men with small capital, but sound experience, find a difficulty in obtaining land owing to the enhanced prices resulting from a run of good seasons, and an extremely revived interest in rural enterprise. Necessarily, therefore, the State has to make the best use of what land is still available, and this has brought the above stretch of country into prominence. The announcement that the Government is resolved to provide railway facilities in this south-western part of the State investq the districts with a new importance. What is now essential is a definite statement from the authorities as to what form this provision is to take. So far the matter has only been referred to generally in the shape of a statement that the Wyalong-Hillston country is to be opened up by a railway. Consideration of the nature and demands of the district referred to speedily shows that something more definite is required.

It has already been pointed out in these columns that there are two distinct railway proposals, both of which are independent of each other, and which must be dealt with on their individual merits. The extension of the railway from Barellan to Hillston, via the irrigation settlement on the Northern Murrumbidgee, has been exhaustively dealt with previously, and beyond doubt this proposal is one warranted, and one that compels attention. It opens up a large area of Crown land suitable for wheatgrowing, provides essential facilities for the future settlers on the irrigation area, and provides the western country on the other side of the Lachlan with much needed connection with the main railway system. On the other side of the district —if such a large stretch of country can be considered as one district—there is a demand for an extension of the present railway at West Wyalong to Lake Cudgellico. It is now intended to deal with this proposal. But it is imperative that it should be first realised that these lines are not antagonistic. The fact is that no one railway can open up this vast area of country. The assertion, rather common in what should be well-informed circles, that a railway is to be built in the Wyalong-Hillston district, that will open up over two million acres of Crown lands, is only likely to cloud the issue. It is an impractical statement, and it is most desirable that the Government should specify more clearly what its intentions are, that it may be understood that the position is fully recognised.

Glancing casually at the map of the State, it may appear feasible that a railway running through the centre of this country would meet requirements. But such a project would be most unsatisfactory. It would leave the greater part of the best land unserved by a railway, and practically spoil what is a splendid opportunity for the State to settle a large area of country with wheatgrowers and sheepfarmers. The two railways, supposing both were constructed, would be up to 60 miles apart. It will at once be seen how little they are related. For wheatgrowing, railway communication should, if possible, be within 12 to 15 miles distance. It is most desirable that a farmer should be able to take his wheat in to the railway, and get back home the same night. While it may not always be possible to provide this, it should be the aim of railway construction, if we are to get the most out of our wheat country. Taking the two railways as built, therefore, and operating over the country, 15 and even 20 miles on each side, they would still leave a large gap between them unserved as far as wheatgrowing is concerned. A railway running through the centre of this country would, so far from opening up anything like two million acres of Crown lands, only touch a portion of the country, and leave most of the best of it, as it is at present, practically unused, and almost valueless to the State. The idea of these lines is to extend the wheat belt. To illustrate the point referred to, the relative independence of these railway proposals, it is well to take existing lines.

Thus we find the extensions of the Temora line to Barellan and Wyalong, respectively, only about 40 miles apart at the furthest point. For the greater part they ran much closer together. The Temora-Barellan line, again, is only 30 miles away from the South-Western line serving Ganmain, Coolamon, etc. Then, lower down, the Lockhart line is only about 20 miles from the Ganmain-Coolamon line. All these railways have opened up splendid wheat country, and been a wise investment. None of them are superfluous by any means. Similarly different lines will be required to open up the Wyalong-Hillston country. Excepting that they are situated in the same part of the State, that both will open up similar sort of country, the two main proposals are no more connected than if they were a thousand miles apart. Apparently our legislators, after years of inexplicable delay, now realise that in this south-western corner the State has a magnificent asset lying undeveloped, and we can confidently expect that this state of things will be remedied. Now, however, that action is promised, it is imperative that such development should be undertaken with full realisation of the scope of country affected, and that the extension to Hillston from Barellan, via the vicinity of Gunbar, and the extension to Lake Cudgellico from Wyalong, by whatever local route most commends itself, are not in any way rival propositions. Both are exceedingly attractive, and that fact alone indicates what a great opportunity exists for State enterprise. It is certain, with the heavy and sound demands now existing for railway extension, that future construction will be largely influenced by the opportunity of opening up land, preferably Crown land, at a low price. Where that can be done we will be enabled to provide not only for our own landseekers with small capital, but to go to other countries with an offer that will eclipse our rivals' inducements to immigrants. These railway proposals, while they will be eagerly welcomed locally—they have been agitated for during many years—demand attention mainly on national grounds, as being the means of attracting a large number of settlers to this State. Under existing conditions that is the most potent argument that can be produced, and lifts the question far above local considerations.

NO RIGHT OF ACCESS.

"Landseeker" writes:—I read with much interest in your issue of the 2nd inst your account of Mrs. M'Mullen's unfortunate position. According to same for about 22 years she and her family "used a recognised right-of-way without any molestation from anyone. But Flood's farm having lately passed into new hands, this right-of-way has been closed against any further traffic." I would point out that if a person has had a right-of-way for over 20 years, it is generally a difficult matter to close it. Again, the land appears to be a c.p. therefore the Government are the landlords, and surely should see that the tenant has a right of entry and exit. It is to be hoped that immediate steps will be taken by the Government to protect Mrs. M'Mullen's property and stock. Your remarks have opened up another question, which comes pretty close in some respects, and needs the attention of the Minister for Lands, who is doing his best to put men on the land. I refer to blocks of land being thrown open, and no provision made for a decent road to same. Intending applicants have to see that before committing themselves, they can take building materials to the property, and can also get their produce out to market. Not long since I inspected a very nice property, which was well watered, and contained much red soil, and a large area of open country, and was just the thing for a young man to make a start on. The terms were suitable, maps, etc. all beautifully prepared, but to get on to the land I had to travel over about 1½ miles of another man's c.p. land, which he had only recently converted from a c.l., which action made it difficult, if not impossible, to get a right-of-way over it. I heard that only two persons applied for this block, one of them being a man in the employ of the party who had used the land for years, for a rent of about 1½d an acre, and who had converted the c.l. land into a c.p.; and the other a miner not far away. Had there been a decent roadway to the place, I venture to say that many persons would have applied for it. Another complaint is, that blocks with no water frontage are thrown open, when by making them a few acres larger, permanent water could have been got. This naturally limited the area to the man who had the frontage. It fooled several to take long journeys to inspect, and when they saw the state of affairs they were naturally annoyed. On paper these may appear small matters; to those who desire to get on the land they are serious enough. I feel that the Government desires to do what is right, and that its surveyors should report the means of access, etc. Should same be impossible by team, then a road should be provided. This is especially so, when the Government has other lands adjoining that may be thrown open later, and fall into the hands of persons who may be disagreeable, and not allow one to pass out their way.

ENGLISH WOOL TRADE.

MANUFACTURING CONDITIONS IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

BRADFORD, Aug. 5.

Naturally with the holidays breaking in upon the week's work, the trade of worstedopolis has been more or less disturbed, but for all that the market last Thursday was by no means wanting in tone or character. During the past two years August has proved to be a much better time than formerly, this being really the holiday month of the year. Everybody hopes that the present will maintain the level of last year, but I have my doubts. There is the one factor absent which last year especially proved to be a very valuable one, and which was largely responsible for bringing about the betterment in the trade of the district, the trade doing in raw wool between this district and the United States. Every market day was then of a lively character, due to the large weekly shipments of raw material. When America is buying it inspires everybody else with confidence, and English users are soon stirred into activity. It is hardly likely that we shall see a repetition of this during the coming month, but if accounts are to be relied upon, an improvement has already begun. There are several who are doing their utmost to inspire holders here with the belief that we are on the eve of a revival in trade with our friends across the Atlantic. I am afraid that the wish is father to the thought. If sometimes buyers as well as sellers would pay more regard to the law of cause and effect they would be saved from making financial losses at times. I cannot shake from my mind this outstanding fact, namely, that there are in the United States about 58 million sheep. Three months ago these sheep were shorn, and not 25 per cent. of the clip has as yet passed into the hands of the consumer. It is a well-known fact that the market value of these wools is sensibly below what either English or colonial crossbred wool can be landed at, consequently what firm is going to start importing when they can cover all their requirements at less prices in their own market? No doubt the firm finish in London has had a beneficial effect upon American markets, and evidently from cable accounts United States wool-houses are impressed with the fact that the raw material so far as Great Britain is concerned still occupies a very sound position. This is an important consideration, and may ultimately beneficially affect United States manufacturers, and induce fabric buyers to purchase liberally when the holidays are over. My own view is that there will have to be a free movement of the present growing crops before the textile trade of the United States will "arise and shine."

I am in very close touch with Boston, which is the principal centre of the American wool industry, and my correspondent is in no small way of business. When he wrote the following letter he was away in the country trying to buy domestic fleeces, and this is what he says:—

> Regarding the market on our side, I don't know that there is any change. Mills are slack, and the orders for goods are still withheld, or not wanted. The thing has been overdone, and we have to wait until surplus goods are sold, and the condition adjusts itself. I have been out here two weeks buying wool from the growers. Some clips are quite large, running up to 200,000lb, and such a clip I got this week. The wool is your style 56's to 58's, some quite attractive, good staple and light; others, again the reverse—poor, scranty, and badly grown, just traceable to the range they run on, and whether the flocks are well cared for in the winter, as last season they had blizzards, and the sheep had to be hay fed. These wools are obtainable this year at very handy prices, so cheap, in fact, that Australian wool is not in it. Naturally, if business looks up, and manufacturers want wool, this will be all used against Australian, so that your market has at present no interest to us. What wool America is returning should have little influence with you, as it is a mere bagatelle, but papers make a lot of fuss about it. I see no prospect of English or Irish being wanted this year; our domestic wool is altogether pence per lb cheaper, is accumulating, and ample for all requirements. We have also a lot of B.A. and N.Z. crossbreds still in bond, seeking an outlet and finding none. This opinion may be cruel to holders on your side, but it is my firm opinion, and time will prove it. Wool on your side will sag without precipitating it. Early next year naturally stocks here will be, I expect, low in merino wool, and crossbred prices, too, will be lower, then they may again look attractive to our people.

I was very much struck while reading a leading article in one of the best American textile issues the other day, and referring to the question of whether wool is really cheap they made use of the following significant remarks: —"They are high as compared with any recent five or ten years' average, and are wholly unwarranted by the present depressed status of the manufacturing situation. Even those dealers who are impressed by the apparent shortage of staple in the new clip will do well to go slow, for there is no assurance that the supply will not be ample. It certainly will be if worsted mills are to secure no larger shares of the total business than last season. They should remember, too, that there is over 60,000,000 pounds of class 1 and class 2 wool in bond in this country, to say nothing of the considerable supply of foreign fine wool held in storage at mills. This is all staple wool, and will go a long way toward counterbalancing the deficiency of staple in the domestic clip." The above no doubt will be rather depressing reading to many of my readers, but they are facts which need facing, and in view of the heavy weights of merino and crossbred wool in bond, I cannot yet see how it is possible that America can resume its position as a large buyer of either colonial or English. Of course, things when they once begin to revive come forward with a clatter, and I hope that the days of prosperity will soon return.

VALUES VERY FIRM.

Looking at our local market, conditions do not show much variation compared with a week ago. Merinos are not over buoyant, but are still very sound. My experience is that the majority of spinners are now well bought to the end of the year, due to the fact that very few see any chance of cheaper wool. Of course the time is fast approaching when topmakers should be offering to take less for January delivery—and I do not think that we shall be long before a few are prepared to sell forward at less money. A good 64's top is worth 2/4½, but it will have to be a very good article to fetch more. The market is very firm, and the undertone is good. Crossbreds also are feeling the benefit of a better market. Topmakers are firm, and many see how foolish they have been to sell at the ridiculous prices which were current a month ago. There was absolutely no need for it, and today a decent 40's top is commanding /14½. Some have been able to make a fraction more, but their combing is undoubtedly a superior one, and more like a 44's. Most mills have been standing a day, but spinners are doing their utmost to get their hands to do with as little holiday as possible. Business generally is sound, and very healthy.

SOUTH AMERICAN WOOLS.

The British Association of Woolbuyers, which now comprise all sections of the trade, have felt for long that some readjustment is necessary in regard to the purchasing of South American wools. They affirm that they want to do a fair thing between sellers and buyers, but there is one or two items which will have to be readjusted sooner or later. They have therefore prepared a circular, which I understand has been sent out to all the different wool houses in Buenos Ayres. There will not be much difficulty with most of the items set forth in the circular, but over two paragraphs at least there is likely to be a stiff fight between sellers and buyers. First, there is the question of guarantee. The B.A. of W.B. suggest that there is to be no 1 per cent. margin in future, but, to prevent frivolous testing, 1 per cent. extra is to be charged on amount of invoice when the buyer decides to have a test respecting the clean yield of the wool. It is hardly likely that sellers will agree to pay half conditioning house charges, and no doubt they will contend that, if a buyer elects to treat the wool in this way, then he should himself pay for the same, which I must admit seems to be a reasonable proposition. Then the British Association of Woolbuyers are proposing that 1 per cent. draft on the weight of the invoice is to be allowed, and in addition all certified claims for shortweight to be credited in full by the seller. This is all right from the buyer's standpoint, but how it will work from that of the seller is rather questionable. Some affirm already that it is rather an unfair proposal, especially if the buyer decides to let the full 90 days elapse before taking the wool up: and if those 90 days happen to be real summer days, a loss in weight is almost certain. The question naturally arises, if a loss in weight has to be allowed, how about all the overweight that is usual on imports? Does the seller get that?

HUDDERSFIELD TRADE.

Mills have never been busier than during the past two years, and to-day there are no signs of slowing down. It is quite true that the home trade demand for pieces is not so brisk as it was, simply because we are now passing through what is known as "between seasons." It is really too early for the next spring trade to take definite shape, and many manufacturers are awaiting confirmations on the patterns selected during the showing of June and July. On the other hand, it is a little too soon for winter repeats to come to hand; but, all the same, the shipping end of the trade is uncommonly brisk, and there is as yet no slowing down whatever. So far, Bradford yarn-spinners, who have large and important connections in Huddersfield, have done well in supplying the needs of their customers, and we have every reason for saying that a big effort will be made to meet their demands during the next few months; but, all the same, many firms have recently been a little upset by not being able to get all they wanted in time to fully satisfy the wants of their looms.

AUSTRALIAN PRODUCE ABROAD.

SELLING PRODUCE BY AUCTION.

LONDON, Aug. 5.

The suggestion to sell dairy produce by auction in the South Island of New Zealand has brought forward the old idea of London auctions for Australasian butter and cheese. When I was informed last week by a Tooley-street house that a cable had been received from New Zealand asking them to put up some cheese to auction here, I thought that I might usefully write an article on the subject; the house cabled out, "No such system." Some 10 years ago a firm did establish auction sales for New Zealand cheese here, but soon gave it up. There need be no hesitation in reporting on the auction project as regards this end. It is utterly opposed to the way of handling Australian and New Zealand butter and cheese in this market. As the trade has grown in volume, the commercial style of putting the articles before the buyers has developed along defined lines. There is a great deal of business rivalry, and each importer desires to keep to himself as far as possible the information concerning the brands he is handling. A certain consignee will interest himself in a brand of butter, nurse it, and introduce it into the channels for which he thinks it best suited. He goes to some expense about this, and the factory reaps the benefit. Well, the auction idea would upset everything! Too much publicity would be given to the brands and other details. It is certain that on the average the New Zealander would not accomplish the object he has in view—higher prices. Instead of leading to competition amongst buyers, it would lead to the Tooley-street agents, middlemen, etc., competing in selling, a vicious system, likely to establish a lower range of values on normal markets. The goods of a factory would be offered all over "the street," instead of being carefully handled by one house. "The buying of butter by grocers, etc., is not a regular weekly function," said a merchant; "they fill up as it suits them. Some customers buy this week, and may not turn up again for some weeks to come. Such fluctuations would be severely felt at auctions, and would disorganise the whole business. Butter sold at a weekly auction would thus fall into the hands of speculators at times owing to this irregularity of purchase. A popular brand sold by auction would be run up by the consignee's rival for a while so high that the original agent would have to discard it. Then it would be at the mercy of the competitor, who, of course, would not fail to use his opportunity."

BUTTER MARKET.

No butter arrived from Victoria or New South Wales in July; a dropping fire of small lots has been experienced from Queensland. They speak of the Mongolia, leaving Melbourne this week, as likely to bring the first shipment of new season Western district butter. I am told this butter costs to arrive 112s—about 500 boxes or so, not enough to make a market. To make a market you want 4000 to 5000 boxes per week. But our people are anxiously looking forward to the new Australian butters; about the end of September they will be interesting themselves in the cold store stocks, which are estimated at 80,000 to 90,000 packages.

The few transactions of late have been on the basis of about 100s to 104s, but holders are not offering. Possibly some of them are making a mistake, for with butter costing them 108s it is a speculative matter cold storing it, with charges to add. A transaction in "Baroness" New South Wales butter at 104s, unsalted, prompted a repeat order, which, however, could not be executed in the absence of stocks.

PRODUCE NOTES.

A shortage of frozen rabbits is anticipated by the trade, owing to the slackness of shipments from Australasia. There have been very light arrivals, and the market prices have kept up quite well. Any goods here have been worth:— 14s, 15s, small; 15s, 16s, large. The small are so scarce that dealers do not care to deal unless a proportion of large are taken with the order. Of course it is not a natural shortage, but one caused by lack of freight from Australian ports. The cool July has caused a good demand for rabbits here from shopkeepers who take part of a crate. Hares are also very short, and high prices for both rabbits and hares may be anticipated for some time yet.

Produce of many different kinds keeps on arriving from Australia. Bacon, lard, frozen turtles (40), pineapples (Brisbane), oranges (Adelaide), and so on. The chief suppliers of bacon last week were:—Russia (1604 packages), Holland (1021), Denmark (368), and Canada (198). Irish bacon is up to 85s, top price (Danish the same), Canadian 8s.

The big War Office contract for tinned meat mostly went to Libby and Co.—1,000,000lb of corned meat—at the highest price ever given by the department. A new tender is asked for by November 9 for 481,251 tins of meat for the army, 68,750 of which must be in 2lb tins, the rest in 1lb lots.

The South Australian Government Produce Department is going strong as regards the London end. Exhibitions of the articles imported are to be held at Manchester, Hull, and Liverpool, and also at the series of trade shows held in London in the autumn of every year. Frozen poultry from the State did well this year on this market, and honey is forging ahead, especially at Manchester, a district assiduously cultivated by the Trade Commissioner. He hopes to get the business up to 100 tons a year, and expects to receive consignment of eggs this winter from Adelaide.

Early in the year the steamer Kia Ora, from New Zealand, arrived in the Royal Albert Dock, having on board 176 cases of frozen soles. It was not possible to examine the fish without first thawing it out. Five cases were first thawed, and as a result of the examination of these it was decided to thaw out the whole consignment. The contents of 50 cases were found unfit for human food and destroyed.

The Swedish Executive has arranged all the essential plans for the International Dairy Congress, to be held at Stockholm from June 28 to July 1, 1911. The Swedish National Agricultural Show is to be visited at Oerebro, and many farmers are offering to show their dairy farms. The presence of Australian dairy people is hoped for.

The downward movement in frozen meats has been stopped, and all round things are looking better. Australian mutton is the dullest article on the market, and, though it sells freely, both in London and country centres, the price is quite low. This is accounted for by the very heavy imports in 1910. If progress at the present rate in shipments from the Commonwealth continues to be made, Australian mutton will soon put other sections into the shade. New Zealand lambs are selling well (though the market price is low) in view of expected light arrivals in September-October. Frozen beef has also recovered, owing to the falling-off in chilled beef imports. Worm nodules have appeared in New South Wales beef; this nuisance is causing an immense amount of delay and trouble, likewise considerable expense.

The premier jus market is looking healthy. The Americans have reduced their high rates, which were current two or three months ago, but still values are very satisfactory. London prices are at present about £43 to £44 per ton. Lard is in somewhat the same position as premier jus, having dropped considerably. Good quality lard, such as comes from New Zealand, is worth about £45 per ton. The qualities, however, vary considerably. Some lard properly prepared may even fetch higher prices than stated above. There is still a good market, but everything depends on condition.

Some Mincing-lane Notes.—Honey: Jamaican, 27s to 30s per cwt. The different trade descriptions are "liquid amber," "dark," "set polish," "amber and dark setting." Haiti honey is worth 28s. Quicksilver (selling) steady at £8 12s 6d per bottle. New Guinea rubber would be worth 5s 6d to 6s 6d a lb if here. Australian beeswax (12 packages) was sold at auction at £7 17s 6d a cwt; copra, South Sea Island, £22 15s. Eucalyptus oil is dull, as is usual in summer time. A good deal was left over from last season. Germany is becoming an increasingly good customer for eucalyptus oil, direct. Confectioners are taking up the business, and a leading house is putting a eucalyptus lozenge on the market. "B.P." oils are worth 1s to 1s 0½d per lb, "Amygdalina" 9d.

Mr. Govers, of the Agent-General's office, visited Avignon when he was in France recently to look at the interesting "pre-cooling" installation there. From what he tells me I should think that something of the kind would be useful in the State in connection with taking fruit and other perishable produce to market. In France they are very subject to strikes and labour dislocations, which have caused much loss to growers. Roughly, the "pre-cooling" is first taking in the waggons to the cooling buildings and removing all heat from the interior. Then the fruit, vegetables, etc, kept handy in the same place, are loaded, and should any delay take place the waggon load of foods can stay for a moderate time without injury. The temperature was 37.4 F.

With meat and produce July has been a very quiet month. The principal point of interest has been the great increase of beef deliveries. The steamer Essex alone brought 13,400 quarters—6000 from Gladstone and 7400 from Brisbane. The forequarters from Brisbane are badly affected with worm nodules, and they are all subjected to a strict examination by the port sanitary inspectors. In the case of this ship over 3000 quarters were sent to the dock stores to be inspected. All this is causing great delay and expense to the consignees. The fault occurred also in the case of the steamer Osterley and other ships. Something will have to be made, as it is a serious handicap to Australian frozen beef. The beef from the Argentine is not subjected to such inspections and consequent delay.

During the past fortnight the following steamers have brought to London, Liverpool, and Bristol refrigerated produce from Australia and New Zealand:—Rippingham Grange, Osterley, Agamemnon, Georgic, Fifeshire, Corinthic, Malwa, Mamari, Afric, and Nerehana. 164,427 carcases mutton, 265,775 carcases lamb, 51,343 quarters beef, 3005 crates rabbits, 11,450 cases canned meats, 274 carcases pork, 2264 cases meat, 1 case meat meal, 39 frozen turtles, 284 crates sundries, 205 pieces beef, 98 cases bacon, 100 sides bacon, 63 packages lard, 90 cases mutton products, 163 joints beef, 151 cases pork, 278 haunches mutton, 40 bags sh. mutton, 1459 crates kidneys, 30,294 legs mutton, 31 cases meat extract, 206 pairs lamb legs, 750 tinned rabbits, 1094 boxes butter, 7880 cases cheeses, 12 cases oranges, 400 boxes dried fruit.

BLUE BUSH.

Mr. Fred Turner, F.L.S., writes:—Since you published my figures and description of the Australian culinary "blue bush," Chenopodium auricomum, I have read Mr. Bois's description of the botanically allied exotic plant, Chenopodium amaranticolour, which appeared in a recent issue of the "Bulletin de la Societe d' Acclimatisation de France." According to that authority, C. amaranticolour grows freely in warm countries to a height of from three to four feet, and gives a large amount of excellent leafy produce, which is used in the same way as spinach. Last year trials were made to test the adaptability of this culinary plant to the climate of France. In the southern parts it grew satisfactorily, and ripened seed in the open air, but in the latitude of Paris and northern portions of France it would appear best to grow it in succession under glass, the young plants being used, after they have grown six or eight inches high, at which time they are tender and of good flavour. Planted out during summer in a sunny position in the garden, where the soil is rich, the plant grows to a height of from two to three feet, and gives a correspondingly large yield of useful garden produce.

MEETINGS OF FARMERS.

WEE WAA.—At the Farmers and Settlers' Association meeting, a motion, "That this branch desires to demand another muster of sheep in any case where the law has not been complied with in reference to giving notice of intention to muster," was carried.

DAIRYING.

ARMIDALE.—Excellent progress is being made with the building and plant for the Armidale Butter Factory, and practical operations will most probably be commenced about the beginning of October.

BELLINGEN.—A number of directors and others interested in local butter factories interviewed Mr. R. A. Bell, of the North Coast S.N. Company, at Bellingen, to see if better arrangements could not be arrived at in regard to the carriage of butter from the factories to the company's steamers at the Heads. Mr. Bell explained that the company's drogher was now undergoing repairs, which would make her capable of carrying 600 boxes of butter under hatches, at a speed of about eight miles an hour. A motion was proposed in favour of giving this a trial, but an amendment was carried favouring an arrangement between the factories and the river motor launches to carry the butter, the North Coast Company to be asked to refund up to 3d per box of the freight now charged to defray some of the expense. Mr. Bell, however, said the company was running to the river at a loss, and would hold out no hope that the refund would be agreed to.

DORRIGO.—Messrs. Andrew Walker, John Noble, James Smith, Jas. Kirkland, Fred. Harrigan, and E. Keech were elected directors of the Dorrigo Dairy Company for the ensuing 12 months.

GLOUCESTER.—The ninth half-yearly meeting of the Avon-Barrington Co-operative Butter Factory was held on Saturday. After writing off for depreciation £72, there was a credit balance to the profit and loss account of £442, leaving the present debit balance £35, after wiping off the last debit balance of £477. Eighty-three tons of butter was manufactured for the last half-year, being an increase of 5 tons. Suppliers were paid 10¾d for first and 9¾d for second class.

PAMBULA.—For July the Towamba Dairy Company manufactured 2694lb butter, realising £144. Suppliers were paid 11d net. The whole district is passing through a drought. Farmers find difficulty in ploughing, and the milk yields are backward.

SCONE.—The local butter factory for the past fortnight manufactured 29,613lb butter, and paid suppliers £1477.

WINGHAM.—At the annual meeting of the Manning River Dairy Company the chairman of directors (Mr. D. M'Donell) said it was the unanimous opinion of the board that, to conduct the business on up-to-date lines a railway, as well as water connection was needed. Within the next two years one-third of their cream would come along the line, and if they did not devise some means of picking it up promptly they would eventually lose it. He saw no reason why they should not secure a fresh site for their factory. The factory had lost £1500 in cash through boats being periodically barbound. The present building, he contended, was out of date, and £300 to £400 per annum went out in repairs.

PASTURES BOARDS.

SCONE.—Mr. W. E. Abbott, who has been a member of the local P.P. Board since its inception about 30 years ago, has resigned, owing to ill-health. The board at its last meeting asked him to reconsider the matter.

THE SHEARING.

BROKEN HILL.—Shearing generally has been performed throughout the West Darling district without a hitch. The wet sheep question alone has caused a little argument.

SCONE.—Shearing is in progress all over the district. The wool is in good order, somewhat on the light side, and everything points to a most satisfactory shearing season.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

KIANDRA.—A splendid rainfall occurred on Saturday night, 247 points being registered, making 438 points for the week. A good season is assured.

MANILLA.—The Farmers and Settlers' Association is taking steps to have wool classes in connection with the Technical College established here.

PROPERTY SALE.

GUNNEDAH.—Bacon and Company, Gunnedah, in conjunction with Hain and Searight, report having completed the sale on account of Messrs. Rogers Bros. of Talbarea Estate, Gunnedah district, consisting of 5810 acres freehold land at a satisfactory cash price.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE WATTLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Now that Wattle Day has come to stay (good luck to it), it would be as well, seeing that many wattle trees will be planted, not only in our public parks and school grounds, but in private gardens, for the Director of the Botanic Gardens to disseminate a little cultural information through the press for the benefit of all.

From my observations it would seem that the wattle tree, after attaining an age of seven years, is so riddled with the "borer" that it has become an eyesore and a danger; therefore, without proper attention, such will be the fate of all trees planted yesterday.

The "borer" attacks the trunk as well as the branches of the tree, and cannot be checked, even by the most persistent picking out. Can Mr. Maiden or Mr. Froggat supply a remedy that will prove efficacious?

I am, etc.,
A.S.E.P.
Sydney, September 2.

A MINER'S SPLENDID CURE BY BILE BEANS.

"Through working in wet mines I contracted that agonising complaint, itching piles," says Mr. D. Jones, of Barker-street, Casino, N.S.W. "The intense irritating and itching caused me to suffer acutely, and deprived me of many hours of rest. This complaint had a terrible effect on my general health, and soon I was reduced to an awful state. I tried first one thing and then another, but nothing gave me any relief. I was sick of experimenting with useless remedies. Acting on the advice of a friend, I purchased a supply of BILE BEANS, and commenced taking them. This splendid remedy soon gave me ease. The irritation and itching became less severe, and by continuing with BILE BEANS I soon got rid of the awful piles. It is twelve months ago since BILE BEANS cured me, and there has been no sign of the piles returning, and I am perfectly satisfied that the cure is permanent. I always keep a supply of BILE BEANS on hand."

BILE BEANS strengthen and tone up the system, regulate the bowels, and stimulate the liver and stomach. BILE BEANS are a proved cure for constipation, stomach disorder, piles, liver trouble, bad breath, biliousness, sickness, indigestion, headache, nervousness, loss of energy, anaemia, that tired feeling, and female ailments. Sold by all chemists and stores at 1s 1½d and 2s 9d per box. —Advt.

CRAINE.—A tribute of everlasting love to the memory of our dear brother, Reggie, who died September 6, 1907, loved by all who knew him. Inserted by his loving brother and sister-in-law, Thomas and Harriet Murphy.

CRITTENDEN.—In sad but loving memory of our dear son (Percy Alfred), who departed this life 6th September, 1909. Inserted by his loving mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Crittenden, also his loving sister and brother, Violet and Harry. Gone, but not forgotten.

GAFFNEY.—In sad but loving memory of our dear daughter, Thelma Dorothea, who fell asleep on September 7, 1909, aged two months. Away in the lonely grave she is sleeping, our daughter, the sweetest and the best. Inserted by her sorrowing parents.

HILDER.—In loving memory of my dear sister, Mrs. Jane Gibb Hilder, who departed this life September 6th, 1906. Inserted by her loving brother, John Stuart.

HUNTER.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Elizabeth Hunter, who died September 6th, 1909, aged 84 years.

Peace, perfect peace, with loved ones far away,
In Jesu's keeping we are safe, and they.

IRVINE.—In loving memory of my dearly beloved husband and father, John Thomas Irvine, who died at 87 Eveleigh-street, Redfern, on the 6th September, 1909, aged 37 years. Inserted by his loving wife and children, Jack and Florrie. God took him from our home, but never from our hearts.

IRVINE.—In loving remembrance of Jack, who departed this life September 6. Inserted by his loving mother and father-in-law, sisters, and brothers-in-law. At rest.

ROBBINS.—In loving memory of our dearly-beloved father, William Robbins, who departed this life on September 4. Inserted by his loving children, William, Charles, and Margaret.

ROGERSON.—In loving remembrance of Francis Charles Rogerson, who departed this life on the 6th September, 1906, at his late residence, Chapel-street, Kogarah. For ever with the Lord. Inserted by his loving wife and children.

TURNER.—In memory of my darling little daughter, Victoria Hope Turner, who died September 6, 1907, aged 6 years and seven months. Inserted by her mother, who loved her so dearly. Mrs. A. Turner, 60 Elizabeth-street, city.

WITHERS.—In sad and loving memory of my dear husband and father, who departed this life September 6th, 1906, aged 44 years. Sadly missed. Inserted by his loving wife and daughter, Mattie and Alice May Withers.

IMMIGRATION AND INDUSTRY.

Our special correspondent in London sends us some forcible articles upon immigration, the first of which appears in this morning's issue. At the same time Mr. George Hoskins makes strong comments upon the same subject in connection with the steel rails contract recently concluded with his firm by the Wade Government. "We must have population to build up our railways," he says, with proper emphasis. Providing the additional cost to the State is not unreasonable, the acceptance by the Government of Messrs. Hoskins' tender for the supply of steel rails may be regarded as another milestone on the road to the successful establishment of iron and steel manufacture in Australia. It will involve the laying down of much additional plant and the employment of many more men, and unless obstacles are deliberately placed in the way of the enterprise there should be nothing to prevent the rails required by the other States and by the Commonwealth in the construction of the transcontinental lines being turned out from Lithgow. But even if the Commonwealth and other State Governments withhold their patronage the contract now entered into will give the new industry at least a start. In the meantime the mountain district, which has been variously described as the Australian Birmingham or Pittsburg of the future, may conveniently take account of the fact that it has been due to the administrative acts of the present Liberal Government of the State that the manufacture of iron from the native ores, and the conversion of that iron in turn into steel, has become commercially feasible. It is very likely that other ironworks will yet be established in other of the States; but nowhere else in the Commonwealth are the raw materials necessary to economic production so conveniently assembled as at Lithgow, and it is therefore inevitable that as time goes on the industries which have iron and steel for their base must gravitate to this spot. The establishment of the Commonwealth small arms factory in the vicinity is but the beginning in this direction.

Because of the intimate relation between steel and defence, any country, but especially so isolated a country as Australia, is justified in taking a more liberal view of this industry than of most others. Nevertheless, even our iron and steel industry could cost too much, and one of the strongest arguments in favour of leaving the development of it to private enterprise is that the amount of "encouragement" given and required can be regulated and measured. With State works the cost of producing material for even State requirements almost inevitably would be greater, and it is hardly possible to conceive of State works supplying the iron trades of Australia with their raw material at prices which would enable them to make even an attempt to compete with outside rivals. On the other hand, if State works are to come along, and monopolise all Government contracts, private works, if they continue in existence, will have their market very much circumscribed. But, apart from any such contingencies, the ultimate future of the iron industry, as indeed all other manufacturing industries, is bound up with immigration—with that expansion of the home market which only a steady increase in the number of consumers can ensure. This aspect of the matter is emphasised by Mr. Hoskins in discussing the future. But the leaders of Labour are apparently so economically blind as to want neither immigration of people nor influx of capital.

THE ELECTORAL CAMPAIGN.

Liberals who stood for the Commonwealth Parliament last April have reason to look with envy on those members of their party who will go to the poll in October next. In the intervening months a double process of disillusionment has been going on. Liberals, after their awakening, have been able to discover and expose the statements which were disseminated throughout the country between Christmas and Easter, to the undoing of the Ministerialists, and the Labour party in and out of Parliament has been showing to what lengths it will go in the abuse of power. In Parliament the amendment of the Arbitration Act has shown how the Labour party will treat the man on the land, and how they regard the promises contained in the Constitution. Farmers have been asked to submit to the impossible by having the conditions of their industry, and the hours of their assistants regulated by the award of a Court. Clauses have been inserted identical with others, which the High Court has already declared to be unconstitutional, either through ignorance or in order to bring the Court into disfavour in its administration of the law. Outside Parliament the strike of bakers at Broken Hill is a proof on a small scale of the contempt which the unions in power are prepared to show for the general body of the consumers. Mr. Garland dealt with the facts of this case in his speech last night. A strike was ordered because the general body of bakers at Broken Hill were ready to supply bread at a price lower than that which the union bakery wished to compel their customers to pay. The strike failed, as, of course, all attempts to coerce the public are bound to do in the end. It occurred in an isolated corner of the State, and lasted but a very short time. It is none the less instructive if it is considered in principle, and in relation to the events to which the Labour party have given the chief place in their speeches.

The coal strike and the tramway strike were both attempts on the part of a small section of the community to override the law, and to coerce the people. So is the strike which now threatens in South Australia. All three contained the germs of failure in themselves, but in each case the end was brought about through the firmness and resolution of the Government in power. What the electors have to consider is, given this disposition to strike on the part of certain unions, how will the public interests be preserved if they listen to Mr. M'Gowen's entreaties to end his sixteen years of striving for office? The answer is furnished by the history of the coal strike and of this election. Last year it was known that many members of the Labour party were opposed to Bowling and all his works, and some of them, especially in country constituencies, have confessed their opposition during the present campaign. Yet, while the strike was in existence none of them had the courage to either use their influence with the men or assist the Government in the House. We need not discuss again the use which has been made of the strike by Labour candidates, and the wild mis-statements which have been made and refuted. We need refer to one only, because it seems to have been employed in the country more freely than in the town. Mr. Beeby and his less responsible colleague, Mr. M'Garry, have suggested that the strike leaders were arrested at Newcastle for some sinister political purpose. No one takes Mr. M'Garry seriously, but Mr. Beeby knows well that it was absolutely necessary, in the interests of justice, that the arrest should take place where it did, and at no other time. Mr. Beeby's reference to the use of the gag is equally misleading. He knows that his party were given ample opportunity of discussing the amending Act, and took it. That they made their speeches on the motion to introduce the bill, and not on the second reading, was the result of their own choice, for which they can blame no one but themselves.

THE MENACE OF ARMAMENTS.

The report that both in Great Britain and in Germany experts are feverishly at work devising a monitor that will sink a Dreadnought may or may not be reliable, but it suggests vividly enough the futility of naval rivalry. There is no last word in the construction of ships of war, and history for the last half-century has made it plain that guns and armament will continue to evolve together until the end of the chapter—which is something like scrap iron. The irony of the immense sums thus thrown into the sea is unspeakable, yet the game is one from which no escape opens up. Well-meaning individuals may do their best to minimise the significance of German activity, but even when reduced to its lowest terms, that activity is significant enough. It is impossible to deny that Germany is rapidly providing herself with almost invulnerable bases in the North Sea. It is true that we may be asked where else she could provide them, but that does not affect the fundamental fact that they are within a few hours' steam of Great Britain. Mr. Robert Blatchford may be too crude when he writes boldly that Germany intends to annex Holland and Belgium; but for two or three years past German railway development in that direction has been as ominous as anything well could be, with a great military power behind it. As it is, it is tolerably certain that Germany would not hesitate a moment to occupy Holland if a great war made that strategically desirable. And at the back of so much menacing fact we get a glimpse every now and then of the German Emperor's theory of Divine right. Divine right may be a pretty cloak for militarism, or it may be, in its way, a genuine obsession. But in either case it implies a danger to peace, against which constitutionalism is usually able to guard itself.

It is useless, therefore, to belittle the seriousness of the position, as a recent writer endeavours to belittle Admiral Mahan's warning. With the German Emperor personally exercising a squadron of twenty-one battleships, and appealing for brotherly love to continue, we cannot afford to lose an inch in the race of naval construction. It is not very often—perhaps not once in a generation—that Englishmen become seized of a great idea, but they now do almost to a man realise the vital importance of sea power, and they almost to a man realise the nearness of the German menace; although for purposes of partisan politics they may minimise or exaggerate it. Very significant is the fact that the memorial of the Imperial Maritime League, asking Government to raise a defence loan of £100,000,000, has been signed by 357 Admirals and general officers. It is part of our might and pride of Empire that even so drastic a course as that could be taken without disturbing British finance. Yet the strain has long since become enormous, and it is now only a question of what nation will be the first to reach the breaking point. So far none of them can be said to be near it, but in more than one way they are putting their future in pawn in order to continue a senseless struggle. Meantime a strongly-growing factor is the rising strength of socialism in Germany. It seems little likely that an Emperor by Divine right can look to this for any sympathy in a career of militarism, and in a very few years it may be able to call a halt.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

The question of the fortification of the Panama Canal has been unofficially raised in a novel form. The Hay-Pauncefote Treaty of 1901 seems undoubtedly to have given the United States the right to fortify, and that treaty further provided for the neutralisation of the inter-oceanic canal by whatever route it might be constructed. It might reasonably be argued that, unless the United States Government held effective possession of the canal it would not be in a position to guarantee neutrality, and that this latter implies the very fortification to which objection is being taken in some quarters. There can, however, be no question of the right of the United States to the control of the canal, and that she will enforce that right in all its implications is obvious enough, even had not the republic of Panama been erected as a preliminary to American domination of the canal territory. What has raised the question now is probably the approaching completion of the canal. It is clear that America will quite literally see it through within the next four or five years, and that is not too far to look ahead and speculate on the possible effects of the canal on politics and commerce. So far as the first question is concerned little can be said. Germany strongly resents at times the dominant power of the United States in the American continent, especially when it interferes with her South American trade, and it is easy to see how in that direction the canal might become a source of serious misunderstanding. With Great Britain no trouble need be apprehended, for she realises the justice of the Monroe doctrine, and she also sees that there is no comparison between the circumstances of Panama and Suez.

It may be fairly said that only the United States could carry through this gigantic scheme, and she will have established a sufficiently good title to control it when it has been opened. Moreover, the United States will be more intimately concerned with the canal as a commercial proposition than will any other people. Opinions naturally differ a good deal as to how far the canal will disturb trade routes, but it is certain that it will give American manufacturers from the eastern States much readier access to Oriental and South Pacific markets. Well-informed critics have expressed the opinion that America will make a strong bid for Australasian trade during the next few years. With regard to Japan the chances for the manufacturer are not so considerable, though the canal will take cheap, raw American cotton to Yokohama. Japan is bound to become a great manufacturer on her own account. Of all outside countries, probably Canada stands to benefit most by the canal. Canadian grain, and the timber, fruit, and fish of British Columbia will all pass through it to quicker markets, and conversely the British export trade to North-west Canada expects to be stimulated. In South American trade generally Great Britain and Germany have an enormous preponderance over the United States, but the canal will link up the Pacific Coast to New York, and no doubt considerably disturb the present balance of commercial relationships. South American exports will not apparently be much affected by the canal. There is no doubt, however, that the future of the new route will be watched with the keenest possible interest, and no one can say what part it will ultimately come to play in the destiny of the Pacific.

THE RICHMOND DISASTER.

After very protracted investigation, the Special Board, appointed for the purpose, has reported its finding in the Richmond railway disaster. That finding is that the appalling calamity of July last was due partly to the negligence and partly to the inadvertence of certain employees of the Victorian Railway Department. The blame is mainly apportioned between signalmen, who contravened the regulations governing block telegraph working, and a driver, who was found not to have exercised "the extreme caution necessary in such a dense fog, and passed the home semaphore at Richmond when it was at danger." It is significant, however, that the finding does not find expression in any specially censorious language. Beyond stating—in emphasis of the railway maxim that two men are required to make an accident—that had one of the men concerned in the calamitous occurrence fully complied with the regulations there would have been no accident, the Board does not seem to suggest that there was negligence of a very culpable kind. The Richmond accident, with its awful consequences, only furnishes another exemplification of the faultiness of the human factor. That any of the railway employees, who are judged responsible for this tragedy would have deliberately risked an accident is not to be thought of. Yet at a critical moment the judgment of someone erred, and the caution of some other deserted him.

No matter how mechanically perfect a system, no matter how careful the supervision, or how conscientious the work, there will always be a moment when someone will nod. Any one of a thousand causes may produce a lowering of physical energy translatable into a blunder which will deal out injury or death. But while this is so, the marvel is not so much that there are so many but so few railway accidents. The human factor may be liable to failure, but such failure is seldom. In this State, for instance, we had a year's working of railways and tramways without a fatal accident. In the United Kingdom, with enormous traffic, there has not been a fatal accident for considerably over a year. Such a result connotes a degree of conscientious devotion to duty and realisation of responsibility on the part of great numbers of employees with varying tasks, which rather raises the estimate of average human nature. Nevertheless, in railway services where the liability to accident is ever present, and where the consequences of accident may be so very terrible, a serious responsibility continually rests with the controlling authority to see that the running conditions are such as to reduce the liability to a minimum. In this State the railways, although so remarkably free of accident, are overtaxed, and in proposing such comprehensive measures of relief as Mr. Wade is now doing he is consulting the greater safety, as well as the greater efficiency, of our lines.

The Federal Capital.—The ignorance frequently displayed on the other side of the world regarding Australian affairs is referred to as follows by a correspondent of a London educational journal:—"I have lately had occasion to examine a number of geographies either newly written or in new editions alleged to be brought up to date. In every one in which the Federal capital of Australia is mentioned it is said to be Dalgety. May I use your columns to remind teachers or others that the Federal capital is not Dalgety, but Canberra? The March number of the "Geographical Journal" contains maps based on maps and plans issued by the New South Wales Government, which show (I.) the position of the Federal territory, (II.) the Federal Territory itself, (III.) the site of the Federal capital."

Organised Interruption.—Whatever the fate of the Liberal candidate may be concerning organised interruption, his opponent on the Labour side is practically free from it. Last night, however, was an exception. Mr. Holman had on numerous occasions to refrain from speaking, though the interruptions were not necessarily attributable to a hostile source. As a matter of fact, the rumbling of the trams travelling to and from Bondi Beach made it almost impossible to hear or speak. But this was not all, for when the deputy Labour leader was earnestly driving home a point a terrific canine battle took place on the outskirts of the crowd. Immediately the prophets of the crowd seized the occasion. "Those are Liberal dogs." "No, that's Labour and Liberal," were interspersed with such remarks as "That's M'Gowen dealing it out to Wade," while someone in the crowd whispered, "Organised interruption again." However, shrill yelps betokened that someone had acted as referee and had broken a clinch, and the meeting resumed.

Defence Policy Opposed.—"A system of compulsory militarism is an offence to the humanitarian instincts and conscientious convictions of many citizens of the Commonwealth." The Peace Society of N.S.W. thus declares its opposition to the defence policy of the Federal Government, and in a letter addressed to all the members of the Commonwealth Parliament asks that further consideration be given to the proposed new legislation, "before we are irrevocably committed to a vast expenditure of public money, unnecessary, and, therefore, unwarranted." "It is generally, and, we believe, rightly, regarded," the letter adds, "that our 'White Australia' policy is mainly responsible for our Defence Act. Is it possible to maintain that policy while modifying materially the provisions of the Defence Act? We believe it to be not only possible, but desirable and politic. Considering against whom the provisions of the Defence Act are mainly directed, we believe we are right in saying they are without reasonable cause. The fact that the Japanese resorted to Western methods, and thereby beat down the Russian forces, affords no grounds for supposing that this people is going to pursue a policy of spoliation and conquest all through Pacific seas."

An Amicable Settlement.—The chairman of the Tilelayers' Board, Mr. E. H. Buchanan, last night delivered the award of the board after only four sittings. The bulk of the argumentative work was dealt with in a series of conferences, and the award to a large extent practically affirmed the agreement of the members of the conference. It was somewhat unusual to hear all the parties, counsel for the employers (Mr. Vero Read), the union secretary (Mr. T. J. Dugan), and members of the board extending their thanks for the courtesy and forbearance exhibited by all the parties during the proceedings in conference and before the board. Mr. W. G. Crane, who represented the employers on the board, said that his side had strained the utmost to meet the claims, and Mr. Dugan said that the union, while it had not got all it asked for, had secured a satisfactory award, and would welcome a settlement, which would give peace in the trade for three years. The chairman also expressed his thanks for the assistance given him by the conference.

The Temperance Cause.—Much satisfaction is expressed by workers in the cause of temperance in this State with reports of the progress of the movement in America to sever the connection between the saloon and the Labour movement. The declaration of Labour's independence against the dominance of the saloon, either in the politics of labour or in the social life of the labourer, is spoken of as the deliberate pronouncement of a profound conviction that has grown out of bitter experience, and is fortified with sound economic arguments.

Juryman's Duties and Socialism.—A Kensington builder objected to serving his country as a juryman at the Central Criminal Court yesterday, for reasons which he said were dictated by his conscience. "I object," he remarked, "to finding anyone guilty. All men should have equality of opportunity, and people who haven't the opportunities that other men have do things that other men don't think right." Mr. Acting Justice Fitzhardinge, after hearing the objection raised, gravely stated: "You know very well that a juryman must take an oath to give a verdict according to the evidence." The juryman: "I know that." "Well," concluded his Honor, "I cannot excuse you."

Manly and Its Statues.—Reference is made by several correspondents, including one who signs himself "A Judge of Statuary and a Resident," to the "grotesque collection" of statues which "disfigure" the Corso and the harbour front at Manly. "R.A.C." considers them to be mere "travesties of art" and "not fit to be placed where they can be seen." Manly, these correspondents agree, offers plenty of scope for improvement, but the attempts of local councillors in this direction during the last few years have "only helped to destroy the many natural charms which have attracted so many visitors from the metropolis, and induced others to make their homes in the popular suburb."

Wax Matches and Suicide.—Would-be suicides desirous of departing hence at a minimum of expense are likely to receive a shock at the information which is given by Mr. Philips, the director of Bryant and May and Bell's Match Company. Many who contemplate suicide consider a box of matches and some boiling water a cheap and handy method of despatch, but beyond getting an acute attack of internal pains very few come by anything serious. Mr. Philips, referring to the matter, says:—"A fact that may be of considerable interest to the general public is that poisonous phosphorus cannot now be used in match factories in Europe or in Australia, nor can matches containing poisonous phosphorus be imported into Australia. It would, therefore, appear that a good deal of the trouble regarding wax matches is the result of imagination, and it may possibly be of public interest to let this be known. It is possible that there may be a few phosphorus matches still in the market, but, as stated herein, the matches now being supplied in Australia are absolutely non-poisonous, and useless to the would-be suicide."

Four Aces and a Flush.—Four aces in a game of poker is a good hand, but a routine flush is better, and it was concerning two such hands and the betting attaching thereto that an interesting story was told in the Quarter Sessions yesterday afternoon. The story came out in connection with an appeal by William Lee and Richard Bell against their conviction for betting at poker in a train travelling between Hornsby and Gosford on July 7 last. Another young man, named Edward Anthes, was journeying by the same train, and to while the time away the three played a hand at poker. One of the party suddenly remarked that he held a better hand than Anthes, who, by the way, held four aces. Such a good handful induced Anthes to risk a little, and by and by the betting reached £9. Then a routine flush was produced, and this was up against Anthes, who consequently lost his money. It flashed across Anthes' mind that the little game had been worked before, and some argument ensued. Finally Lee and Bell were haled before a Court, and in the course of the evidence it transpired that both of them held a season ticket, and travelled up and down the line day in and day out. Seeing that they were not commercial men, nor had any interests which, from the police point of view, at least, demanded so much of their time being occupied in railway travelling, they were naturally asked the question why they were such persistent train patrons. "Well," replied one, "I have a bad leg, and I travel up and down the line in order to rest it in the train. . . ." His Honor said that he could not see his way to upset the conviction.

Dry Sweeping Doomed.—At the last meeting of the Health Society it was decided to write to the Railway Commissioners pointing out the insanitary condition of the railway waiting-rooms, which were dry swept, and in which the table covers were shaken. Yesterday a reply was received from the secretary of the Railway Commissioners, to the effect that in future all the rooms would be wet swept and the table covers shaken in such a manner as to free them from all insanitary germs.

Helga Castaways.—Some of the Helga castaways brought on by the R.M.S. Makura put up at the Sailors' Home yesterday, while others returned to their respective homes. Second Officer Bias and seven of the crew who comprised the contingent were taken in hand on arrival by Captain Webber, the secretary of the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society, and provided with the necessary outfit.

Coastal Steamers Sold.—It was announced yesterday that the steamers Allowrie (504 tons) and the Illawarra (522 tons), which had been laid up in the harbour for some time, had been sold to Mr. Einerson, of Balmain. It is understood that both vessels are to be dismantled. The Illawarra will probably be taken over again by the Illawarra and South Coast S.N. Company, Ltd., and be used as a hulk.

We are requested to say that only authorised receipts issued by the general secretary towards the Building Fund and subscriptions to the Young Women's Christian Association are valid.

"Lex" writes protesting against a person, charged with being an accessory to a felony, at present incarcerated in Darlinghurst goal, being handcuffed when taken to the Coroner's Court in a cab. The official statement on the subject is that the police, when a man is imprisoned, must, in conveying him elsewhere, take every precaution against his escaping. This is in accordance with the regulations. Everything possible is done to avoid publicity.

The fatal tram accident which took place in George-street, near Campbell-street, on Friday night is referred to by several correspondents, who agree in saying that it is time the tramway authorities altered the tram-stopping place in the vicinity.

The Postal authorities notify the completion of the telephone line between Frogmore and Rugby, and that a telephone office and public telephone were opened at the latter place on the 25th ult. A telephone line has been erected between Clifton and Stanwell Park.

An advertisement appears in another column in reference to an unreserved sale of [illegible] at Bellevue [illegible]

PERSONAL.

The officers on the staff of Lieut.-Colonel Lee, at the instruction camp at Albury, made a presentation to Captain Brand, camp adjutant, on the occasion of his leaving for India as exchange officer with Major Gregory, 19th Bengal Lancers.

Captain Coulter, of the 3rd A.I. Regiment, has been selected as the New South Wales militia officer for six months' training in the Indian Army. He leaves on the 24th instant.

Captain Brand, A. and I.S., who was chosen as the staff officer for 12 months' training in India, leaves Melbourne this week.

Old cricketers will regret to learn of the death of Mr. George Gibson ("Gibbie"), the old intercolonial cricketer, who played for Victoria in the sixties and seventies. He was a good batsman and wicketkeeper, but will be best remembered as the hero of the snuff-box. He carried one of the old silver snuff-boxes as a Mascotte, and during a long stand of opponents would hand this round the field for luck. When the first Australian XI. visited England Mr. Gibson presented his snuff-box to the captain, David Gregory, who also regarded it as a Mascotte, until it was unfortunately lost. Mr. Gibson and his wife for many years carried on business as chemists in Carlton, Victoria, under the style of Gibson and Moloney.

Mr. H. C. Dangar, M.L.C., with Miss Dangar, returned by the Makura yesterday from Vancouver. A delightful run in a most comfortable steamer to and from the Canadian seaport, and a couple of weeks spent in a visit to the "Rockies," plus the best of health, made a most pleasant and enjoyable holiday; but Mr. Dangar was frankly glad to be back amid familiar surroundings, and declared that he is not going from home again. Chatting yesterday concerning the ordinary incidents of travel, he remarked that the Canadian people, with whom he was brought in contact were less British in their manner of speech than he had expected to find them, and he attributes this to American influences set in operation by the wholesale nature of the migration of American people to the Dominion. While admitting that this caused him a twinge of disappointment, Mr. Dangar had nothing but admiration for the manner in which great engineering problems had been solved in the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The travelling accommodation on the railway, he said, was excellent, and the appliances for handling the vast volume of traffic were simply wonderful; but Mr. Dangar modified his praise in this respect by pointing out that from his point of view railway travelling in New South Wales was "more comfortable." He had unreserved praise for the beauty of the surroundings of Laggan railway station, and Lake Louise, in the immediate vicinity of the station, he declared to be "one of the most beautiful places I have ever seen."

Mrs. Jane Sole, aged 80 years, died on Saturday. She was a resident of South Grafton for 60 years.

Mrs. Richard, the wife of the Governor of New Caledonia, and her son, aged 15 years, were passengers by the French mail steamer Nera, which arrived in Sydney yesterday from Marseilles. She will proceed to Noumea by the Pacifique, which leaves on Saturday.

At the Ballina Police Court on Friday Mr. H. M. Fitzhardinge, P.M., was presented with a tantalus by the local magistrates and solicitors as a mark of esteem, prior to his removal from the district.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

NO FRICTION WITH MINISTERS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The report that friction had arisen between the Governor-General and the Federal Government is regarded in Melbourne as being absolutely without foundation. The Prime Minister (Mr. Fisher) was informed of the rumour this afternoon. He appeared to be somewhat annoyed that such a statement should have been circulated, and when asked what he had to say on the matter, replied: "I know absolutely nothing about the matter."

Nothing could be elicited at Government House yesterday in connection with the rumour. His Excellency is at present in the country.

Members of the Federal Parliament—both Liberal and Labour—who were in Sydney were surprised at the statement, and, generally speaking, appeared to have heard of the alleged untoward relations between the Governor-General and the Ministry for the first time yesterday.

LORD CHELMSFORD'S TOUR.

BREWARRINA, Monday.

Lord and Lady Chelmsford and party, accompanied by Mr. J. C. Meehan, visited Brewarrina to-day. The party arrived at 10 a.m., and were met at Barwon Bridge by the Mayor and aldermen and prominent residents. The party travelled in two motor cars, escorted by mounted police. A reception took place on a raised platform in the main street opposite the Barwon Hotel. The local cadets formed a guard of honour. The town band and school children were present at the welcoming ceremony. His Excellency was presented with an illuminated address by the Mayor (Alderman T. Richards). The party then visited Brewarrina fisheries and the Public school. The pupils presented Lady Chelmsford with a bouquet. The children were granted a holiday by Lord Chelmsford. The party also visited the convent, where a display was given by the children. Afterwards the hospital and local woolscour were visited. The party returned to lunch at the Barwon Hotel, where several toasts were honoured. His Excellency in a speech, said he would always look back with pleasure to his stay at Brewarrina. He considered Brewarrina an oasis after many weeks' travelling. When he returned to England he would endeavour to remove any misapprehension that may exist with regard to the country's great possibilities. Prior to his departure Lord Chelmsford was presented with a handsome ringed gidyea walking-stick by Mr. E. O. Butler. The party left for Bourke at 2.30 p.m.

"A RIDICULOUS WILL."

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Minor omissions and ambiguous expressions are common in wills drawn up by laymen. But it is rarely that even a layman omits all the important provisions in a testamentary instrument. This, however, was what happened in a will witnessed and apparently drawn by a bush missionary which came before Mr. Justice A'Beckett to-day. The will was that of the late Mr. William Webb, of Koo-weerup East, farmer, and the clause which caused the trouble was as follows:—"I direct that Sarah, William, Frederick, Edward, Eileen, children of, and also Sarah Jane, wife of the said William Webb, and I further direct the residue of my said estate be by my executors distributed between my abovementioned legatees in the following proportions, viz.:—That at my death I leave my life insurance money to my son William James, all stock and implements to be for my wife, Sarah Jane, and family's use and benefit." The Perpetual Trustee Company, the executors, applied for permission to break into the corpus of the estate for the benefit of the infant children, of whom there are five. The value of the estate is only £400. Mr. Justice A'Beckett made an order that the property be realised and invested for the benefit of the infants. He declined to fix the shares; but suggested that the company might do so. The law could not mould such a ridiculous will into shape.

STEEL RAILS.

THE APPRENTICE QUESTION.

NEW PIPEMAKING METHOD.

The contract for the manufacture of steel rails for railways, which has been undertaken by Messrs. G. and C. Hoskins, Ltd., at their Lithgow works, is, as may be imagined, a very important matter in the local industrial world. Already the great works are showing increased signs of activity, for the undertaking of the supply of 20,000 tons of steel rails yearly naturally entails a vast amount of labour and expense. Mr. George Hoskins, when interviewed yesterday, was busily engaged supervising generally the huge Wattle-street works, where for some months a scheme of remodelling and electrification has been in operation. This enterprising firm has almost completed the installation of an entirely new system, so far as this continent is concerned, of cast-iron pipe-making. It is a very costly work, entailing the expenditure of many thousands of pounds. To the uninitiated the plant gives an excellent idea of an erupting volcano. It consists of a huge cavity containing scores of gaping pipes emitting vast jets of gas. Over these jets are placed the moulds, containing the sand mould, in the centre of which are the cores, around which the molten metal by means of ingenious mechanical devices is poured. This heating of the moulds and cores by water gas—which is manufactured on the premises—means a great saving of time, which in the matter of big contracts is of great moment. Very little is done by man-power where electricity can serve, and the huge pipes in their metal jackets are whipped about like so many lead pencils. Everywhere were cauldrons filled with molten Lithgow pig-iron. The initial experiment with cast-iron pipe-making under the new system was made yesterday, and the success achieved fully compensated Messrs. Hoskins for their pluck and enterprise.

"Well," said Mr. George Hoskins, when questioned about the steel rails contract, "there is really very little more to say after the Premier's announcement that our tender had been accepted. The firm had long seen that the rail industry was one of vital importance to the country, and had made up its mind to tackle the problem thoroughly. As a matter of fact, the engine-power lately installed at Lithgow was ample for the purpose of rail manufacture, but in anticipation of coming to terms with the Government, we cabled to England for the necessary rolls and other machinery connected with the manufacture. The contract with the Government is that we give the first delivery of rails within six months. This will entail the employment of more men, and would keep the works extra busy; but we have no doubt about being able to deliver right up to date."

What about labour? Do you anticipate any trouble in this direction?—"My brother Charles and I have given this matter considerable thought. Speaking for myself, I must say I am anxious about the future. What I complain mostly of is, amongst other things, the attitude of the working man towards immigration. There seems to be a fear among them that immigration would interfere with their employment. I don't agree with this view. If we are to be safe we must have population to build up our industries. We must have capital, and not frighten it away. If our industries are to go ahead we must have skilled men, and I fail to see how we are going to have these if apprenticeship is not to be encouraged. I notice by decisions of Judges in Industrial Courts, as reported in the papers, that more often than not these decisions favour only one boy to four men. In my opinion that is quite a mistake. When I was a boy you could enter any trade you chose, but now conditions are different. You may place your boy in the legal profession or the Christian ministry, but the moment you wish to make an apprentice of him the unions step in and deny this liberty. I know quite a number of men who have four sons, yet these men vote so that only one out of the four may learn a trade. Some of these societies would like to see the age of apprenticeship limited to 16. I started my time after 17 in the engineering. Had I not been able to do so I would not have been here to-day. It is unjust. A man knows he is fitted for a certain work, and the unions step in and refuse him the right to learn. These remarks, however, do not apply so much to engineers, one of the brainiest of trades, by the bye."

Reverting to the rails contract, Mr. Hoskins paid a high compliment to Mr. C. A. Lee, to whom, he said, a great deal of the credit of establishing this as well as many other industries must be given. The Minister had shown himself a most progressive administrator.

LORD TENNYSON ON AUSTRALIA.

"A PARADISE OF TRANQUIL LOVELINESS."

Lord Tennyson, son of the late Poet Laureate, formerly Governor of South Australia, and more recently Governor-General of Australia, has contributed to the journal of the Royal Colonial Institute—United Empire—the following lines, describing his impressions on reaching the shores of the Commonwealth:—

FIRST SIGHT OF AUSTRALIA, 1899.

It seems but yesterday I saw at dawn
The faint line of the soft Australian shores,
As fast we sped, borne o'er the whispering tide,
Within the grim heads of St. Vincent's Gulf;
And all the sea was barr'd with purple and green
And dancing sunlight, such as Southern climes
Know only; white star in distance shone
Thro' tremulous haze the sunny-water'd farms—
Homed in the quiet hollow of the hills—
A land, they said, of golden air, where scents
Of sweetest flowers float, and where the grapes
In honied clusters droop, a Paradise—
—Tennyson.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

AUSTRALIA BEHINDHAND.

Mr. Thomas Hughes, who returned by the R.M.S. Makura from a round trip, via America, where he has been purchasing supplies for the sugar companies in Fiji, stated in the course of conversation yesterday that one of the most remarkable features of American life to-day was the progress which had been made in wireless telegraphy. The advantages of the system struck him all the more forcibly when he considered Australia's lack of such convenience. It was time, he thought, the Commonwealth had stations for the receipt of wireless messages erected, as the need for them had become apparent in view of the number of vessels on the Australian coast which had been and were being fitted up with wireless telegraphy. As it was, he had communicated with his family through Mr. Pike's station at Arncliffe, and the message had been received satisfactorily.

NETHERLANDS SQUADRON.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

Alderman J. C. Reid, Mayor of Newcastle, stated at to-night's meeting of the Newcastle City Council that Mr. C. A. Earp, Consul for the Netherlands, had informed him that endeavours were being made to get into communication by means of wireless telegraphy with the visiting Dutch squadron with a view to arranging a call at Newcastle. The Consul-General for the Netherlands had recommended that Newcastle should be included in the itinerary, and had expressed his appreciation of the council's invitation. The Mayor further stated that as soon as he learned anything definite he would call the aldermen together, so that they would assist him in deciding how the squadron should be entertained.

STRANGE JAPANESE VESSELS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Although pearl shell pirates are frequently heard of round the Australian coast it is believed by the authorities here that the two Japanese schooners—Nancy and Tieryo—which have been quarantined at Noumea, the Tieryo being fined 500 francs, will prove to be licensed vessels from Thursday Island. It frequently happens that the vessels are blown out of their course, and forced to put into strange ports without clearance papers. It also happens occasionally that the diver in charge and his crew makes off with the vessel, and leave some Australian owner lamenting. Japanese divers obtain passports from their own Government granting them permission to leave Japan and fish for pearlshell in Australia. At Thursday Island they present these passports, and the Commonwealth Government thereupon gives them a license to fish in Australian waters. Such divers frequently obtain boats from Australian owners on the shares system, the owner taking a proportion of the haul as hire money for the boat. Sometimes it occurs to the diver and his crew that they could do better for themselves, and then they simply steal off with the vessel, making for the north-west coast, where they turn shell pirates. Whatever may be the status of the two vessels quarantined at Noumea, it is regarded as impossible that they should be connected in any way with the mysterious vessels, which appeared off the coast in May last. These vessels were reported first of all through aboriginal sources; but inquiries afterwards made by the Department for External Affairs justified the conclusion that they were Dutch vessels engaged in illicit trepang fishery.

THE IMMIGRATION PROPAGANDA.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

I.

OUR NEED.

The propaganda of Australian immigration, as studied in London, presents some curious features. It may be they are the excrescences which invariably beset new systems. Not a few of them, it is to be hoped, will soon be banished to the limbo of the unnecessary. Immigration needs, and needs badly, to be set upon a safe, swift, and steady course, unhampered by useless impediments. After all, the movement is far from owning the perspectives of experience. In its organised form it is comparatively a new thing. It has yet to settle down. Its crudities of experimental effort are manifest. Some day—that is, if Australians are really in earnest on the subject—a vigorous forward policy will overcome the suspicion of timid hesitancy which now envelops it. That thought suggests one of the peculiarities of Australian immigration as observed here. We do not know, even yet, how far or with what degree of earnestness the campaign is to be fought. On the one hand we see Australia an empty country, and possessed of boundless possibilities that could quicken into reality at a touch. On the other hand, we are faced with the complication of spaces, undeveloped indeed, but also unavailable. Moreover, we have furtive suspicion that influences antagonistic to population are actively, if not openly, at work. These influences may, or may not, give pause to Governments; the fact of our unrealised possibilities, and the overshadowing menace of the north, may or may not be proof against them. That is what we cannot quite determine here. On the surface of things, a gentle stream of immigration appears to have due encouragement. It is not nearly sufficient to be recognised as an immigration movement worthy the name. Perhaps, though, it is adequate to the Commonwealth's power of assimilation, and that its amiable unobtrusiveness merely witnesses to a desire by Australia not to travel too fast. It achieves thus the way of compromise. The calm placidity of it on the one hand forbids fear of a congested market, and on the other hand encourages belief that something is being done. But a real, vigorous, vitalising movement of immigration it is not. While we are complacently counting our units, other countries are absorbing their hundreds, and no country is in such need of people as is ours.

Australian writers and speakers upon Australian affairs are a numerous body nowadays, and the majority of them do us service. There is one class, however, which should have had its day. That it has not had its day is evident from the fact that it is still vocal, even in London, where, more than ordinarily, it has the dissonance of sounding brass. It is that class which persists in stating, with an air of exultant finality, the geographical extent of Australia. There is undoubtedly some pride of country in the boast, and whatever value attaches to that degree of pride of country. But too often the outlook of its protagonists is bounded by the aggregate of area in which they take such fearful joy. If within their focus were the dimmest mirage of the responsibilities of possession, they were better worth hearing. But there is not. On the contrary, they fling before us a stark and solid mass of empty continent, as though it in itself stood for achievement, or effort after achievement, for deeds done or conquests marked for winning. They tell, these curious people, how Great Britain could be lost in a corner of Australia, as if there were some superiority of claim in the geographical fact. They quote—with more basis of excuse, certainly—the possibilities of Australia, its agricultural chances, its mineral wealth; but they go little further than a mere boast of space, and a vaunt of the potential future. It is not enough, especially in London. It deserves the yawn which is its reward nowadays.

Of far greater worth to us, as to any country, is the arithmetic of achievement. A finer vision even than the far distances of Australia is that of empty areas transformed into activity; a more solid substance of possession than that of hidden treasure is the magic of work that mines it into visible wealth. Britain, with no claim of space, long ago achieved greatness. Despite its mere pin-point of earth's surface, it became a mighty nation, because among other things it built upon its possibilities the essential element of national life. Australia, with its dotting of humans upon a Continent of foothold, lacks that essential element. Its need of people is so absurdly obvious, indeed, as to be hardly worth stating; it will remain worth stating, nevertheless, so long as we continue to boast of the extent of our country and its possibilities, while our country is for the most part the nothingness of empty space, and its possibilities are still the sport of unsubstantial chance. No thinly populated country is of much account in national concerns except as a menace to the peace of the world. If any country be projected into European focus, at the outset its strength in human lives is sought out; its place is largely determined by virtue of its accomplishment. Natural enough, this gauge of importance; for population is the measure of a country's work, and its work is its worth.

Australia quotes, and with effect, its present productiveness as being abnormal in relation to its 4½ millions of people; its possession of this, and its wealth of that, do sometimes lead the world on a percentage basis. But percentage is not bulk, and relative values are not aggregates. Even in a not very vital matter, such as the question of woman suffrage, as debated in the House of Commons the other day, Australia's example was airily dismissed by speakers as of no account by reason of the lack of population there, while for a similar reason New Zealand was adjudged as about equal to the Isle of Man in the capacity of a guide to English procedure. That is not a comprehensive example, but it suffices to indicate how, in a question of national politics, we may be regarded by a friendly antagonistic estimate—and a friendly antagonistic estimate of us is worth far more than any number of official platitudes meant to please. And, besides the negative of possibilities that are nothing more, there is the shadow of positive danger. On the one hand a colour line rigidly laid down, and an empty waste of Northern Territory; on the other hand, and across a narrow strip of sea, hundreds of millions of a great and rapidly advancing Eastern race, certain, sooner or later, to demand a right-of-way. That aspect of no-population shows it as criminal folly undiluted. People, and again people, are an overwhelming necessity to us, not only that we may take national rank, but that we may continue to exist at all. Thus the urgency of immigration. It is our basic need.

We had recently a sudden awakening to this need in one of its aspects, and we set about the foundations of our defence against the enemy without. There remains the necessity of awakening to a sense of the enemy within—in so far, that is, as he is an enemy who desires no impulse towards a national life. He has his justification, of course, if all is well with us, if dolce far niente is the ultimate good, and if we are to bask on the rim of our island satisfied with the low levels of obscurity. But that sacrifice of the interests of the many to the selfishness of the few were a poor shirking of heritage. It would proclaim us something less than British. It would baulk us of our place among the nations. It would condemn us to futile boasting of territory. It would develop neither a national commerce nor the intellectual standards that are its fruit. It would leave us trailing at the rear of the world.

THE RONALD-HARPER CASE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Argument was concluded to-day before the High Court on an appeal from the decision of the State Full Court refusing a motion for a new trial in the action brought by the Rev. J. B. Ronald against Robt. Harper, M.P. The Court will give its judgment [illegible]

TO SINK DREADNOUGHTS.

AN INVULNERABLE MONITOR.

MONSTER GUNS CARRIED.

BRITISH AND GERMAN PLANS.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

A sensational story of a new design of warship, which is to eclipse the Dreadnought in power, is told by the "Vorwaerts," the leading socialist newspaper of Germany.

That journal declares that the British Admiralty constructors and German naval constructors are working feverishly at models of a Monitor, intended to destroy Dreadnoughts. The cruiser will have a length of 280ft, a beam of 46ft, and a draught of 20ft, and she will be 5ft above the waterline.

Her armament will consist of two 16.7in. guns, whose projectiles will weigh 5940lb. The guns will be placed in a single turret amidships, the turret turning in all directions.

The normal speed will be 19 knots, and under forced draught 27 knots. The Monitors will be driven by four motors, each of 6000-horse power.

These Monitors will be invulnerable to 12in. guns now carried by Dreadnoughts. The cost of Monitors will be considerably less than that of Dreadnoughts.

A curious forewarning of the advent of the vessels of the type announced by the "Vorwaerts" was given in the "Nation" by Lieutenant-Colonel F. R. Warburton in a letter entitled "Are Dreadnoughts Useless?" In the course of that letter he repeated the principles of warship construction laid down by Ericsson, the great Swedish naval constructor, who, he points out, built the first Monitor for the Federalists in the United States Civil war, and he proceeds:—"Early this year the Admiralty refused to test a strictly scientific invention approved of by Ericsson, which at a twentieth of the cost will account for all the 'Dreadnoughts' and other vessels except the speedy which the Admiralty is building or has built. Their only idea is to increase size in every direction; so is that of most of the naval men." Evidently the Admiralty has reconsidered its decision, and is working at the new vessel."

The weight of the projectile fired by the 13½in gun mounted in the latest British warships is 1250lb, compared with the 850lb projectile fired by the 12in gun. The enormous difference in the weight of these projectiles and that fired by the 16.7in guns, 5940lb, according to the report of the German journal, is manifest.

EIGHT HOURS IN MINES.

JEREMIAD OF THE "FINANCIAL NEWS."

MINERS AND CONSUMERS SUFFER.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

The "Financial News," in reviewing the results of the introduction of the eight-hours' shift in mines, states that there were 26 per cent. more fatal accidents in the six months following the introduction of the system than in the previous six months. This result is due to the scamping of repair work.

The fact of there being three shifts forces the women of the miners to prepare continually meals, baths, and changes of clothing. Many miners have had their wages reduced from 5s to 7s a ton weekly, and consumers are paying from 6d to 1s 6d a ton more for coal.

GERMAN FORTIFICATIONS.

DEFENDED BY BRITISH JOURNAL.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

The "Daily Graphic" ridicules the scare which has been caused by the publication of articles in the "Daily News" on the fortifications of Borkum. The newspaper asserts that the fortifications by Germany on the East Frisian Islands, on Heligoland, and at Emden, are purely defensive. It points out that Great Britain is not suspected of offensive designs because she has fortified the Channel Islands and the Scillies.

THE YAQUI INDIANS.

MEXICO'S TREATMENT EXAGGERATED.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

The British Minister to Mexico, Mr. R. T. Tower, has informed Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, that the allegations of ill-treatment of Indians at Qualtana are sensational and highly coloured.

The facts are, the Minister affirms, that the Government has been forced to exile thousands of Yaqui Indians to the northwest of Mexico, owing to their turbulence in Yucatan.

The secretary of the Aborigines Protection Society of Great Britain recently declared that the Indians in Yucatan were greatly oppressed, and were practically slaves. According to the "Globe," the Indians are ground to the earth by their oppressors, and are denied the commonest justice by those administering the law.

MONTENEGRO'S LEANINGS.

IN FAVOUR OF RUSSIA.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

Yesterday the Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia laid the foundation-stone of the Cathedral of Cettinge, which the Czar is building in commemoration of the jubilee of the accession of King Nicholas of Montenegro.

LABOUR TROUBLES IN SPAIN.

GENERAL STRIKE AT BARCELONA.

NEWSPAPERS STOP PRINTING.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

The strike of miners in Bilbao, Spain, is collapsing.

The leaders state that 25,000 people who are idle in Saragossa have resolved to resume work to-morrow.

Sept. 5.

In sympathy with the strike at Bilbao, the Labour Solidarity Committee has ordered a general strike at Barcelona.

Members of the committee visited the printing offices of the city and forced a stoppage of work there. Consequently the newspapers are not appearing.

HEAVY RAIN IN HUNGARY.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

Heavy rain extending over 48 hours caused the embankment of the Temes River, South East Hungary, to burst.

RAILWAY CROSSING FATALITY.

FOUR PEOPLE KILLED.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

An express train killed Signor Benedetto Grifone, a Neapolitan painter, and three companions, while they were driving over a railway crossing.

AN AEROPLANE LINE.

FROM ORAN TO TIMBUCTOO.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

General Brun, French Minister for War, is inaugurating a service of aeroplanes across the Sahara, between Colomb Bechar, in Southern Oran, Algeria, and Timbuctoo, on the Niger, stations which are now four months apart.

A military aviation centre has been founded in Southern Oran, where two teams have been trained—one to work southwards to Timbuctoo, while the other will work northwards from that town. On the route revictualling depots and repair shops are being established.

EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

ENTHUSIASM AT MONTREAL.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 5.

The clergy and laymen attending the Eucharistic Congress in that city have received an enthusiastic welcome at Montreal. It is expected that 500,000 people will witness Cardinal Vanutelli, the Papal legate, carrying the Host from Notre Dame Cathedral next Sunday.

It will be a gorgeous spectacle. The streets will be spanned by 40 triumphal arches. 250 members of the Roman Catholic Club in New York will form a guard of honour for Cardinal Vanutelli, and 250 prelates in their robes will follow him.

The music of the Mass will be rendered by 3000 voices.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT'S SCHEME.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 5.

RUGBY IN AMERICA.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 4.

THE DAVIS CUP.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 4.

Larned and M'Laughlin are likely to represent America in the contest for the Davis Cup in Australia.

THE BATTERSEA SEAT.

MR. BURNS TO "TOE THE LINE."

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

The Battersea Liberal and Radical Association has decided to cease registration of voters, alleging that Mr. John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, who represents Battersea, ought to pay the cost, namely, £300, now that his salary is £5000.

Mr. Burns' contribution to the association is £50 per annum.

WELSH MINES IDLE.

PRESSURE ON NON-UNIONISTS.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

Workmen employed in the Cambrian Combine mines, Rhondda Valley, have resolved to throw idle two pits as a protest against the dismissal of workmen in another pit. They have further resolved to strike without giving notice. Ten thousand miners are affected.

The strikes in South Wales are due to thousands of badly-paid quarrymen of North Wales moving south, and refusing to join the unions.

ECCENTRIC MILLIONAIRE.

A CURIOUS WILL.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

Eugene Hasselik, an eccentric millionaire, has left £800,000 to found an asylum for people of the middle class who have become destitute through no fault of their own.

Deceased disinherited an only sister and other relatives.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

The construction of 20 destroyers in this year's naval programme has been distributed amongst eleven shipbuilding yards.

"The Admiralty have now completed their prolonged negotiations with naval shipbuilders, and have placed the orders for the 20 torpedo-boat destroyers included in this year's naval programme," writes "Engineering." "Fourteen of the twenty boats, we are told, are to be of the Acorn class, designed by Sir Phillip Watts, and, being similar, will afford in fleet manoeuvres the tactical advantage which accrues from corresponding speed and turning circle, apart from the gain in the standardisation of the machinery.

"Messrs. John Brown and Co., Limited, of Clydebank, will build three; two each will be built by Messrs. J. H. White and Co., of Cowes, Messrs. Cammell, Laird, and Co., Limited, of Birkenhead, Messrs. Hawthorn, Leslie, and Co., Limited, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Messrs. William Denny and Brothers, of Dumbarton; while one is to be built by Messrs. Vickers, Sons, and Maxim, Limited, of Barrow-in-Furness, one by Messrs. William Beardmore and Co., Limited, of Dalmuir, and one by Messrs. Swan, Hunter, and Wigham-Richardson and Co., Limited, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, for which lastnamed the Wallsend Slipway and Engineering Company will provide the machinery.

These vessels are to be 240ft long, 26ft beam, and of 770 tons displacement, the speed aimed at being 27 knots, which will require about 14,000 shaft horse-power. All the vessels, except three, to be built by Messrs. Brown will have Parsons turbines. A notable feature of all the ships is that they will carry two 4-inch guns, as well as a number of 12-pounders.

"In the case of the other six vessels, the contractors have been allowed a larger measure of latitude in the design of the ship and machinery, although the speed and armament are the same.

"The contract for these vessels has been placed for two each with the Parsons Marine Steam Turbine Company, Limited, of Wallsend; Messrs. J. I. Thornycroft and Co., Limited, Southampton; and Messrs. Yarrow and Company, Limited, Scotstoun.

"In all three pairs the contractors will fit machinery differing from each other and from that in any existing British destroyer; but it is desired that the actual details should not be disclosed, because of the significance of the change. The hull and boilers of the two vessels to be built by the Parsons Company will be constructed by Messrs. Denny, of Dumbarton."

WIFE MURDER IN PARIS.

MAN MAD WITH JEALOUSY.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

A terrible tragedy has been enacted in Paris. A workman, mad with jealousy, without ground, accused his wife of misconduct. He tied her to a bedstead and poured over her a litre (1¾ pint) of vitriol. He practically burned her to death.

SHIPBUILDING LOCKOUT.

SHORT STRUGGLE ANTICIPATED.

A WEALTHY TRADE UNION.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

In regard to the national lockout proclaimed by the Shipbuilding Employers' Federation against the Boilermakers' Union, it is pointed out that the employees of the Shipbuilding Employers' Federation number only one-third of the boilermakers. The remainder are in full employment, including those at Belfast, on the Thames, and at five places on the Clyde. Those employed will be able to subscribe for the benefit of the locked-out boilermakers.

The assets of the Boilermakers' Society amount to £135,400, of which £20,000 is immediately available. The rest, including £84,000 to the credit of the superannuation fund of the society, will take six months to realise.

The lock-out allowance is 12s a week.

The employers do not seek a financial guarantee for a continuance of work in the case of a settlement being come to, but they will not allow work to be resumed until satisfactory arrangements and assurances of future working are forthcoming.

The "Times" is of opinion that the increasing briskness of trade is in favour of a short strike.

Writing on the trouble in the Govan Yards of a month ago, with which the present trouble is intimately connected, the "Saturday Review" said: "A national lockout in the shipyards is the latest imminent trouble in the industrial world. Some men working on a ship at Govan, on the Clyde, imitated the folly of the men who started the North-Eastern Railway strike, and stopped work without any warning. The agreement of the Employers' Federation with the shipyard trade unions provides that there be no stoppage of work over any dispute until the question has been discussed in conference. The Boilermakers' and the Shipwrights' Societies, to which most of the men who have broken the agreement belong, have replied to the employers' complaints that they have ordered immediate resumption of work. But the work is not resumed. The Employers' Federation threatens a general lockout in another week. In the interval it may be hoped the officials of the two societies may be as successful in bringing the men to reason as the officials of the railway society were on the North-Eastern. Mr. Burt's latest monthly circular to the Northumberland Miners' Association deals with the suicidal craze of trade unionists for breaking agreements their own leaders have made. It weakens the influence of the officials as negotiators. One would think elementary common sense would teach the men this. Nothing has done more to convince the public of the value of trade unions than the efforts of the large societies to keep down disputes. But the good influence will all be over if the agreements they make are not kept; and the unions will disintegrate into fractious and at the same time impotent small bodies.

CULTIVATION OF MEMORY.

ORIGINAL AND SPRIGHTLY.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

The speech by Sir George Reid, High Commissioner for Australia, at the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, on "Memory," is the text of numerous leading articles.

The consensus of opinion is that the speech was original and sprightly, and will serve as a useful reminder on the futility of cramming.

JAPAN-BRITISH EXHIBITION.

Sir W. Hall Jones, High Commissioner for New Zealand, entertained 250 sanitary inspectors at the Japanese-British Exhibition, where the New Zealand Court was inspected.

A SKIN-GRAFTING CASE.

Douglas Brockington, aged seven years, son of a Cardiff tradesman, scalded himself while playing with a boiler. To save his arm the engrafting of healthy skin was deemed essential, and his young sisters Madge and Dorothy gave the skin from both their thighs for this purpose. They thus saved their brother's arm.

RELIGION AND SCIENCE.

THEIR LIMITATIONS.

SERMON BY ARCHBISHOP OF YORK.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

The Archbishop of York (the Right Rev. Dr. Lang) preached before the British Association of Science at Sheffield yesterday on the relation of science to religion.

The Archbishop said that the quarrels between religion and science were now confined to the camp followers of either side. Science was concentrating its forces on its own subject, viz., matter, and was becoming impressed with the mysteries involved in the ultimate causes and origin of life, meaning the human spirit.

Religion was also recognising its limitations, and was abandoning its claim to prescribe the methods of God in governing the world.

AERONAUTICS.

M. MORANE'S HIGH FLIGHT.

SENSATIONAL DESCENT.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

In regard to M. Morane's record high flight on an aeroplane at Deauville, France, when he attained a height of 8469ft, it appears that as the aviator was descending the motor stopped at 7500ft, and M. Morane was unable to restart it.

The monoplane then flew at an incline at a speed which caused vertigo, nausea, and buzzing in the ears. It was also caught in violent eddies, and nearly capsized.

M. Morane, however, recovered control, and alighted on level ground.

PARIS TO BORDEAUX.

M. Bielovucci aeroplaned from Paris to Bordeaux, making three stoppages for petrol. The net time of the journey was 7½ hours.

A NEW RECORD.

Helene Dutrieu, a Frenchwoman, has made the record flight for height and distance with a passenger by aeroplaning from Blakenberghe to Bruges, Belgium, and back, a height of 1250ft being attained.

A TANDEM BIPLANE.

INVENTION OF NEW ZEALANDER.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

A tandem biplane, designed by Lieutenant Seddon, of New Zealand, is on exhibition at Wolverhampton. The area of the plane is 1000 square feet, and the horse-power of the engines is 100. The biplane is designed to carry five persons.

Kent is the champion cricket county. The points are:—Kent 76, Surrey 57.14, Middlesex 50, Lancashire 48.27, Nottinghamshire 45, Hampshire 41.66, Sussex 40, Yorkshire 37.

Kent won the country championship last year with 77 points, followed by Lancashire 55, Yorkshire 50, Sussex 40, Surrey 39, Middlesex 9, and Northamptonshire 5.

Since 1900 the winners have been:—1900-1-2, Yorkshire; 1903, Middlesex; 1904, Lancashire; 1905, Yorkshire; 1906, Kent; 1907, Nottinghamshire; 1908, Yorkshire; 1909-10, Kent.

LOADING CUSTOMS GOODS.

CARRIERS' REQUEST.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A deputation representing master carriers waited upon the Minister for Customs to-day with reference to the recent decision that no customed goods should be removed from the wharf or loaded on to the waggons before 8 o'clock. The carriers asked for reconsideration of the decision. They would prefer to commence half an hour earlier in the morning, even if it meant ceasing work half an hour earlier in the afternoon. It was in the morning that the block occurred, and gave them a late start with their work.

Mr. Tudor said, in reply, that he would go down to the wharfs and see the work for himself. Generally he was opposed to the removal of any customed goods before a representative of the department was present. He thought that the rule should be observed for the better prevention of pilfering. In saying that he thought that the carriers and their drivers would agree that it was better not to allow any opportunity for unscrupulous persons to do things which might result in harmful suspicion of an honest body of men.

CANADIAN MARKET.

FOR AUSTRALIAN PRODUCE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The attention of the Minister for Customs was drawn to the cable regarding Australian bacon being landed in America. Mr. Tudor was pleased to see that the trade was springing up. "I certainly think we should do our best to make use of the market Canada offers, and that in any future mail contract between Australia and Canada we should endeavour to arrange for space for such commodities as are required, principally by the west of Canada, where the seasons alternate with ours. We are only three weeks from the west coast of Canada, and we could, for instance, send our fruit there at a time when they have none. I will consider the advisableness of having some kind of representation in Canada with a view to bringing the matter before the Cabinet if my inquiries justify it."

RAILWAY WORKERS' STRIKE.

ADELAIDE, Monday.

The United Labourers' Union strike in connection with the ganger Thompson entered on its fourth day on Monday. The number of strikers in the street was not large, and those around the union office discussed the situation with evident anxiety. The union still adheres to its ultimatum that nothing but the removal of Thompson from over them will be satisfactory to members. Three more gangs ceased work to-day, and an addition of between 40 and 50 was made to the strike roll.

The Premier returned from the north, and in the afternoon a meeting of the Cabinet discussed the position. Mr. Verran afterwards stated: "I asked the Railway Commissioner for an official statement of the number of men on strike, and he has reported a total of 273. I prefer to say nothing in regard to the subject, except that the matter is under consideration."

In its manifesto the union states that 500 men are out.

NEW ZEALAND'S BIRTH-RATE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

The latest published statistics show that last year the number of births was 27.79 per thousand, an increase of 2.25 per cent. The birth rate per married woman of child-bearing age was shown to be steadily decreasing. Illegitimate births totalled 46 of every thousand children born, against 43 for the previous year. In five cases the mothers were 14 years old, and in nine cases 15 years. Marriages show a decrease of 245 on the previous year, the rate per thousand being 8.38, against 8.98. The death rate was 19.22 per thousand. Infant mortality was exceedingly low.

GREAT SHIPPING STRIKE.

INTERNATIONAL PROPOSAL.

MEETINGS ARRANGED.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

Mr. Havelock Wilson, of the British Sailors and Firemen's Union, who has been interviewed at South Shields respecting the prospective shipping strike affecting all European countries, said that meetings had been arranged in all ports in Great Britain, the Continent, and Australia to ask the men if they would be prepared to quit their ships at a given signal.

The meetings, he said, would include unionists and non-unionists.

AUSTRALIA NOT INVOLVED.

INDICTMENT OF BRITISH SHIPPING.

Interviewed yesterday concerning the threatened shipping strike, Mr. J. Scotland, president of the Sydney Seamen's Union, said that the matter simply concerned the unions of the United Kingdom and Continent, and had no connection with Australia, save perhaps in respect to British vessels in Australian ports. The main object of the proposed strike was to secure the establishment of conciliatory boards, much after the pattern of that already established in this country, as under present conditions English marine legislation was entirely valueless to any but the owners. The men were underpaid and underfed. "Of all the boats I have ever sailed in," said Mr. Scotland, "the hungriest were the British. On almost any Australian line a man can almost always get something to eat and drink, no matter at what hour of the day or night; and the German and French lines treat their men well, too, but on a British boat a man may come from five or six hours' continuous hard work in the stokehole, and be lucky to find a cup of coffee and a biscuit. As for washing, on many British boats there is not as much as a tin bucket provided, not to speak of a bathroom. The result is that the English mercantile marine is practically composed of foreigners of the lowest type, the scum of the earth, who desert at the first port, and leave the skipper to find a fresh crew of the same type.

"I don't know whether the strike is likely to succeed," continued Mr. Scotland, "but if they get the Continental unions to join in too it will be a very big affair. In that case nothing could beat them. It seems to me that they should have waited for the summer, however. Winter in England is a bad time in which to strike. There has been some talk of forming camps to feed and shelter the men, but I don't know where the money is to come from."

SEAMEN'S UNION PRESIDENT.

AWAITING FURTHER INFORMATION.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Senator Guthrie, of South Australia, who is the president of the Federated Seamen's Union of Australia, when asked this afternoon if any news had been received by the union with regard to the proposed international strike, said he had heard of no arrangements being made to hold meetings of seamen. Questioned as to what would be the probable attitude of the Australian union in the matter, he replied: "I think we must wait for some communication from those associated with the movement in Great Britain before we can say what attitude we should adopt. We do not officially know yet what they want of us. Personally, I do not think there is much in it."

LOCAL OWNERS UNDISTURBED.

GENERAL STRIKE RIDICULED.

With reference to the statement of Mr. Havelock Wilson, as reported by cable, local shipowners, who were spoken to yesterday, did not fear that the suggested extension to the Australian trade would be likely to be brought about. Nothing had been reported from England to indicate that the seamen there were striving for a general strike. It was pointed out that during the last few years in England the shipping trade had been slack, owners and workmen suffering alike from the general depression. Seamen in Australia at the present time, the owners thought, were satisfied with their conditions, as wages were higher than in any other places. Concessions had been more generous, and, as far the owners knew, there was an amicable spirit existing between the companies and the union. As to the probability of unionists and non-unionists coming together for the purpose of an international struggle, this could have no particular application to the Australian trade, for the reason that there were practically no non-unionist seamen engaged on the Commonwealth service. It was stated that if a deep sea man should take on a coastal service, it was a matter only of a little space of time, and he became a member of a union. It was also pointed out that Australian seamen were looking hopefully to the passage of the Navigation Bill.

MILITARY STAFF COLLEGE.

NO INTOXICANTS ALOWED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The course of instruction at the Military College will extend over four years, with terms March 1 to June 24, and from July 14 to December 15 in each year. The subjects which will form the ordinary course of studies will be strategy, military history, geography, tactics, military engineering, mechanical drawing, map reading, surveying, artillery, military law, and administration, and drill of all arms, including musketry, physical training, signalling, riding, driving, and horse mastership. The civil subjects will be mathematics, English, science, including chemistry, physics, electricity, languages (French and German), sanitation, hygiene, and first aid, manual training in workshops. No cadet will be allowed to drink any spirituous or intoxicating liquor, or bring or cause same to be brought to the college. Any cadet found under the influence of intoxicating liquor will be dismissed. The cadets will require permission to enter hotels, billiard-rooms, theatres, concerts, or ballrooms. Gambling and cigarettes will be prohibited, and smoking only permitted in certain hours.

THE DESTROYERS' FLAG.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) stated that the temporary difficulty regarding the flag to be flown by the new destroyers on their voyage to Australia had been settled. The Parramatta and the Yarra, which will sail from English waters on September 15, will fly the blue ensign of the British navy. Senator Pearce stated that sailors of the Admiralty who had been drafted on to the destroyers were to make up the complement of the vessels. Captain Tickell had been authorised to engage these men.

COMMONWEALTH PROTECTIONIST ASSOCIATION.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

It has been arranged by the central executive of the Political Labour Council that a special conference shall be held on October 29 to consider the difficulty that has arisen in regard to the Commonwealth Protectionist Association.

RICHMOND COLLISION.

"SUCCESSION OF CONTRAVENTIONS."

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The special board which inquired into the causes of the Richmond railway disaster presented its report to the Premier. Its findings are as follow:—That the accident was caused by a succession of contraventions named hereunder of railway regulations by a number of employees of the department, during an extraordinarily dense fog, and therefore at a time when it was essential that they should exercise extreme vigilance and caution. These were:—

1. The act of McDonald in putting the "advanced starter" at South Yarra to danger, and thereby stopping the 8.20 a.m. "up Brighton" train before it had passed that signal. If he had not been so anxious, as he apparently was, to comply with regulation 64B, which says that "when a train has gone forward into the section in advance the advance starting signal must be put to danger," he would not have put his "advance starter" to "danger" so soon as he did after the departure of the first train. Both the train and the semaphore were invisible to him by reason of the fog. He appears to have put an interpretation on this rule which none of the other signalmen called as witnesses did. These men stated that they would have waited for an assurance that the train had passed the "advance starter"; even if that involved waiting until communication from Richmond showed that the train had arrived there. McDonald allowed what he thought reasonable time for the train, which had disappeared from his view in the fog, to pass that semaphore, and then raised it to danger. Events proved that his guess was inaccurate, and the train was blocked at that semaphore some minutes. This regulation might be made more explicit in regard to the mode of dealing with the "advance starter" in foggy weather.

2. McDonald's act in allowing the 8.37 a.m. train to come from Prahran before he knew that the 8.20 a.m. train had gone on its journey a quarter of a mile beyond the South Yarra up home semaphore, and in doing so we find he contravened the provisions of regulation 4 regarding block telegraph working.

3. The failure of the driver, fireman, and guard of the 8.20 a.m. train to inform McDonald of the detention of their train at his advance starter. Seeing that the practice was, according to the evidence, to always ignore regulation 75A, the board does not consider that blame is attachable to any of the men concerned.

4. The infringement of the regulations governing block telegraph working by either McDonald or Bull, in consequence of which the 8.37 a.m. up Elsternwick train was allowed in the South Yarra-Richmond section before the 8.20 a.m. train had left it; and the failure of Bull, after resorting to the telephone, to arrive at a perfect understanding with the South Yarra box as to the meaning of the "three two one" message sent about 9 a.m.

5. The final mistake, and that which actually caused the collision, that of Enginedriver Melville, of the 8.37 a.m. up Elsternwick train, who after receiving notification by the explosion of a detonator of his position at the distant semaphore did not exercise the extreme caution necessary in such a dense fog, and passed the home semaphore at Richmond while it was at danger. His action in doing so is to some extent excusable, as the fact that he had been allowed into the section in such foggy weather would cause him to confidently assume, unless he exploded detonators before reaching the home semaphore, that his road was clear to the Richmond platform. But he appears not to have exercised the vigilance necessary under such difficult and abnormal conditions. There was also a misunderstanding between the Richmond stationmaster (Mr. Oliphant) and Signalman Bull, which resulted in the Richmond up home semaphore not being manned by fog signalmen as usual on the morning of the accident. For this we do not find that Mr. Oliphant was in any way to blame.

The contraventions and misunderstandings above set out afford ample proof of the truth of the well known maxim in railway management, "that it takes two men to make an accident." For had even one of the men concerned in the calamitous occurrence of July 18 fully complied with the railway regulations no accident would have occurred.

The board also found regarding the ambulance and as to the care and transport of passengers injured in the accident that everything that forethought and organisation could suggest was done.

MILLIONS OF MONEY.

AUSTRALIA TO BE EXPLOITED.

SAWDUST FOOD AND BLUE GUM PAPER.

"NOTHING WASTE UNDER THE SUN."

"England has millions of money itching for profitable investment. I represent some of the best-type London investors, and for the few lines we are exploiting there is a million sterling earmarked. Home financiers don't want any wild-cat schemes. Once they are satisfied that the thing rings true there is plenty of money available."

In these few words Mr. F. W. J. Moore summed up the attitude of the British investor towards Australia. Mr. Moore is the London representative of Messrs. H. Jones, Ltd., and he arrived in Sydney yesterday on his way to Tasmania. Although primarily interested in Australian fruit, Mr. Moore represents some home syndicates that intend to establish themselves in Australia—principally in Tasmania—for the manufacture of woollen goods, paper, and fish manure.

"There is nothing waste under the sun," said Mr. Moore. "There are big firms in Scotland making large sums out of oil and manure—the by-products of fish. Another firm—the British Alcohol Syndicate—formed to extract alcohol from sawdust for fuel, is now doing a great business in sawdust foods for sheep, cattle, horses, pigs, and poultry. A third firm makes sawdust soap."

"We intend making paper out of Australian timber. Dr. M'Coll the Tasmanian Agent-General and I had the blue gum tested in the paper mills. It produced a fine paper, identical with the esparto paper made from African esparto grass. We do not intend making the cheap flimsy papers, but for the better class papers blue gum is eminently suitable. The supply of wood is almost inexhaustible. There are large buyers of paper at home, while the Australian market, at any rate, should be supplied here. Norway, Sweden, Canada, and the United States have not the timber we have. There is a quarter of a million sterling ready to go into this scheme. Sawdust used to be a nuisance and an expense. Now we can make excellent cattle food from it. It sells very largely in London. It is by chemical treatment converted into cellulose, and mixed with molasses."

"As to the fishing scheme," continued Mr. Moore, "we have made arrangements for an expert—a man who knows everything worth knowing about fish to come out here. Apart from supplying the market with fresh fish, there are great possibilities in the manufacture of fish manure. The East can take great quantities of it. The expert is a Scotsman, who has been all his life at the trade. He has an optimistic faith in the wealth of the waters. Wherever there are coasts, there are fish. The North Sea fishers supply Vienna. The Australian coast should be able to supply our interior."

Two mills are to be erected in Tasmania for the manufacture of blankets, rugs, tweeds, and khaki cloth.

Fruit is Mr. Moore's specialty, and he holds that there is a big future for the Australian fruit trade with Europe if only we can export good quality fruit in large enough quantities, and do it regularly. The chief essential is regular shipments. California does this, and it costs no more from Australia than from California. We have to compete also with Italy and Spain, but if we send good quality fruit Europe will buy. From April to June there is nothing from the rest of the world, and Australia has the British market to herself for apples and pears. There should also be a big field for Australian passionfruit, pineapple, and oranges. Hitherto the passionfruit shipments have been of indifferent quality. If they were well known Mr. Moore believes that they would have an immense sale. But small lots now and then are no good. There must be regular shipments. American agents can always guarantee 200,000 cases if necessary. Such is not the case with regard to Australian shippers.

PERTH TRAM STRIKE.

EGGS AND BOTTLES.

PERTH (W.A.), Monday.

Negotiations are proceeding with a view to the settlement of the Perth tramway strike, which is now in its sixth week; but very little progress has so far been made. The company extended the service to Mount Lawry and North Perth to-day, and eggs and bottle throwing at conductors was indulged in by sympathisers with the strikers.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK.

ADELAIDE, Monday.

PORTER'S HEROIC ACTION.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT AT CENTRAL STATION.

"How did the lad get on? Was he injured? I told him to lie flat," were the first words spoken by Leading Porter Allen last night as his mates lifted him, frightfully mutilated, from the line beside the No. 4 platform.

Allen, who is a middle-aged man, living in Flood-street, Leichhardt, is a leading porter in the employ of the Railway Commissioners. Last night he was on duty on the No. 4 platform. Just as the 6.25 train was leaving for Ashfield he noticed a lad run up the platform and jump on the footboard of the moving train. Allen ran after him, and when he overtook the lad the latter was attempting to open one of the carriage doors. By this time the train was moving fairly fast. Allen grasped the lad by the arm, but by some unfortunate mishap both he and the lad fell between the moving train and the platform, the lad being underneath. Allen, with remarkable presence of mind, half lifted and half pushed the lad up against the stone coping of the platform, but the space between the train and the platform was not large enough to shelter the two of them in safety. The wheels of the train passed over Allen's left leg, almost severing it. His collar-bone and several of his ribs, too, were fractured. He was semi-conscious when lifted from the metals, but on recovering his faculties his first inquiries were regarding the safety of the lad for whom he had risked his life. Reassured concerning his safety, Allen quietly fainted again. In the meantime the youngster had picked himself up and had made off.

The Civil Ambulance Brigade were quickly on the scene, and after rendering first aid conveyed the sufferer with all despatch to the Sydney Hospital, where it was found necessary to immediately amputate the left leg below the knee. It was also feared that the brave porter had sustained internal injuries. At midnight his condition was regarded as very serious.

SAN FRANCISCO SERVICE.

PREPARATIONS FOR RENEWAL.

AUCKLAND, Monday.

According to information which has reached Auckland, when the Mariposa left San Francisco for Tahiti on August 6 active preparations were going on for the renewal of Spreckles' service between that port and Auckland and Sydney. Sir James Mills, of the Union Company, while en route to England, had an interview with the heads of the Oceanic Company at San Francisco, and it is possible that some arrangement was made between the two companies. At all events, it was stated by Mr. Spreckles before the Mariposa left San Francisco on her last trip that the Ventura and Sonoma would in all probability be running again about January next, quite irrespective of the United States Subsidy Bill, the fate of which still hangs in the balance.

COMPETITION IN NEW ZEALAND TRADE.

POSITION OF P. AND O. COMPANY.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

Competition in the intercolonial trade between local companies and the P. and O. Company formed the subject of a deputation from the Merchant Service Guild and Marine Engineers' Institute to Sir Joseph Ward. The deputation pointed out that these steamers paid rates to officers and men which resulted in unfair competition, and asked if anything could be done to compel all ships trading between Australia and New Zealand to conform with local conditions. They also suggested that it was possible to assist local companies by means of subsidies. It was pointed out that on the Maheno the wages of the engine-room staff was £116 10s per month; Omrah, £70, and Frederich der Crosse £51 14s per month. If such ships were allowed to enter the New Zealand trade without competition it was only a matter of time when local shippers would go to the wall. Sir Joseph Ward expressed entire sympathy with the proposal, but pointed out the difficulty that any legislation passed would have to receive the approval of the British Government, which was concerned with the interests of all parts of the Empire. Regarding the subsidy, he pointed out that it would necessarily mean the provision of larger boats. The subsidy would have to be very big; besides which some of the existing steamers would have to be put off. It would be a proper thing to bring the question up at the next Imperial conference.

FLOODS IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

MAN DROWNED.

ADELAIDE, Monday.

The northern floods on Sunday were responsible for another drowning fatality. Tom Murray, 32, attempted to cross the River Light at Marrabel Ford when riding a horse and leading another. He was washed down the stream and was seen clinging to a barbed wire fence. His hands were so lacerated that he had to relinquish his hold, and was drowned. The bridge over Bundaleer Creek, near to Georgetown, was swept away.

FATAL FIGHT.

"SOLDIER" ROGERS'S DEATH.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

An inquest was held at Ballarat to-day into the circumstances of the death of Edward ("Soldier") Rogers, who died after a boxing contest with Alf. Copperwaite at Ballarat on Saturday night. After hearing evidence, the Coroner said he was inclined to think that the blow delivered had been more or less an indirect cause of the injury, but there was no evidence of manslaughter. The contest was on the evidence a fair one, and was conducted with most friendly feeling on both sides. The gloves were, in his opinion, mild, and every possible precaution had been taken to prevent the men from injuring one another. Deceased suffered from a variety of ailments, which doctors declared predisposed him to rupture of a blood vessel. He found that Rogers died from hemorrhage of the brain, caused by a blow received in a boxing contest.

SUNDAY AMUSEMENTS.

"FAULT-FINDERS WITH EVERYTHING."

ALBURY, Monday.

At St. Patrick's Church on Sunday the Rev. Father Dwyer referred to the question of Sunday amusements. He said there was no law of God or man to stop tennis, football, and other innocent games on Sundays. He would rather see young people playing a good, healthy game of tennis, football, or cricket on Sunday than their heads buried in filthy novels or going to places where they might lapse into sin and crime. The players should not offend anyone. If they played near people who were sensitive—and people had no right to be—they should shift. There were always fault-finders with everything. If fault was found after the players shifted their location, they could say that they were neither dull nor unprincipled, and that they knew the law of God as well as anyone else.

A SHOCKING TRAGEDY.

BULLET WOUNDS AND CUT THROAT.

LOCKHART, Monday.

Considerable surprise was expressed in town this morning when it was known that Mr. George Day, a well-known newsagent and tobacconist, had lost his life. Deceased purchased a pea-rifle as soon as the shop opened, and some little time afterwards was found behind the counter of the saloon with his throat cut and three bullet wounds in his head. A doctor was hastily summoned, but life was found extinct. The deceased leaves a wife and family of six young children, and was at one time a successful jockey. He had lately suffered severely from insomnia.

FIRE AT MOREE.

DAMAGE IN A BILLIARD ROOM.

MOREE, Monday.

A fire broke out in the billiard-room of the School of Arts on Sunday night at 10. The fire brigade, with an efficient water pressure, subdued the flames in half an hour. The estimated damage is £150. The room and contents were insured in the Phoenix Assurance Company for £400, and the School of Arts contiguous for £2650. Had the fire not been detected at the time, undoubtedly £6000 worth of damage would have been done. The northern and eastern walls of the billiard-room were partially burnt from the ground to the eaves. The origin of the fire is unknown.

STATE ELECTIONS.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

Polling day: October 14.

September 15 is the last day upon which enrolments or transfers can be effected.

It is a duty devolving upon all citizens to see that their names are correctly on the roll in the meantime.

The knowledge that you forgot to get your name enrolled is no consolation for seeing your candidate defeated by a couple of votes.

"Great reforms, long talked of and kept on party platforms as electioneering baits, have been tackled by the Carruthers and Wade Governments and put on the statute book."—Mr. Hogue at the Glebe.

Even his opponents must concede the courage of Colonel Onslow. On being asked a question as to a local work in the Waverley electorate, he declared: "I will never be one to squeeze the Treasury with the object of squandering money to buy votes."

During his present tour Mr. M'Gowen seems to have been at pains to eschew those methods of attack which have signalised the Labour campaign so far. Even if only for the credit of the State, it is to be hoped the rank and file will see fit to follow the lead of their leader.

The fact that the Labour party railed against the Industrial Disputes Act because it was a Government measure has prompted Liberal candidates to point out that 103 unions are registered under the measure, and that under the wages board system no less than £459,000 has been added to the earnings of the workers—two facts that never fail to impress their hearers.

Mr. M'Gowen, after addressing two meetings on his southern tour, says he is "satisfied that the country is on fire with enthusiasm for the Labour cause."

The action of South Australia's Labour Premier in reference to the threatened strike there has had the effect of spiking the gun with which the New South Wales Labour party was bombarding the Wade Government over the coal strike. The disquieting fact has been realised that even the most obtuse elector must see what a complete vindication Mr. Verran's attitude has been.

"So far our opponents have done us the honour of refraining from saying anything about the Government's past legislation and administration, with the exception of one or two things done in December last. I quite appreciate the excellent tactics of our astute opponents. You can see why they prefer to fight on any battle-ground than that of the Government's political achievements."—Mr. J. Garland at Singleton.

In the interchange of courtesies between the leaders of parties which brought the session of Parliament to a close, the Premier expressed the hope that during the election campaign candidates would "play the game" and avoid wilful misrepresentation of the aims and motives of those politically opposed to them. Mr. Meagher, when speaking on Saturday evening in support of the Labour candidate for Waverley, certainly did not play the game. His narration of the "facts" of the coal strike was of a kind that would have surprised even the leaders of that disastrous movement, and the word picture he drew of the Premier was of the highly-lurid kind, picturing Mr. Wade, in the time-honoured phrase of melodrama, as "a villain of the deepest dye."

It was really too ridiculous to be taken seriously. One of the audience writes:—"If Mr. Meagher, M.L.A., imagines that the right-thinking electors of Waverley are going to be taken in with such stuff as this, and gain votes for Labour, then he will find that he has completely missed the mark and entirely failed in his objective. I wonder what his real objective is? Until the Labour party throws off this great distrust, venomous hatred, and raucous reviling of all those who do not think as they do, and follow blindly in their path, they will never as long as Australia lasts reach their desired haven, cure the ills of humanity, and bring to pass those wonderful blessings and attainments which they are so fond of promising suffering humanity if we will only give them a chance."

There is much joy in the Labour camp over the "gathering in" of Mr. B. R. Wise, K.C., but the joy is tinged by sadness as from day to day former utterances are used in evidence against this notable recruit. Mr. Wise is making it his special business to help the cause of Labour in the Darlinghurst electorate in opposition to Mr. Daniel Levy, one of the most capable members of the Liberal party, and this has prompted Mr. Levy to extend his political research to his learned friend's unregenerate days.

In March, 1901, Mr. Wise delivered himself on the subject of "the caucus versus democracy" in the following terms:—"Labour representatives are the representatives of a class, or clique, and are as such essentially undemocratic, because a representative should be a representative of the whole community. Further, the caucus system, which the Labour representatives approve, is an absolute destruction of Parliamentary government, because it relieves members of the responsibility which, according to our system, members of Parliament owe to their constituents. Every member of Parliament ought to be prepared to give reasons for his vote, both to Parliament and to his constituents. A Labour member, voting according to the dictates of the caucus, is relieved from these obligations, and as he is bound not to reveal what takes place in the caucus no one can call him to account for any vote which he may give.

"This system also destroys the individuality of the member, and turns him from a representative into a mere piece of machinery. If Parliamentary government is to be successful the best men in the country should be members, but under the caucus system there is no scope for merit. One man is just as good as another, since all that a member has to do is to record a vote whenever he is bidden and as he is bidden. This system is alike derogatory to members and demoralising to Parliament."

Day after day, sometimes in and about the city, but chiefly in the country, statements are made from the Labour platform that haven't even a nodding acquaintance with the truth. "It is our business," the secretary of the Liberal and Reform Association remarked yesterday, "to track down and reply to these extraordinary canards. For instance, in a township on the Western line where there is a strong temperance vote, a story was started that at the last local option poll Broken Hill carried local option and closed its hotels, and that Mr. Wade reopened them. Of course, this story carries its own contradiction to those who know anything of the matter, because if no-license were carried it could not come into force for some years, and if the hotels were closed Mr. Wade would certainly have no power to reopen them. But it is just a sample of the stuff that is put forward in the hope of misleading the unsophisticated elector.

"Another example of cast-iron assurance was given at a meeting at the Glebe on Friday night, when Mr. D. R. Hall said that the better facilities for education in Public schools that now exist were due to the efforts of Mr. Holman and himself, who kicked up a row that led to the sending of Messrs. Knibbs and Turner on a tour to other countries. The facts are that Sir Joseph Carruthers was mainly responsible. He called a public meeting in the vestibule of the Town Hall, and certain resolutions passed were afterwards conveyed by a deputation introduced by Sir Joseph Carruthers to Mr. Perry, the then Minister of Education. To Mr. Perry, the present Minister for Agriculture, must be given the credit of sending the Education Committee to England, Europe, and America.

"Another sample of the Labour mis-statements cropped up at the Glebe, when Mr. Keegan said that a child had been given a tablet with the word 'pauper' written across it. This statement was greeted with loud cries of 'Shame!' but Mr. Hogue, the Minister, was able to assure the public that there was not the slightest foundation for it. In designating the statement 'an infamous falsehood' Mr. Hogue did not use language by any means too strong."

A correspondent writes in protest against the tactics of a section of those opposed to Mr. C. W. Oakes in the Paddington electorate. He points out that while Labour meetings are entirely free from disorder a noisy faction makes the round of Liberal meetings, disturbing not only the speakers, but electors who wish to hear what the speakers have to say. Such tactics, he adds, involve their own defeat, for the people of Paddington and Wool-

In the Legislative Assembly, as at present constituted, 53 members range themselves on the side of Liberalism, and the remaining 37 are members of the caucus. Mr. M'Gowen professes to look forward to taking his place in the Parliament to be elected on the 14th of next month as the leader of a party 57 strong, modestly estimating his gains at 20 seats. But the Liberal leaders are equally confident of an entirely different result. They have carefully considered the prospects, and on paper have more than a majority of absolutely certain seats. While admitting that eight Liberal seats come within the definition of doubtful, they consider there are no less than 11 Labour seats in the same category.

Speaking at Grafton on Friday, Mr. J. M'Farlane, Liberal candidate for the Clarence electorate, said that, though the land resumption policy of the Wade Government had not directly settled a very large number on the land, yet it had indirectly done so, because private owners, recognising that resumption of their land was inevitable, anticipated future Government action by voluntary subdivision, with the result that a very large number of men had acquired homes.

"Now three vigorous cheers for the Premier."—The Mayor of Narrandera.

The Blayney branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association has unanimously decided to support the candidature of Mr. W. S. Kelk for the Blayney electorate in opposition to Mr. G. Beeby. In a speech delivered by Mr. H. R. Pigott, on behalf of Mr. Kelk, at King's Plains last week, Mr. Pigott said that though Mr. Beeby had declared himself in favour of freeholds, yet he was bound down by plank 22 of the Labour platform to a policy of land nationalisation. Speaking at Brown's Creek Mr. Pigott likened the worker who voted for Labour, but owned an allotment on which he hoped to erect a home, to a Buddhist who threw himself in front of the car of Juggernaut, hoping thereby to reach heaven.

The Minister for Lands, Mr. Moore, is holding a series of successful meetings in the Bingara electorate. He spoke at Bundarra on Saturday, and had a splendid reception.

"The Wade Administration has placed more people on the land than any other Government."—Mr. Perry at Alstonville.

"It is a matter of deep regret to one who bears the responsibility of governing the country when one's best endeavours are distorted into unrecognisable shapes.

"Sooner would I go down on the understanding that the whole case was dealt with on a pure issue of politics than return to power after circulating unworthy motives. Public men must maintain a high standard of public life."—Mr. Wade.

Mr. J. L. Fegan pointed out to an audience consisting largely of railway men last night that, obeying the dictates of the caucus, Mr. M'Gowen had tried to kill the Railway Superannuation Bill. "Will you elect a man who keeps his promises to his constituents," asked Mr. Fegan, "or a man who will go back on you in order to keep his caucus pledge?"

The Liberal candidate for Redfern, Mr. J. L. Fegan, who has pluckily come forward against Mr. M'Gowen, had a successful meeting to open his campaign last night. There was a big hostile section present, but the candidate told them some home truths about the deeds of the Labour party, and in the end made an excellent impression.

Mr. Griffith, M.L.A., returned to Sydney yesterday after having conducted a series of meetings in the Bega electorate in conjunction with Mr. Frank Riley, the selected Labour candidate. Messrs. Griffith and Riley spoke in Bermagui, Bega, Bemboka, Cobargo, Candelo, Wolumla, Pambula, Eden, and Bombala.

LABOUR CANDIDATE'S ALLEGATIONS.

AN INCIDENT OF THE SCHOOLS.

MINISTER'S REFUTATION.

Ministers and their followers find it impossible to reply to all the slanderous allegations that are made about departmental administration, for, as a rule, it is necessary to investigate them in order to discover if some of the supposed happenings have any foundation. Mr. Hogue, the Minister for Education, felt himself impelled yesterday, however, to contradict an extraordinary statement made by his Labour opponent for the Glebe seat, Mr. Keegan, that a school child had been given a scribbling block marked "Pauper."

"I've heard a good many fables lately about our Public schools, and the instruction given in them," said Mr. Hogue. "Some of them are such palpable inventions that I hardly feel surprised at anything that can be said on the subject, but Mr. Keegan's statement at the Glebe on Saturday night caps anything within the regions of fancy. He is reported to have added to the assertion that one of the tablets given to the children was marked 'pauper' these words: 'Why should they use the name of "pauper" in the school? Poverty was no crime, and why should any teacher dare write "pauper" on a book given to a child? No woman, either, should be called upon to make a declaration that she is not able to pay in a school.' These are definite, serious charges—more serious perhaps than Mr. Keegan imagines. They have gone forth broadcast to the public, and are calculated to prejudice our schools in the eyes of our own people, and give a false impression to the outside world. I'm in a position to say, and the thing is plain, that all these statements are, one and all, unmitigated 'thumpers.' In Mr. Keegan's country it would be said that this 'bangs Banagher.' My denial of these statements has gone forth with them, and I'm glad an opportunity was given me; but in view of the published report in this morning's paper of what was said, I went out of my way to visit the Glebe and Forest Lodge Public schools to-day so as to get at the facts first hand, so far as these schools are concerned. I presume one or other of them was referred to. Dr. Bohrsman, chairman of the local school board, accompanied me to the Glebe. I saw the head teachers of both. They emphatically deny that ever any tablet was marked as alleged. Moreover, they were indignant at the thought that such a thing could be done. No teacher would dream of putting such a stigma on a child. Need I say that no instructions have ever been issued to teachers from my department to so mark any book? Of a Minister who would authorise anything of the kind it could well be said that the gods had driven him mad before destroying him. And were any such insane instructions issued, I fancy the teachers' association would have something to say about it; and the teachers themselves would rise in revolt against it.

"It is only one of the numerous attempts to prejudice the minds of parents against our Public school system. The people of this State who had read these statements will resent this most unjustifiable slander. I am led to ask my fellow-citizens what is the meaning of these baseless attacks upon the system of education which is dear to the hearts of our people, which is every day being more and more liberalised, and which, it is not too much to say, is in all essentials of an education system second to none in Australia? If I know anything of the temper and opinions of the people of New South Wales, I fancy that many slanders put in circulation about our schools will recoil disastrously on those who invent, as well as those who circulate them."

REDFERN.

MR. FEGAN'S OPENING MEETING.

Mr. J. L. Fegan, Liberal candidate for Redfern, opened his candidature at the Redfern Town Hall last night before a crowded audience. A big section of the audience was plainly hostile to him, but the candidate spoke straight to the point, and finally, despite the opposition, obtained a very fair hearing. Mr. Fegan said the question had been asked why he had come to the Redfern electorate. Well, he had just as much right to come there as the leader of the Opposition had to come to Newcastle. He felt proud that the Liberal party had asked him to come and fight Mr. M'Gowen. He was no stranger to public life. He entered the House 17 years ago, at the same time as Mr. M'Gowen.

Mr. Fegan: When I went in there was no pledge. I went to support the measures I believed in, and as soon as the Labour party introduced the pledge I refused to sign it.

A voice: Blackleg.

Mr. Fegan (addressing the man who had interjected): You are too old a man to insult me like that. I don't thing anyone can cast such aspersions on me." Continuing, he said he was as much a Labour man as anyone there. (Laughter and dissent.) That was the reason they did not like to see him there. He knew perfectly well what Labour meant, but he had never lived on it. (Hoots.) He had fought for it all along, and he was now representing the best interests of labour.

A voice: You are supporting a Government that is taking the miners' liberty away. We have not forgotten it.

Mr. Fegan: No; but you have forgotten all the good things they have done. He went on to refer to the Workers' Compensation Act and the Railway Superannuation Bill. Mr. M'Gowen had himself spoken in favour of the latter bill in the first place, and then supported an amendment that would have killed it.

A voice: He is a twicer.

Mr. Fegan said that was one of the most humane measures that had ever been passed, and yet if their present representative had had his way it would be dead by now. The man who talked one way to his constituents and another way in Parliament would be dealt with eventually. The Industrial Disputes Act had also given the workers very many benefits. In every instance but four wages had been increased by the Act. As a result a larger proportion of unions had come into existence, and the credit for that was due to the present Government. When that Act was passed the Labour party and the existing trades unions were against it to a man, but dared they say anything against it now?

Voices: Yes.

Mr. Fegan: No, you don't. Even the Trades Hall supports it. Referring to the Newcastle strike, he claimed that though the miners themselves had first broken the law, the Government had treated them with great forbearance. Mr. Wade had done his utmost to bring about an amicable settlement. (Hoots.) If the men had not broken their agreements in the first place the Government could have settled the strike amicably. "What is the Labour Premier of South Australia, Mr. Verran, doing? There is a strike there, and he is standing by the law." (Cheers.)

There was further interruption, and at last the chairman had to make an appeal to the audience for fairplay. This was respected for a time; but there were frequent outbursts again. Referring to the last amendment of the Industrial Disputes Act, Mr. Fegan said that if the Labour party had done its duty that would never have been made necessary. Nothing of the sort had been required in the 1896 strike, because at that time the men had good advisers. (Hear, hear and dissent.) If the Labour party had fearlessly done their duty the last strike would have ended months before.

A Voice: They were not game.

Mr. Fegan: That is it exactly.

A Voice: Why didn't the Government force the proprietors.

Mr. Fegan: They could not do it. The proprietors were within the law. The miners broke their agreements and broke the law.

Another Interjector: Couldn't they nationalise the mines.

Mr. Fegan: In 1894 I moved a resolution to nationalise the mines, and where was your member then. He did not turn up. It is sometimes very convenient not to be there. The pledge demanded by the Labour leagues was an insult to the manhood of a candidate. It insinuated that there had to be a pledge to keep him straight. Tyranny was the same all the world over. He left it to them to say whether they would elect a man who would keep his promises to his constituents or a man who would go back on them in order to keep his caucus pledge.

MINISTER FOR JUSTICE AT WATERLOO.

Mr. G. H. Smith, the selected Liberal candidate for Alexandria, opened his campaign last evening in the Waterloo Town Hall. There was a large gathering, presided over by the Mayor of Waterloo Alderman Powell.

The candidate stated that he was a native of Waterloo, and was reared and educated in the district, and for several years occupied the position of an alderman, being the youngest councillor ever elected. (Applause.) He had no illwill towards Mr. D'Arcy. In fact, they were the best of friends. He did not intend to give them his political views that night. There would be many opportunities before polling day of doing so.

Mr. Garland said it was a feather in the cap of the Liberal party to have a young man of Mr. Smith's capabilities coming forward in the Liberal interest. (Applause). And he was glad to come out and say a word or two in favour of him. (Applause.) Their enemies had in this contest refrained from dealing with the six years' grand work which in the interest of people the Liberal party had carried out. The Labour party had not touched upon the platform of the Liberal party. They simply indulged in a campaign of calumny and abuse, which was not argument. (Hear, hear.) The Labour party had raised side issues to try to kill the Liberal party, but he was quite prepared to deal with those issues. Mr Garland then passed in review the work of the Government since it had been in power. He also dealt with the question of Industrial Arbitration. He said he knew they were thirsting to hear something about this matter. In 1901 the Industrial Arbitration Act was passed. The Labour party claimed credit for it, and they gave them that credit. The Act made it compulsory that a man must pay certain wages to his employees, and the employer could be fined or imprisoned under that Act by a Judge of the Arbitration Court without a jury. And under that same Act it was declared for the first time that the strike was a crime. The Labour party made it so. It was compulsory, another word for coercion. (Uproar.) They did not like it. But the Labour party claimed credit for that Act, and the clauses were there giving power to a Judge to send a man to gaol without a trial by jury. The provisions of that Act were extended to the Industrial Disputes Act, and the Labour party called it coercion. (Applause.) The Compulsory Arbitration Act absolutely broke down, because there was only one Court to deal with the whole of the trades of New South Wales. The Industrial Disputes Act created a Court for every trade, with members of the Court skilled tradesmen. The Labour party in Parliament voted against that measure tooth and nail, fought it all along the line. The Trades and Labour Council urged unions not to join. A few unions, however, broke away and registered. They saw the goodness of the Act, and there was a regular stampede of unions to join, much to the disgust of the Trades and Labour Council. Practically the whole of the unions in New South Wales had since registered, the total being 115. Already 110 awards had been made in two years, while it took the old Arbitration Court four years to deal with 37 trades. The wages of the men had been increased by the sum of £459,000 within the last two years, and yet they had the sorry spectacle of the Labour party and the Trades Hall party fighting against such a worthy Act of Parliament. (Applause.) The people would judge of those things at the ballot-box.

Mr. Garland then dealt with the Newcastle strike, in which he warmed up to some interjections, and showed clearly that the Government intended at all times to administer the law without fear or favour. During this portion of his speech he was interrupted a good deal by a section of the audience, whom he said did not like home-going truths, while the main body of the audience cheered.

MR. HOLMAN AT BONDI.

MR. DUNCAN'S CANDIDATURE.

Mr. W. A. Holman addressed a large audience at Bondi last night in support of Mr. Duncan's candidature. The deputy Labour leader confined his remarks almost exclusively to a criticism of Mr. Wade and the Government. He introduced his speech by a reference to the hold Labour was taking on what were at one time regarded as the invincible citadels of conservatism, as Waverley, for example. To-day the movement had taken such hold that victory was promised in the near future. (Applause.) He would confine himself to one or two reasons why reasonable Australians, who lived in Sydney, should vote against the present Ministry. The Premier had recently been energetically defining his policy with an immense amount of repetition of fairly familiar ideas. His defence was, "We have been an honest Government." While personally he was not prepared to admit the truth of that defence, Mr. Holman said that even if that were so it was the irreducible minimum that they had the right to demand from any Government. If, say, a cricketer who is selected to represent his State, makes a few ducks, he is turned down. He must justify his selection by making runs. (Applause.) Mr. Holman, referring to strike matters, said that the first duty of a Government is to protect the lives of the people. Peter Bowling was no friend of his. They had expressed their opinions of one another, and he hoped that they would do so again. Anyhow, Bowling could not now defend himself, and he (Mr. Holman) did not wish to say any more about him, further than to say that the Wade Government determined to arrest him. Why was not Bowling arrested in Sydney when he was about the city during a Friday morning? Instead, about 150 policemen travelled in the same train with Bowling, with a warrant for his arrest. (A voice: They should have sent a Dreadnought.) In the crowd that assembled to meet Bowling at Newcastle was the element of one of the biggest riots that New South Wales had ever seen. Men were in that inflammatory state that it only required a spark to cause an explosion; and had it not been for the coolness of some of the strike leaders there would have been blood shed that Saturday night, and for which the Wade Government would have been entirely responsible. Could any supporter of the Government justify the conduct of the Government on that occasion? Mr. Holman, referring to the trial of the leaders, said that the question raised in the House as to whether steps had been taken to obtain the feelings of the men who were to be empanelled as a jury was one the Premier had refused to explain. Mr. Wade was given an opportunity to reply to specific questions. Nothing was easier than to say that the allegations were lies, but instead he answered these questions with evasion. Mr. Meagher's motion to have the matters discussed failed owing to the tactics of the Government, and by the direct instrumentality of the member for Mudgee. ("Shame.") It had been either wrongly stated by Mr. Burgess, or perhaps, owing to a mis-report, that the Crown Prosecutor had a list in the court with him. However, it occurred, Mr. Wade for the first time said it was a diabolical lie. He (Mr. Holman) quite accepted the contradiction, but the contradiction of that one point brought the other and greater charges into lurid relief. (Applause.) After referring to the "rich baker" incident, the deputy Labour leader said that the South Australian Premier's conduct in regard to the strike was in favourable contrast to Mr. Wade's attitude with the recent trouble here. It required little courage for a man to talk back to a few hundreds, but it was another thing to speak to the mighty millionaires and the capitalists. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Holman also charged the Premier with starving departments in order to show a surplus.

MIDDLE HARBOUR.

The Labour candidate for Middle Harbour, Mr. S. O'Brien, is making strenuous efforts to capture the seat for Labour. During the past fortnight he has addressed several meetings in various parts of the electorate, including Manly, Mosman, North Sydney, Narrabeen, Brookvale, Monavale, and Newport. A committee is hard at work canvassing the district, and the assistance of a ladies' committee has been secured.

Dr. Arthur, M.L.A., the selected Liberal candidate, will open his campaign in the Empire Hall, Brookvale, to-night.

BELUBULA.

Mr. T. Waddell, Treasurer, has returned to Canowindra, after visiting Eugowra, Murga, Toogoong, Cudal, and Cargo. In each place he had a splendid reception. Addressing about the largest meeting ever held at Cargo, he said the Government had fulfilled all promises made at the last election, and no question of pressing importance had been left unattended to.

BINGARA.

Mr. Edden addressed a large open-air meeting at Tingha in the Labour interest on Saturday night. He dealt chiefly with the connection between trades-unionism and current politics, and referred in caustic terms to the action of the Wade Government in connection with the coal strike and the Coercion Act. Mr. McDonald, selected Labour candidate for Bingara, arrived during the meeting, and addressed the audience principally on the land administration of the State Government, the Barren Jack resumptions, and the efforts at closer settlement. A vote of confidence in Mr. McDonald was carried.

CLARENCE

Mr. J. M'Farlane, Liberal candidate, opened his campaign at Grafton on Friday. The Mayor presided. The candidate dealt extensively with the Land Act, and approved of resumption of private estates for closer settlement in preference to a land tax with £5000 exemption. The latter compelled owners to subdivide and sell, but their terms were not so liberal as those of the Government on resumed estates. And as a consequence, the man of small means had not so good an opportunity of acquiring land. Though resumption had not directly settled a very large number on the land it had indirectly done so, as private owners, recognising that their lands would in time be resumed, anticipated the action of the Government, and subdivided themselves, with the result that large numbers had acquired homes. Mr. M'Farlane adversely criticised the action of the Labour party in regard to their hostility to useful legislation, and reviewed that party's attitude to the passing of land Acts and industrial measures. Mr. M'Farlane was accorded a vote of confidence at the conclusion of his address.

GOUGH.

INVERELL, Monday.

Mr. Thomas, M.L.A., Liberal, opened his campaign at Gilgai on Tuesday to a large attendance. He received a splendid hearing. On Thursday night he spoke at Elsmore, and was well received. On Friday night he addressed a large meeting at Stannifer. He had a cordial reception and attentive hearing.

UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY.

MATRICULATION REGULATIONS.

The monthly meeting of the senate of the University was held yesterday. The Chancellor (Sir Normand MacLaurin) presiding. A letter was received from Mr. G. E. Rich, M.A., resigning his office of Lecturer in Equity, Probate, Bankruptcy, and Company Law from the 31st of December next, in consequence of the pressure of other duties. It was resolved that the resignation be accepted, and that a letter of thanks be transmitted to Mr. Rich for his services.

A letter was received from Dr. Alfred Burne, resigning his lectureship in Mechanical Dentistry. It was resolved that the resignation be accepted, and that a letter of thanks be sent to Dr. Burne for his services. Mr. Frank Marshall, B.D.S. (Syd.), D.D.S., was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.) was conferred upon Mr. Leonard Burton Dibbs.

It was resolved: (a) That Mr. D. G. Ferguson, B.A., be re-appointed to the Lectureship in the Law of Procedure, Pleading, and Evidence for a period of three years; (b) that Mr. E. M. Mitchell, B.A., LL.B., be reappointed to the Lectureship in the Law of Status, Civil Obligations, and Crimes for a period of three years; (c) that it be referred to the Faculty of Law to make recommendations as to the other lectureships becoming vacant; (d) that Assistant-Professor Barraclough, B.E., M.M.E., be reappointed to the Lectureship in Mechanical Engineering; (e) that Mr. W. G. Armstrong, B.A., M.B., Ch.M., be reappointed to the Lectureship in Public Health.

Reports were received from the Faculties of Arts, Law, Medicine, and Science, recommending respectively modern literature, law, physiology, and engineering as subjects the professors of which should be members of the senate for a period of two years. A bylaw was made accordingly, and ordered to be transmitted for the approval of the Governor.

Suggested bylaws in reference to the diploma in education were referred to the Faculty of Arts for consideration.

A report was received from the Professorial Board recommending certain alterations in the matriculation examination. The report was adopted after amendment, and the following bylaws and regulations were adopted, the amended bylaws to be optional for the examination in March, 1911, and compulsory for the examination in March, 1912; the new regulations to come into force in March, 1911.

MATRICULATION EXAMINATION. AMENDED BYLAWS.

5. All candidates for matriculation shall be required to pass an examination in the following subjects:—(1) English; (2) mathematics; (3) Latin, Greek, French, or German; (4) one or more of the following, in accordance with the regulations prescribed hereinafter for admission to the several faculties or departments: (a) One or more of the foregoing languages not already taken; (b) mechanics; (c) history, (i.) English history (ii.) modern history; (d) one of the following science subjects—(a) Botany, (b) chemistry (inorganic), (c) geology, (d) physics, Part I., (e) physiology, and (f) zoology.

In all subjects, except science and mechanics, there shall be a higher and a lower standard. A pass at the lower standard shall be deemed sufficient except in the cases where the provisions for admission to the several faculties or departments, as described in section 6, expressly state that the higher standard is required. The lower standard in each subject corresponds to the pass standard of the junior public examination, and the higher standard to that of the senior public examination. In history, English history is held to be the lower standard subject, and modern history the higher standard subject. The examinations in mechanics and the science subjects are at the higher standard only.

Candidates must pass in all the subjects of the examination at one and the same examination.

Provided (a) that a candidate who has passed the junior public examination or the senior public examination will be permitted to complete his qualification at the matriculation examination in November or March, on the condition that he passes in all the prescribed subjects at not more than two examinations. (b) That any person who has passed both the junior public examination and the senior public examination, and who presents one junior certificate and one senior certificate showing that he has passed in the whole of the subjects prescribed for matriculation at the required standards in any faculty or department may be admitted to matriculation in that faculty or department without further examination.

Any person who has passed the senior public examination at one and the same examination in all the subjects prescribed for matriculation in any faculty or department may be admitted to matriculation in that faculty or department without further examination.

But any candidate who has obtained honours in one or more subjects of the November matriculation examination, without passing the senior public examination, shall be permitted to complete his qualification at the matriculation examination in March.

6. Candidates for matriculation in one of the several faculties or departments, besides passing at either the lower or higher standard in the other compulsory subject or subjects, must pass at the higher standard in the following subjects, according to the faculty or department to which they seek admission. (a) Faculty of arts—Latin and one other subject. (b) Faculty of law—Latin and two other subjects. Candidates must pass in Greek or French or German at the higher or lower standard. (c) Faculty of medicine and the department of dentistry—Three subjects, one of which must be Latin, Greek, French, or German. If Latin be not selected at the higher standard, it must be taken at the lower standard. Candidates must pass in Greek or French or German at the higher or the lower standard. (d) Faculty of science and the department of agriculture—Three subjects, one of which must be Latin, Greek, French, or German. (e) Department of engineering—Mathematics, mechanics, and one of the following languages:—Latin, Greek, French, or German. They shall also be required to pass in a general paper in English, comprising questions in English and geography. (f) Department of veterinary science—Two subjects, one of which must be Latin, Greek, French, or German.

NEW REGULATIONS.

An examination for matriculation is held in the beginning of Lent term (March), in accordance with the bylaws.

No candidate will be admitted to this examination unless he make a declaration that, if successful in passing, he intends to pursue his studies in one of the faculties or departments.

There shall be an examination at the higher standard in the month of November, concurrently with the senior public examination;

THE PREMIER ON TOUR.

VISIT TO NARRANDERA.

THE CITIZENS' WELCOME.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

NARRANDERA, Monday.

The Premier (Mr. Wade) opened his southern campaign at Narrandera to-day. On the arrival of the train he was met by the Mayor (Mr. J. H. Elwin), members of the municipal council, Sir Samuel M'Caughey, and citizens. The Mayor extended a hearty welcome to the visitor, and said they regarded it as an honour to receive an official visit from the Premier.

The Premier thanked the Mayor and citizens for their kindly and warm welcome. Being on a political mission he hardly expected an official welcome, and he appreciated it the more. The pressure of work was very severe, but he had been able to travel through the northern districts, and was now glad of the opportunity to visit the south. He was glad of the opportunity to see the enormous progress of their district, and to do what he could to advance the interests of all parts of the State. It was many years since he last visited Narrandera, and on his journey from Junee he could not but be struck with the remarkable change in the face of the country. The increased area of agricultural land could not be expressed in terms in its effect on the prosperity of the State. Each fresh bag of wheat sent to market meant increased employment, and added to the wealth of the State. He hoped that they would be able soon to traverse agricultural land westward beyond Narrandera. The country's progress was bound up with that of agriculture, and the development he had seen was the best augury for the future. He was sure Narrandera was anxious to hear both sides of the political position. As for himself and his party they were satisfied to leave the verdict in the hands of the people.

There was a large gathering of citizens at the Royal Mail Hotel, when a public luncheon was tendered to the Premier. The Premier had on his left Sir Samuel M'Caughey. It was an enthusiastic gathering.

Dr. Broinowski, president of the Narrandera Liberal League, in proposing "Our Guest," said he was a firm believer in the administration of Mr. Wade and the principles advocated by his party.

On rising to respond, Mr. Wade was enthusiastically greeted. He said that political differences were far more accentuated at the seat of the Government than in the country, and misrepresentations and misunderstandings far more prevalent. It was a matter of deep regret to one who bore the responsibilities of governing the country, when one's best endeavours were distorted into unrecognisable shapes. It led many men to eschew their responsibilities. People in the country were far more willing to take a just view of administrative actions. It was gratifying to realise that the great mass of people were prepared to sink any personal feelings, and show their respect and thanks to all those public men who sacrificed private interest for the good of the public. He congratulated the great mass of country people that they were prepared to take a broad and generous view on all political questions. He desired to help in the process of educating politically the public at large. He would confine himself to broad issues. Public men must maintain a high standard of public life. (Cheers.)

The Premier then proposed the toast of the "Town and District." There were, he said, many hindrances to carrying out the closer settlement policy in the Narrandera district. He hoped to be instrumental in removing them. They had a favourable climate, soil, and rainfall, and there was no reason why the south-western country should not take a leading part in the contest for agricultural production. A certain amount of assistance must be given by Parliament. Internal development was now to be recognised as the primary watchword of future Governments. His Government had endeavoured to accomplish that ideal. (Applause.)

Messrs. E. C. Matthews, H. D. Adams, J. J. Quirk, and G. V. Oldham responded.

PUBLIC ADDRESS.

LAND POLICY EXPLAINED.

The Premier to-night addressed a crowded audience in the public hall. The Mayor (Alderman J. H. Elwin) presided, and in addition to the Premier there were on the platform Mr. J. G. Fletcher, Liberal candidate for Murrumbidgee, Dr. Broinowski, president of the Narrandera Liberal League, and other prominent citizens. Mr. Wade said he would confine his remarks to the broad basis of politics, and avoid all personalities. Their eyes should not be blinded by innuendoes and cross issues which some members were inclined to indulge in. Referring to the land question, he said facilities should be given to those on the land to get their produce to the markets. For many years the chief centre of thought had been the metropolis, to the exclusion of the requirements of the interior of the State. It was an anomaly that with a population in the State of over one and a half million six hundred thousand persons were congregated in Sydney and suburbs. Every inducement was held out for people to go to the city, and insufficient inducements for people to go on the land. Young men had been asking how they could go on the land. His was the first Government to make a substantial move in the direction of answering that question. They had been brought face to face with two problems. There was no encouragement for the development of country areas, and they found large areas used for pastoral purposes hemming in country towns. No machinery was provided to satisfy this land hunger until the Liberal Government took office. Previously there had not been a single resumption by compulsion of private property. Their claim to-day was that the Liberal party had prevented the aggregating of large estates to the exclusion of careful settlers, and the Government took the first definite steps to place on the market land resumed for public purposes. His Government had been able to deal with 24 estates, totalling something more than half a million acres, and 1500 new settlers. (Applause.) He contrasted this record with that of the previous Administration, which was greatly in favour of the present Government. The days of large estates were coming to an end. Small holdings were increasing in numbers. It was impossible for any Government to change the whole course of the land history in a few years, but they were moving on progressive lines. Their policy had been instituted before the advent and independent of the Federal Labour party.

CASUALTIES.

BURIED BY FALLING BRICKS.

Wm. Priestly, 58, a labourer, living in South-street, Granville, had a miraculous escape from serious injury while working at the new Adelphi Theatre, on the site of the old markets, yesterday afternoon. He was working near a stack of bricks some 10ft or 12ft in height, when they suddenly collapsed, completely burying him. He was extricated by a number of workmen, who were greatly surprised to find the man alive. The Civil Ambulance conveyed him to the Sydney Hospital, where he was treated for abrasions about the body and shock.

CAUGHT IN MACHINERY.

YOUTH BADLY INJURED.

Cecil Melene, 15, residing with his parents at 292 Harris-street, Pyrmont, met with a shocking accident while working at Parsons Brothers' mills, Kent-street, yesterday morning. He was engaged in feeding a macaroni machine, when by some means his left arm was drawn into the cogs, and before the machinery could be stopped it was severely crushed. The Civil Ambulance were summoned, and conveyed the injured youth to the Sydney Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Beattie for shock and severe laceration to the arm. Both bones of the forearm were fractured, and it is believed that the injured member will have to be amputated.

POISONED BY CARBOLIC.

ALBURY, Monday.

A magisterial inquiry was held to-day regarding the death of Margaret Dugard, aged 70 years. Deceased was found early on Sunday morning in a state of collapse, and the evidence showed that she had taken carbolic poison. The Coroner recorded a finding that death was due to carbolic poison, self-administered, but there was no evidence to show whether the poison was taken accidentally or otherwise. Deceased was of eccentric habits.

FATAL BURNING ACCIDENT.

TINGAH, Monday.

Dulcie Darby, aged 4, was playing round a fire in the open, when her clothes caught fire, on Saturday morning, and she was fatally burnt, dying in the hospital the same evening.

A CUT THROAT.

MILLTHORPE, Monday.

At Springdale an old man about 60 years of age was found with his throat cut. For several years past he has been in a bad state mentally. When medical aid was brought it was found that the windpipe had been severed. He now lies in a critical condition.

THE RADIUM MATINEE.

AN AUSTRALIAN STAGE RECORD.

"A charitable wish, and full of love," was Miss Nellie Stewart's ambition to raise a thousand pounds for the Sydney Hospital Radium Fund, and, recognising this, her many friends and admirers joyfully assisted her to realise it. Indeed, her matinee performance of "Sweet Nell of Old Drury" at the Theatre Royal, the scene of so many of her triumphs in years past, eclipsed all others ever given in this city, so that the ultimate financial result of her venture was the magnificent sum of £1400. This is easily the largest amount yet raised for any charity in connection with a theatrical performance in the history of the Australian stage.

Both in the crowded auditorium and in the hardly less occupied vestibules and other precincts of the house, a singularly cordial and united feeling prevailed at this matinee, as if at some acknowledged festival. In this respect the function resembled a great social gathering, with Miss Stewart as hostess, and, indeed, she so crowned her brilliant career with yesterday's charitable achievement that all who were present seemed linked in friendship to her, and to the end she had in view. All the artists, business staff, stage hands, and orchestra were most heartily with their chief, and when the curtain fell upon the romance of Nell Gwynn, the gracious figure of the other Nell stood out against the crimson velvet, and it became evident that the overwhelming applause of the moment was to result in a speech. Miss Stewart faltered forth:—"Your noble generosity has made me so happy. My heart is too full for words. But listen! The receipts in the house have reached £800. (Loud cheers.) There will be more! (Loud cheers.) I shall tell all the receipts to-night. (Loud cheers.) I can't say all I feel, but 'Thank you.' (Cheers.) I shan't be above a minute."

The last little confidential "aside" was explained immediately, when the curtain rose again, and Miss Stewart was seen playing the familiar role of Fairy Queen. A wave of her invisible wand, and magic hands dissolved King Charles's palace at Whitehall into thin air, revealing a throng of waitresses, society girls, and artists, and in less than no time threescore little tables, bearing white cloths and light refreshments, were set out, and chairs were unfolded in readiness for the throng. The whole depth of the great stage was thus occupied, and a flood of golden light was then thrown upon the scene, which was filled by several hundred people from stalls and dress circle. Mr. Bertie Wright, of "Orchid" fame, then came forward as auctioneer, with Mr. Fred. Young as his assistant, and Mr. George Musgrove and Mr. Claude M'Kay (the latter an energetic hon. secretary of the movement, on behalf of J. C. Williamson, Ltd., who lent the theatre), to forward on a collection of articles of every kind. Mr. Wright started with a white embroidered cushion, for which only 5s was bid, and by encouraging yells and helpful "gags" adroitly worked up the interest to £1 before knocking it down. Much interest was taken in an elaborately dressed "Sweet Nell" doll, which fetched £15 15s, and a long list of contributions, from cigars to a fox terrier with a pedigree yclept "Radium," were disposed of. The excitement of the biddings was varied by an excellent concert, in which the Theatre Royal orchestra, under Mr. George Leopold, Mme. Slapoffski, Miss Leah Myers, Messrs. Andrew Black, Maurice Chenoweth, and Lawrence Godfrey Smith generously assisted, with Mr. Christian Hellemann as principal honorary accompanist. A number of artists, some in the costume they wore in Paul Kester's play, sold flowers and trifles in the house, and helped to serve tea on the stage. Misses Florence Young, Florence Vie and Nellie Wilson (Royal Comic Opera Company) were especially successful, and Mr Claude Bantock sold 400 tickets at 2s 6d each for the Doll raffle—395 of them quite easily, and with a visage wreathed in smiles, and the last five only after a most doleful quest which kept him tearfully active for nearly an hour! Miss Stewart herself, and her youthful daughter, also sold indefatigably, more especially in the gallery before the curtain rose, when the actress dispensed oranges at a price—not real ones, but made to resemble the mythological golden apples of Juno guarded by the Hesperides nymphs!

Miss Stewart, who had been hard at work since early in the forenoon, kept on signing autograph books and the like until it was time to appear as "Sweet Nell" at the evening performance, when her vivacity was still unabated. The house was again packed, and at the end of the evening she made another little speech, explaining how the idea of raising a possible four or five hundred for the Radium Fund occurred to her three or four weeks ago, but instead of that, by the help of many generous supporters, she was going to hand over a cheque for £1400 1s. (Wild applause, followed by "Three cheers for Miss Stewart," the whole audience rising, and ladies waving handkerchiefs.) When the tumult had subsided the actress remarked confidentially, "Isn't it lovely to think we've done it?" and the people cheered again. Miss Stewart then drew lots for the doll, and No. 97 won it.

Miss Stewart, who already has a cot of her own in the Sydney Children's Hospital, and one in the Melbourne Children's Hospital, towards which she paid £500, being an endowment for five years, has now had these honours increased by the following letter:—

Sydney Hospital, N.S.W.,
Sydney, Sept. 5, 1910.

Dear Madam,—I have very much pleasure in informing you that at a meeting of the Sydney Hospital held this morning it was unanimously decided to recommend to the Board of Directors that you be appointed a life governor of the hospital as some slight recognition of the great services that you have rendered to the institution in connection with the Radium Fund.

It was further decided to recommend that in order to perpetuate your name in the annals of the hospital a cot in the children's ward be named for all time "The Nellie Stewart Cot."

My house committee trusts that the above recommendation will be accepted by you, but feel at the same time that it is a matter of great difficulty to make any recognition of your splendid services to the hospital, which will be both permanent and adequate.

I am, dear madam, yours sincerely,
CHAS. H. HELSHAM, Secretary.

QUEENSLAND RAINFALLS.

The following rainfalls were registered in Queensland for the 48 hours ended 9 a.m. yesterday:—Northern Division: Geraldton, 55 points; Herberton, 28; Port Douglas, 21; Atherton, 23; Cairns, 10.

BLAYNEY.—After a long dry spell, during which the country went back owing to severe frosts, nice rain fell on Saturday night, about half an inch on the average being recorded in the district.

COOMA.—The weather was foggy on Monday morning, the lowest registration being 27 degrees. Reports of the rainfall from the surrounding district show that Saturday night's rain was heavier than at Cooma, at which place 44 points were recorded.

HARDEN.—Splendid soaking rain fell on Saturday night, which registered 81 points.

LOCKHART.—Very heavy rain fell on Saturday evening, no less than 103 points being recorded. The rain fell at a most opportune time, and when most needed, as the domestic supply had started to get short. It should also prove of great benefit to farmers, and with anything like ordinary late spring rains a most bountiful harvest is assured, and one that promises to eclipse even last year's good record.

LITHGOW.—Ten points of rain were registered here on Sunday. District centres report 20 to 40 points.

PORTLAND.—Splendid rain fell on Saturday night and Sunday morning, nearly half an inch being registered.

NERVES.

NERVE FOOD.

Many people wonder at the enormous sale of FISHER'S PHOSPHERINE. The secret is that it is the most FAMOUS NERVE and BRAIN FOOD in the World, valuable as a cure for neuralgia, headache, nervousness, depression, and muscular rheumatism.

Five drops in a tumbler of water, or in wine or in whisky, make a most healthful, refreshing, and wholesome tonic.

Do not ask merely for PHOSPHERINE; insist upon getting "FISHER'S."—Advt.

Stormcock, s, which was damaged in collision on Saturday, will go into Jubilee Dock to-day.

Aparima, s (Union line), will leave Port Chalmers on 22nd for Newcastle to load coal for Batavia. She will sail thence for Calcutta, being due there the second week in November to load for New Zealand ports, via Singapore and Samarang.

Waitemata, s (Union line), is due at Newcastle at about the end of September to load coal for Singapore. She will return to New Zealand with Indian cargo.

Tambo, s (Burns, Philp, and Co.'s line), completed discharging her cargo of copra into the Buteshire yesterday morning, and proceeded to Mort's slip. She will, after a thorough overhaul, sail for the Gilbert Islands at the end of the week, and continue trading between the islands for a year.

The A.U.S.N. Company's steamer Wyandra, from Melbourne, experienced strong SW wind with heavy rain squalls to the Promontory, thence fine with light winds and calm sea to arrival. She leaves for Cairns, via ports, to-night.

The Kakapo, Union Company's steamer, from Devonport, experienced a NE gale and heavy head sea to Gabo Island, thence light NE to NW winds and moderate swell to port.

The Arawatta experienced moderate winds and seas from Cairns to Flattop Island, thence light variable winds and smooth seas with fine clear weather to arrival.

H.M.S. Powerful, after having spent about a fortnight at Cockatoo Island, was undocked yesterday morning, and towed by four of Fenwick's tugs to moorings in Farm Cove. The big vessel was handled expeditiously and well.

MOVEMENTS OF OVERSEA VESSELS.

Nikko Maru, J.M.S., sails for Japan, via Hongkong, to-morrow, is due to arrive at Hongkong on 26th inst., and Yokohama October 6.

Zieten, G.M.S., from Australia, arrived at Colombo on Friday.

R.M.S. MAKURA FROM VANCOUVER.

The Canadian-Australian R.M.S. Makura, which arrived yesterday morning from Vancouver, via way ports, left Vancouver at 1.30 p.m. on August 12, Victoria at midnight the same day, and arrived at Honolulu at 7.30 a.m. on the 19th. She sailed again at 10 p.m. the same day, arrived at Suva at 6.30 a.m. on the 29th, sailed again at 5.30 p.m. the same day, and arrived at Brisbane 6.30 a.m. on Saturday. She experienced light variable winds and smooth seas to Suva, followed by fresh south-east winds and moderate seas till the 1st inst., thence light southerly winds and fine weather to arrival. The vessel is berthed at Flood's Wharf. The captain reports having "spoken" by wireless the R.M.S. Marama when 1266 miles from Cape Moreton. The wind was then easterly and light, a strong swell being on.

LARGE FLOUR CARGO.

The Royal Dutch packet steamer Van Waerwyck, which left at midnight last night for Batavia, via ports, took 25,600 bags of flour. This is a record cargo of flour. Other cargo shipped included 3100 sleepers, 100 tons timber, and 50 tons paper.

FRENCH MAIL LINERS.

The F.M.S. Nera, which arrived yesterday, will not go on to Noumea, but will leave for Marseilles again on Saturday, taking the through passengers brought on by the Pacifique. The Pacifique will take on the through passengers from Marseilles, leaving for Noumea on Thursday.

R.M.S. CHINA'S FINE PASSAGE.

The P. and O. R.M.S. China, commanded by Captain E. Street, had a fine voyage through the Mediterranean. The passage through the Canal was effected in almost record time. Contrary to adverse rumours heard in Port Said, the Red Sea passage was made without any great heat being felt. From Aden to Colombo two days of moderate monsoon weather was experienced. A fair wind and moderate sea was encountered after leaving Colombo, and a pleasantly cool trip thence to Fremantle was experienced. The Marconi installation was freely made use of this voyage, and from time to time interesting news of the world was being received by its means, and as usual this was posted up in both saloons for passengers' information. The principal officers with Captain Street are:—G. J. Coldwell, chief officer; A. E. Brooke-Webb, second officer; L. Unicume, supt. second officer; W. Meade, surgeon; Peter Low, chief engineer; Bernard Blythman, purser.

MORESBY FROM THE SOLOMONS.

Messrs. Burns, Philp, and Co.'s steamer Moresby, which left Sydney on July 29 for the Solomon Islands, returned yesterday. Plenty of rain had fallen throughout the Solomons. H.M.S. Sealark was in the group surveying portion of the eastern islands. H.M.S. Cambrian was also in Tulagi. During her stay there she was in communication with the H.M.S. Challenger in Brisbane by wireless. Fine weather was experienced on the run over from the Solomons, and also from Brisbane to Sydney. The vessel is now alongside the Federal Wharf. She will go alongside Lever Brothers' wharf to-day, coal in the stream on Wednesday, return to the Federal Wharf on Thursday, and leave there for the Solomons on Friday at noon.

MISHAP TO TUG THISTLE.

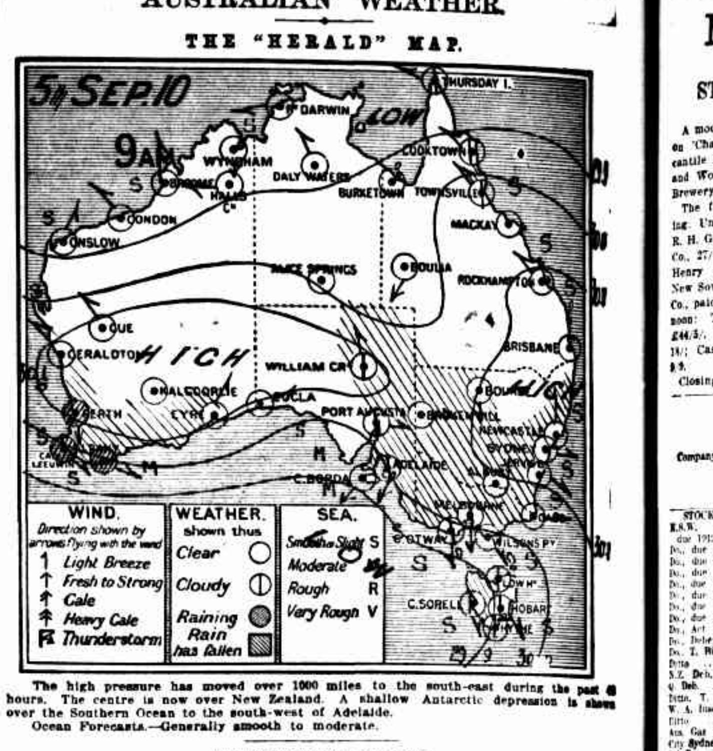
The Government-subsidised tug Thistle, which had a slight accident to her rudder in the Nambucca River a few days ago, was towed into Port Jackson yesterday afternoon by the steamer Our Elsie. The Thistle will probably go into Mort's Dock immediately for repairs.

INVERAN FROM OCEAN ISLAND.

The steamer Inveran, 4880 tons, Captain Glasson, from Ocean Island, called off Sydney Heads for orders yesterday, and proceeded on to Melbourne. She had a smart run of 9 days 13 hours (a record). Fine weather and fair winds prevailed all the way. The following passengers were landed by the steam tender:—Mr. M'Farlane, Mr. H. Thomas, Mr. J. Turgeson, Mr. Lochhard, and Mr. Tried.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The high pressure has moved over 1000 miles to the south-east during the past 48 hours. The centre is now over New Zealand. A shallow Antarctic depression is shown over the Southern Ocean to the south-west of Adelaide.

FINANCIAL.

A.M.P. SOCIETY'S BYLAWS.

The board of the A.M.P. Society has drafted a new set of bylaws, which will in due course be submitted to policyholders. These appear in extenso in our advertising columns. The directors propose to take full powers under their newly consolidated Act. In a few points the bylaws as proposed to be amended vary from those now existing. More extended powers of investment are given in relation to equities of redemption, etc. The society also takes power to take and give reassurances, but without variation of the provision restricting the amount for which it will stand solely responsible, in the case of any single policyholder to £10,000. Should a proponent desire to insure his life for, say, £50,000 in the A.M.P. Society, the society under this bylaw will be able to accept the risk, but must reinsure £40,000 with other offices. Doubtless this will help the English business of the society, where policyholders are often desirous of protecting their estates against probate duties by means of a heavy life policy. As far as this reassurance business is concerned, the society is merely bringing itself into line with the other great offices of the world. The board also proposes to amend the bylaws so as to increase the directors' fees from £1850 to £2600 in the aggregate, or from £250 each, with an additional £100 for the chairman, to £350 each, with the chairman at £500. It is nearly 20 years since the directors' fees were raised, and during the interval the funds of the society have increased by over 15 million sterling, or nearly trebled. The auditors' fees are also to be increased, from £200 to £300 per annum. The proposed amendments will doubtless be agreed to by policyholders without much, if any, opposition.

CUSTOMS EXPENDITURE.

X.Y.Z. writes:—

Sir,—In a recent issue of your paper a return was published showing the respective cost of Customs revenue collection in each State of the Commonwealth. New South Wales was shown to be the lowest in the group, but it may be worth while to point out that if the export trade of Sydney to the islands and the East were considered (although no revenue is received therefrom, yet the supervision of such trade falls upon the department) the result would appear to be still more to the advantage or disadvantage of New South Wales.

BOWRON BROS.' PROSPECTUS WITHDRAWN.

We have received the following statement from the provisional directors of the Bowron Bros. Export and Trading Company, Limited:—

The directors provisionally named in the prospectus of the proposed Bowron Bros. Export and Trading Company as an Australian board having met and fully considered the position, has decided not to proceed with the registration of the company under existing circumstances.

The figures in the prospectus having been questioned as to their accuracy, the Australian board feel that the vendors and promoters are bound to vindicate their statements by some authoritative investigation that cannot be challenged before a company is registered on statements of profits which have been attacked.

In justice, however, to the vendors and promoters—none of whom is a member of the Australian board—it is only fair to state that we are to-day advised that three separate firms of public accountants in New Zealand, viz., A. S. Bliss, professional accountant, Wellington, C. Morton Ollivier, professional accountant, Christchurch, and Robert H. Modlin, chartered accountant, Christchurch, have certified as follows:—"We have compiled the foregoing accounts from the books of Bowron Bros. and Co., Ltd., and hereby certify that the net profits from the business of leather manufacturing, grindery, and fellmongering, excluding income arriving from investments and other sources, are as follows:—Fourteen months to September 30, 1908, £24,848; and for 12 months to September 30, 1909, £24,367. The company during the year ended September 30, 1909, wrote off bad debts amounting to £7739, which we have not charged against the profits, as the debts were incurred prior to August 1, 1907; no reserve fund has been created for bad debts in 1908-9. The sum of £614 is allowed for depreciation, but nothing was allowed for in 1907. No rent has been charged for city office and warehouse. (Signed) A. S. Bliss, professional accountant, Wellington; C. Morton Ollivier, professional accountant, Christchurch; Robert H. Modlin, chartered accountant, Christchurch. Dated September 2."

We believe that these certified figures are even better than those set out in the prospectus.

The Australian directors, however, decline to take upon themselves the responsibility of declaring the company formed, involving directors and shareholders in a controversy that ought to be brought to an issue by the vendors and promoters.

Applicants for shares will be advised in due course.

The Australian board has been well advised to withdraw the prospectus. Promoters generally will now realise the serious responsibility cast upon them when they ask the public to subscribe capital to a venture that may fail to stand the test of criticism.

A REVISED PROSPECTUS.

The following statement has also been supplied by J. Earle Hermann, Limited:—"We are advised, however, by the vendors and promoters of the Bowron Bros. Export and Trading Company, Limited, that a revised prospectus will be issued at an early date, and that the vacancies in the New Zealand board have already been filled by representative Christchurch citizens. Authenticated figures supplied by independent chartered accountants from Christchurch and Wellington are now at hand, which show even larger profits than appeared in the first prospectus. The registration of Bowron Bros. Export and Trading Company will therefore be effected with very little delay. Those who have already applied for shares will receive a copy of the new prospectus, and be given the opportunity of allowing their applications to stand, or obtaining a refund, as they may elect."

S. H. HOFFNUNG AND CO., LTD.

Mr. Abraham Hoffnung used to be a well-known figure in the commercial life of this city. Though he has now been away from Sydney for some time he has not forgotten this part of the world, as is evidenced by his optimistic remarks at the annual meeting of the company that bears his name. He told shareholders of that company, who are doubtless chiefly domiciled in the old country, that "it has been conceded by thinking men that it is to the food-producing colonies, such as Australia, Canada, and presently also to South Africa, that England will look with ever-increasing interest and reliance for the provision of the vital necessaries of life, and that it is in the food-producing colonies that a high state of prosperity will find a permanent home. Consider for a moment the possibilities of Australia—that great island continent, with a territory so vast that it can comfortably accommodate the British Isles in one corner and place nearly the whole of Europe in its centre, and still leave hundreds of thousands of acres of fertile land to spare to form a broad and convenient margin, with a climate extending from the temperate to the torrid zone, capable of producing all those abundant fruits and products of Nature which Providence has lavished upon mankind, waiting only the hand of man, waiting only the inflow of immigration, to which the Governments of the various States of the Commonwealth are now strenuously, if somewhat tardily, turning their attention, in order to increase the productiveness and wealth of the country and to take advantage of its illimitable opportunities. It is true that Australia has had its drawbacks. What country, and especially a new country, has not? They have been, however, chiefly climatic; but now even drought, when it comes, will be shorn of much of its terrors, because, as I have observed, the avenues of prosperity, of employment, and the sources of wealth have been largely multiplied and diversified. More recently also a moderate system of protection has grown up, in which already some £53,000,000 sterling of capital—I give you the figures of Sir George Reid—is invested in land, buildings, and machinery for the purpose of stimulating local industries and manufactures, which gives employment to a substantial percentage of the population, and has raised a wage-earning class who spend their money freely, and give added stimulus to the business of the trading and the commercial classes."

JAMES SPICER AND SONS, LTD.

The above company was registered at Somerset House (London) on July 27, the object being to adopt an agreement with J. Spicer, Sir Albert Spicer, Bart., M.P., E. Spicer, G. Spicer, C. E. Spicer, J. L. Spicer, A. D. Spicer, and D. Spicer, trading as James Spicer and Sons, for the acquisition of the business of wholesale stationers and envelope makers carried on by them in London and elsewhere, together with the freehold and leasehold properties and rights held in connection therewith. The capital of the company is £450,000, in shares of £10 each, of which 30,000 are preference shares. The first directors are James Spicer, Sir Albert Spicer, Bart., M.P., E. Spicer, G. Spicer, J. L. Spicer, H. Spicer, C. E. Spicer, A. D. Spicer, and D. Spicer.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

H. Jones and Co., Sydney, Ltd., has been registered, with a capital of £50,000, in shares of £1 each, to acquire the goodwill and certain assets of H. Jones and Co., Ltd., in connection with the Sydney business.

The Invincible Motor Construction Company, Ltd., has a capital of £9000, in shares of £1 each, and will acquire the business carried on under a similar name by C. F. Boehm and E. J. Dempsey.

The Sydney and Medlow Touring Company, Ltd., has a capital of £7000, in shares of £1 each, and will acquire the motor garage business of W. H. Burgess and Co.

Mason, Heriot, and Co., Ltd., has a capital of £600, and will carry on the business of estate agents at Leura.

The Young Co-operative R. F. Mill Company, Ltd., has increased its capital of £20,000 by the creation of 15,000 new shares of £1 each.

Howard Smith Company, Ltd., are paying an interim dividend of 6d per share for the half-year ended June 30 on the cumulative preference shares, and 1/6 per share on the ordinary shares.

The accounts of the Mellin's Food Company for Australia and New Zealand, Ltd., for the year to April 30, 1910, after providing for the preference dividend, show an available balance of £1474, out of which it is proposed to write £1000 off purchase account, and carry forward £474.

THE MARKETS.

The wheat market was slightly easier yesterday, though there was no change in prices, and the flour market was as dull as it has been for some time. As regards woolpacks, a disturbing element has crept in for the moment. The steamers Umta and Uganda have arrived, with 550 bales each on board, and though the quoted price per pack is still 2/7½, some holders are willing to take a trifle less. Cornsacks were weak, partly owing to falling off in demand, and partly from the fact that there is a third August steamer from Calcutta. The two ordinary boats have between them 12,000 bales of sacks, and the third has on board 6000 bales. Quotations yesterday ranged from 4/9 to 4/10, which is practically under the present Calcutta quotation. Branbags are nominal at 3/3.

There is little change in fencing wires; the market is firm on the basis of £8/15/ per ton for German No. 8, and £9/5/ for No. 10, and indenting is going on freely. Nettings are also moving off with freedom. Ingot tin is firmer, and is quoted at 1/8. There is a good demand for sheepshears and station ironmongery. Oils are generally unchanged; the market is very firm, and linseed oil is quoted at 4/9 for Blundell and Spence's raw and 4/11 boiled, with second brands 1d less. Business is fairly good at these prices, and London cables privately received intimate that prices are likely to be firmly maintained. Castor oil is also very firm at 3/7 for distributing lots. Sales were effected yesterday of 150 cases and 100 half-cases at 3/4½, and of 150 cases Pinetree turps to arrive at 4/6.

The price of peppers has risen in producing countries, and owing to this circumstance local prices are distinctly firmer. Pure white ground pepper is now quoted at /11, and black at /9½. Rice, tapioca, sago, and such goods are unchanged, and the demand for oatmeal is falling off. Seeds generally are quiet. C grade rosin is now very scarce, and business in ton lots is quoted at £15, while ewts in casks are quoted at 18s. There is very little demand at the moment for N grade.

Produce business was animated during the day. Maize rose 1d per bushel, and Tasmanian potatoes 10/ per ton. Oats were firm, as also was chaff. Dairy lines were active, and bacon has increased ½d and in some cases ¾d per lb. Butter and lard and new laid eggs were also firmer.

FROZEN MEAT EXPORTS.

Shipments of frozen meat from Sydney during the week ended September 3 amounted to 33,158 carcases of mutton, 29,389 going to the United Kingdom, 1586 to Canada, 1413 to Philippine Islands, 750 to Hongkong, and 13 to India and Ceylon.

BUTTER IMPORTS.

The importations of butter for the week ended September 3 totalled 382 boxes, 257 coming from Queensland, 100 from Victoria, and 25 from South Australia.

ENGLISH WHEAT TRADE YEAR.

BROOMHALL'S FORECAST.

The English wheat year ended on July 31, and after its close Mr. George Broomhall, statistician to the Liverpool Grain Trade Association, discussed not only the actual returns of the past season, but prospects of the new as well. The market situation, he said, must be regarded as critical, for at the time of writing (early in August), the fate of the harvest was still uncertain. "The inhabitants of the British Isles, and of France, German, Austria (as distinguished from Hungary), Belgium, Holland, Denmark, and Scandinavia are now about to harvest their supply for the coming 12 months, and as their requirements may be safely reckoned as closely approximating 140 million quarters, the importance of the weather during the current month can hardly be over-estimated. During the past season these countries imported 57 million quarters (including 6000 by Austria from Hungary), and in addition raised from their own fields about 83 million quarters. Thus the final word as to the level of prices during the current cereal year, or, at any rate, during the first six months of it, will in all probability be shaped by the character of the weather during the next three or four weeks."

Last autumn he estimated that the total shipments from exporting countries would be 71,700,000 quarters. Actually they amounted to 69,610,000 quarters, as compared with 60,732,000 in the season 1908-9, and 58,600,000 in the wheat year of 1907-8. He then referred at some length to the unexpected increase of shipments from Russia, amounting to fully 20,000,000 quarters, from the shipment of two years ago; but these were balanced by the failure of the crop in Argentina, and a considerable fall in the North American shipments, and went on to deal with the prospects of the coming season.

"It is as yet," he says, "a little too early to make definite predictions of the exportable surpluses of the several growers for the ensuing 12 months, but from present indications they are likely, in several instances, to be considerably less. For example, the United States, as a grower, is supposed to have produced something like 100 million bushels less than last season, and Canada about 50 million bushels less. These deficiencies exceed in the aggregate the total exports of last season, and as the reserves of old wheat are not believed to be particularly heavy, a prediction of nine million quarters for the coming season's surplus of the U.S.A. and Canada would be a liberal one. Russia, it is believed, will produce 20 million quarters less [illegible] last year, but with the aid of liberal reserves should be able to export within [illegible] million quarters of last year. The Balkans are supposed to have reaped a crop larger in excess of last year, and may be expected to export freely, surpassing their previous highest record, which was 9,600,000 quarters in the season 1906-7, and the same in 1905-6, the average of the past seven years having been 6,500,000 quarters. Of India, Australia, and Argentine it is," says Mr. Broomhall, "extremely hazardous to make even a guess, for in two cases the crops are only just sown, and in the other the sowing season is yet three months off. Of her previous crops, reaped last March-April, India must be holding a considerable surplus, and if her next crop meet with no disaster it should be pretty safe to reckon upon an exportable surplus for the 12 months ending next July of somewhere about six million quarters. Argentine may be expected to export anywhere between eight million and 18 million quarters, and Australia between two and six million quarters. During the past season these countries exported 17 million quarters; in 1908-9 22 million quarters; in 1907-8, 20,500,000 quarters; in 1906-7, 21 million quarters, and in 1905-6, 20,000,000 quarters. If the predictions already set down for the U.S.A., Canada, Russia, and the Balkans should prove to be correct, it would follow that India, Argentina, Australia, and the smaller exporters, such as North Africa and Chili, will have to provide 37 million quarters to make up a total of 64 million quarters—which is a very conservative allowance for the import requirements of the current season, saying that France only comes into the market for only a moderate quantity, such as four million quarters."

PRICE OF OIL.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

There is every probability (states the "Wellington Post") that there will be a substantial increase in the price of oil in the near future. An announcement will shortly be made advising that the cost of lubricating oils has been materially affected. The 25 per cent. rise in shipping freights is held responsible for the possible increase. Refined oils are not likely to be affected. The additional freight applies generally to the American-Australasian trade, and is perhaps the result of the all-round upward tendency in the cost of carriage of goods in railways and steamers in the United States.

AUSTRALIAN WINE IN ENGLAND.

The imports of Australian wines for the first six months of the present year (says the "British Australasian") were 384,986 gallons, against 415,883 for the same period in 1909. The home deliveries for the six months which have passed of 1910 were 408,289, while last year the same deliveries were 396,782 gallons. Australian vintage reports have been much studied on this side, and on the whole the return is of an average description. The price given for grapes has advanced, especially in South Australia, where record shipments are promised. The crop is less in yield, but good in quality. If the New South Wales growers only get their wines more to the fore here there will be a larger business for them in future; these wines are "big" and of full flavour. It is not desirable to offer Australian wines in the European market of such saccharine strength as they usually contain, and it will be to their advantage if shippers will bear this point in mind.

From the present season to the end of the year is the best period for our wines to be worked off in the retail. In the holiday resorts all over the United Kingdom Australian wines are popular, and on up to the Christmas season they are usually moving well in the regular trade.

BREADSTUFFS.

MARKET SLIGHTLY EASIER.

Wheat was rather quieter; shippers were nominally offering 3/11½ for parcels, but would give up to 4/ for good parcels, while small lots were about 3/10½. There was not much available at these prices, although there was plenty offering at 4/1, more especially from those areas which were blessed with the rain last week. No buyers were, however, prepared to pay this price. A good deal of wheat changed hands last week, and this explains the quietness of to-day. Millers were not anxious to buy.

Flour remains quiet at £10 for city, and £9/17/6 for country brands.

N.S.W. WHEAT AND FLOUR EXPORTS.

Exports of wheat for the week ended September 3 of the 1909-10 season were 102,712 bushels, made up as follows:—United Kingdom, 102,680; New Caledonia, 24; and South Sea Islands, 8.

The flour exports for the same period amounted to 14,405 sacks (200lb each), which were distributed as follows:—New Zealand, 141; United Kingdom and Continent, 1790; New Caledonia, 2763; Philippine Islands, 8255; Singapore, Java, etc., 8045; South Sea Islands, 507; and German New Guinea, 11.

WHEAT AND FLOUR IMPORTS.

The imports of wheat and flour into Sydney for the week ended September 3 were nil.

WHEAT TO QUEENSLAND AND TASMANIA.

During July 28,700 bushels of wheat and 9,070 sacks of flour were exported from New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia to Queensland, all but 42 bushels of wheat going from New South Wales, and only 9227 sacks of flour coming from Victoria and South Australia. During the same month 35,750 bushels of our wheat were sent to Tasmania and 2655 from Victoria, this representing the total importation of breadstuffs into that State during the month named.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 2114 tons of wheat and 210 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

TEA.

During yesterday 400 packages of Ceylon and Indian teas were disposed of at prices ranging from /7½ to /12½ per lb. Samples received by the mail were of average quality, but shipments from Calcutta were small owing to the prevailing high prices, which are regarded as "dangerous" by the trade. They are considered too high to return a profit. Mr. Claud J. Gant will offer 105 packages of Ceylon tea to-day at his rooms, Barrack-street, on behalf of Messrs. Claude Healy and Co.

DRIED FRUITS.

Sultanas: Australian, /6¾ to /7, according to grade; imported (Smyrnas), none offering.

Lexias: 4½ to 6¾, according to grade.

Prunes: New South Wales, /7; French, /7½.

Evaporated fruits: Apples, new, bulk, 7; 1lb cartons, /8; peaches, /8½ 2-crown, /9½ 3-crown, /10 4-crown; apricots, box lots, plain /6, crowns /7½ to /10; pears, [illegible]; nectarines, /10½.

Figs: To arrive, 4 8oz boxes, 6/ 12oz boxes; Protobens, in 5lb boxes, /3½ per lb.

GROCERIES.

Tinned fruits: First grades, assorted, 7/ per doz., apricots 6/9, peaches 5/, pears 9, per doz.

Nuts: Brazil, 7/; walnuts, none; Barcelona, /7½.

Salmon: Scroll, talls 10/9 for 1lb tins, flats, 1lb tins 10/9, halves 6/9 to 7/, in distributing lots; Geema, talls 9/, flats 9/6, halves 6/; Monarch, talls 8/3, flats 9/, halves 6/, Pride of Alaska, talls 8/1½; Karluk Horseshoe, 8/3.

Sardines: Tref., halves 6/, qrs. 4/1½ to 4/3; ordinary brands, halves 4/3 to 4/6, qrs. 2/6 to 2/9; smoked sardines, 3/9 to 4/6.

Salt fish: Herrings, 19/, in half-barrels; salmon, /5 per lb; ling, /5; codfish, /5 per lb.

There is not much doing in the tea market, except for tea to arrive. Local quotations now show little profit on Calcutta and Colombo values, and as a consequence nobody is buying largely. Further stocks are arriving by the Hymettus and Itria.

Messrs. W. Carey and Co. submitted at their saleroom yesterday 650 packages Ceylon tea, on account of Messrs. Gibbs, Bright, and Co., and they report having cleared rather more than half the catalogue at fairly steady prices. The remainder was withdrawn, as biddings fell short of the vendor's limits.

Mr. Claud J. Gant, on behalf of Messrs. Claude Healy and Co., will offer 1050 packages of Ceylon teas at auction in his saleroom, Barrack-street, to-day.

Milks: Imported, Nestle's and Milkmaid, 5/4½; Gold Medal, 5/6, in five-case lots; smaller quantities, 5/6 to 5/7½ respectively. Local brands, 4/3¾ to 4/6 five-case lots, 4/4½ to 4/7½ smaller quantities.

Matches: Wax vestas, 3/6 24's, 3/6 12's; safeties, 2/4½ to 2/9; phosphorus, up to 3/7½.

Candles: Imported Goudas, /7½; D.R.J., /7½; local makes, from /4½ to /6½.

Clothes pegs: 5in 4/, 4½in 3/9 to 4/ per box.

Bottle oils: /6, /9, and 1/6 for halves, pints, and quarts.

EASTERN PRODUCE.

Rice: Best Japan, £20 per ton; locally dressed, £18 per ton, in 56lb bags; 10/ more for distributing parcels of each sort; Rangoon, £9 to £9/10/ per ton (in bond).

Sago: £18 to £18/10/ per ton, according to quality.

Split peas: 18/6 in sacks, 18/9 in 56lb bags.

Seeds: Canary, 16/6 per cwt in small lots, and £16/10/ per ton in parcels; hemp, 20/; linseed, whole, 22/ per cwt, crushed 23/6 per cwt for small lots; linseed meal, £23/10/, in small lots; rape, 21/ cwt; mixed bird seed, 18/6 to 19/.

Spices: Cloves, to 1/2 per lb; mace, 2/2 per lb; pimento, /8½ to /9 per lb; caraway seeds, /9 per lb; pure white pepper, /11 per lb, mixed /7½, pure black /9½ per lb, mixed /6. Stick cinnamon, 1/3 per lb. Mixed spice, loose, /9, 1oz packets /10. Nutmegs, case lots, /9½, smaller lots /10 to 1/; nutmeg, case lots /8½, small lots /10 to /11.

Oatmeal: 7lb bags, £19/10/ per ton; flaked, 7lb bags, £21 per ton, 2lb packages 5/ per dozen; rolled oats, 8lb bags £21/10/ to £23 per ton, according to brand; 2lb packets, 5/ per doz.

Whole bleached ginger: /9 for parcels, /10 in small quantities; ground ginger, /9 to /10; preserved, /8½ to /9.

JUTE.

Jute: New standard cornsacks, on spot, 4/9½ to 4/10½, according to parcel; season's forward, 4/9½ to 4/11.

Branbags: 3/3.

WHEAT AFLOAT.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

Shipments of wheat afloat to-day, a week ago, and a year ago compare:—

	A year ago. Quarters.	A week ago. Quarters.	To-day. Quarters.
For the United Kingdom	1,980,000	2,485,000	2,275,000
For the Continent	1,250,000	2,225,000	2,355,000
Total	3,230,000	4,710,000	4,630,000

AMERICAN WHEAT SHIPMENTS.

The wheat and flour shipped from the Atlantic coast of North America during the past week are estimated by "Bradstreet's" at 134,000 quarters, as compared with 58,000 quarters last week, and 332,000 quarters a year ago.

BREADSTUFFS EXPORT TO EUROPE.

The total quantity of wheat and flour exported to Europe during the week from all exporting countries amounted to the equivalent of 1,550,000 quarters of wheat, as compared with 1,655,000 quarters during the preceding week, and 1,300,000 quarters a year ago. Of the total, Argentine contributed 97,000 quarters, Russia 735,000, the Danubian provinces 505,000 quarters, India 49,000, and Australasia 15,000 quarters.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Monday.

The sudden sale of several wheat cargoes off the coast at the end of last week led some merchants to advance their quotations for farmers' lots. Others, however, regarded the improvement as only temporary. Consequently values ranged from 3/10½ to 4/ on trucks Port Adelaide. Farmers showed little disposition to come into a rising market, and business generally was within small compass. Millers are asking £8/15/ per ton f.o.b. for flour, but buyers' ideas are somewhat below this, and little business is passing. Bran and pollard continued in steady demand at millers' quotation—1/ per bushel. The market for Algerian oats was again firmer. Parcels for Western Australia have been sold at 2/ per bushel f.o.b.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Fair business was done in wheat, including over 1500 bags at 4/0½ to 4/3 ex store. Flour was quiet at £9 10/. Bran and pollard sold at £4/5/. Algerian oats were quiet and unchanged. Milling sold up to 2/1, feed 1/10½ to 2/. Maize was firm, with some speculative demand. About 1300 bags prime flat red sold at 2/6, and small lots occasionally 2/6½. Chaff was slightly firmer, owing to light arrivals. Wheaten sold at 55/ to 67/6, oaten 50/ to 57/6. Potatoes were in good demand, with larger arrivals. Redskins sold at £5 to £5/10/; choice Ballarat nominally to £5/15/; Snowflake, £4/12/6 to £4/15/; special, £4/17/6; pinkeye, £4/15/; Excelsior, £4/15/ to £5; Carmen, £5 to £5/10/. Onions were a shade easier in tone, with rather large supplies, and less export inquiry. Good to prime sold at £4/10/ to £4/15/; extra prime occasionally £4/17/6.

Business in tea includes 300 packages Ceylon, up to 1/1, and small sales of fine Indians, principally for export. Tinned salmon was firm, with inquiries from Sydney for new season's Alaska at an advance of /6 per doz. on prices recently declared. Cornsacks were quiet at 4/11. Branbags sold at 3/3½. Woolpacks sold at 2/4½, on spot; and 2/3 to arrive.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

TRADE IN SUSSEX-STREET.

MAIZE RISING. LUCERNE CHEAPER.

CHAFF QUIET. POTATOES FIRM.

The produce markets were in a better state than they have been for many a month. There was a general note of activity prevailing. There were good inquiries for maize, and holders were not anxious to sell. Sellers were asking 2/10, but most of the buyers were prepared to give only 2/9. This caused a hesitation in operating, but on Tuesday the 2/10 was expected to rule. About 500 bags of Victorian grain was landed, but the agents who held these were holding out for better prices. Telegrams from Melbourne stated that 7000 bags of chaff were due from Geelong. Some of the agents anticipated that the qualities of the incoming shipments would improve. Hunter River lucerne was quoted easier. For the choicest lots £2/15/ was the highest price received. The potato shipment from Tasmania was light, aggregating only 2600 bags. On Friday last agents considered that a £8/10/ market would rule for these on Monday, but owing to as many as 30 truckloads of locals arriving at auction the price was uncertain. The largest holders, however, would not sell under this price. Oats were quoted very firm. Hay and straw were quiet.

Onions.—Victorian: Brown Spanish, best £5/10/, good £5, picklers £3 per ton.

BUTTER REDUCED—EGGS FIRMER.

BACON AND LARD INCREASED.

Some of the agents considered it was a little early to reduce the price of butter, but others considered that the supplies showed sufficient signs of increasing to warrant a lower value ruling. They pointed out that this would prevent any accumulation which would necessitate a sudden fall. One merchant, who held this view, reports on the market as follows:—"There has been a noticeable increase in supply of butter during the week, and most houses in the street have a surplus, which will have to find its way to London. As our Sydney market is higher than any of the other States in price, it is impossible for us to compete for outside trade, as Victoria is 108s, and can get the business, consequently our factories will have to take the risk of London market. Our London house cables that butter is firm at 112s to 114s, an advance of 2s over last week's quotations, and the market is brisk at the advanced rates, and we anticipate prices will go much higher." The reduction of 3s, which was decided upon on Saturday, took effect, but it was rather early for it to display any feature. Cheese was in fair request. There were not too many choice brands offering. New-laid eggs were firmer. A big demand existed for cold storage. The supplies on hand were still large. Bacon was quoted higher, both special makes and prime factory sides were raised ½d. Lard was also increased as supplies were on the scarce side.

Cheese.—Prime and large /6 to /6¼, good /5¾, inferior /3 to /5, special /7 to /8 per lb.

Bacon.—Prime factory sides /6¾ to /7½, flitches /6 to /6½, middles /8 to /9, special sides /7½ to /7¾, flitches /7, middles /8½ per lb.

Eggs.—Northern river, /9; South Coast and railway, /9, choice /9½; suburban, new-laid, /9¾ to /10, choice /10½; duck eggs, /9 to /10 per doz.

Foley Bros., Limited, notify that owing to the advance in bacon values this week their price for "Crown" bacon and hams has been advanced as follows:—Sides, /7½ per lb; middles, /8½ per lb; flitches, /6½ per lb; hams, single cloth, /11½ per lb; double cloth, 1/ per lb.

FIREWOOD.

There were only 28 truckloads of firewood offered, and on account of small supply brisk sales resulted.

Current quotations were:—Best boxwood 15/ to 15/6, good 14/6; ironbark and stringy, 11/ to 13/6, best bakers' wood 14/6, good 13/ to 14/ per ton.

APIARY PRODUCTS.

There was a quiet demand existing for honey, and it was chiefly for the medium to poor qualities. Wax was in fair request.

Honey.—Western, choice /3½, occasionally /3¾, good /2 to /3; Northern river, /2 to /2½, rough and candied, from /1½ per lb.

POULTRY.

Agents remarks on this market were: "There is a good demand for prime qualities." Not very many of this kind were coming forward. Values were firmer.

The following prices were realised:—

Old hens, 3/ to 4/6, choice 5/; roosters, extra choice 6/, choice 5/, good 3/ to 4/6; chickens, large 2/6; grillers, 1/ to 2/6; mixed coops, 3/3 to 4/; English ducks, 2/6 to 4/; geese choice 7/, good 5/ to 6/; Muscovy ducks, choice 5/, good 3/ to 4/; drakes, 4/ to 5/; turkey gobblers, heavy 16/ to 18/, medium 12/ to 15/, light 9/ to 11/; turkey hens, 5/ to 8/; guineafowls, 4/ to 4/6; pigeons, 1/3 to 1/6 per pair.

AUCTION SALES.

REDFERN RAILWAY MARKET.

A HEAVY MORNING.

After the small consignments, which have recently left the Redfern yards comparatively bare and empty, the large number of trucks yesterday morning seemed like a flood, due to the thawing influence of Spring. Buyers also were in fairly good attendance, and ruling prices were well maintained, and in some lines improved upon. Chaff was up 5/ a ton, choice selling at 4/9, prime at 3/9 to 4/4, good at 3/6 to 3/8, and medium at 3/. Lucerne chaff showed a recovery of 1/3, prime realising from 3/10 to 4/, good 3/6, medium 3/, and inferior from 2/3 to 2/4. A rise of 3/4 per ton made itself felt in lucerne hay; medium small bales changed hands at 2/7, dumps at from 3/1 to 4/, and prime large bales at 3/7, while from 3/3 to 3/4 was paid for good large bales, and 3/ for medium. Prime dry yellow maize moved off at from 2/9 to 2/9½, and prime chickwheat at from 3/4½ to 3/6. Extra choice Swede turnips brought the high price of 2/9. In potatoes there was a decline of 7/6 per ton. Choice redskins were sold at from 6/9 to 7/1, prime at from 6/ to 6/6, good at 5/6, and medium at 5/, while choice whiteskins were knocked down at 5/7, and good at from 4/6 to 4/10.

Altogether 87 truckloads were offered, and 30 passed, as follows:—Chaff 30, passed 7; lucerne chaff 7, passed 1; lucerne hay 11, passed 2; oaten hay 3, passed 1; wheat 5, passed 2; rye straw 1, passed 1; potatoes 25, passed 14; Swede turnips 2, passed 1.

FRUIT MARKETS.

FAIR BUSINESS.

If anything, business was a shade quieter than the latter part of last week. There were very few alterations. Oranges were a trifle easier, whilst mandarins were quoted at 6/6 to 7/ for the choicest. Apples were steady. Pineapples were selling quietly. Strawberries were moving off fairly well.

Current quotations were:—

Apples.—Tasmanian: S.P.M., extra choice 8/ to 9/, choice 6/ to 7/6, good 5/ to 5/6, small 3/6 to 4/6; F.C., 3/ to 5/; C.E., 3/6 to 4/6; N.Y.P., extra choice 8/ to 9/, choice 6/6 to 7/, good 4/ to 6/; A.P.M., 2/6 to 3/6; other sorts, 3/ to 4/ per bushel-case; jam lots, 2/0½ per bushel-case.

Loquats.—Choice 4/6 to 5/, medium 2/6 to 3/, small 1/6 to 2/ per half-case.

Lemons.—Local: Choice coloured 4/ to 4/6, medium 2/ to 2/6 per gin-case; small and rough unsaleable.

Mandarins.—Emperors, choice 6/6 to 7/, medium 4/ to 5/, small 2/6 to 3/ per gin-case; Thorneys, choice 3/6 to 4/, medium 2/ to 2/6 per half-case; small 1/6 to 2/ per gin-case.

Oranges.—Extra choice 7/, choice 5/ to 6/, medium 2/ to 3/6, small 1/6 to 2/ per gin-case; windfalls, 1/6 to 2/ per gin-case; Navels, choice 10/ to 12/, medium 5/ to 6/, small 3/ to 4/ per gin-case; Seville, 1/6 to 2/. South Australian: Navels, 10/ to 14/ per bushel-case.

STOCK TRUCKINGS.

The following stock trucks have been ordered for the forthcoming sales:—September 8, 487 sheep vans and 157 cattle waggons; and for September 12, 180 sheep vans and 116 cattle waggons.

HOMEBUSH STOCK MARKET.

YESTERDAY'S SALES.

SHEEP.

GENERALLY DULL AT LOW RATES.

Upwards of 19,414 sheep (including lambs) were balloted for sale from 61 consignors, and 18,580 head were penned. The consignments included seven drafts, ranging from 800 to 1511 head, the bulk being in lots of 90 to 500 head. The sheep comprised a large proportion of medium and useful quality merino wethers and ewes in the wool, with occasional lots of early shorn. Ewes were rather strongly in evidence. There was a sprinkling of prime wethers and ewes, but extra prime were scarce. Crossbreds were fairly represented, mainly fair to good quality, with occasional pens of prime, and odd pens of extra prime. There was a full attendance of buyers, but the buying power was still restricted, owing to the continuance of the slaughtermen's strike at Glebe Island abattoirs and the Auburn meatworks. The S.M.P. Company, Ltd., is advertising for men, and there has been some response on the part of a number of men. Meanwhile the only work proceeding at the works is on account of Glebe Island. Under the circumstances, the supply forward yesterday was ample for trade requirements; the Riverstone Meat Company operated cautiously, and the market generally ruled dull at last Thursday's lowest levels for the better quality wethers, and still lower for ewes and plain wethers, ewes being particularly hard to quit. Towards the close of the sales the tone was less in buyers' favour. Quotations: Prime merino w 17/ to 19/, a few to 20/6, good merino w and h 13/ to 15/, medium merino w and h 9/ to 11/; prime merino e 12/ to 15/, extra prime merino e 16/ to 16/7, good merino e 10/6 to 12/, medium merino e 8/ to 9/6; prime xb w 17/ to 18/6, extra prime 19/ to 20/, a few to 22/, good xb w and h 13/6 to 15/, medium xb w and h 10/ to 11/6; prime xb e 15/ to 16/6, a few to 18/3, good xb e and h 12/6 to 14/, medium xb e and h 9/6 to 11/; shorn merino w 8/6, shorn merino e 6/ to 8/6. LAMBS.

A very fair supply of lambs proportionately to the sheep was penned. All descriptions were forward, both crossbred and merino, mainly good useful quality with a sprinkling of prime. Suckers were not so well represented as on Thursday last, when they were quite a drug in the market. Competition was dull, and values were irregular. At times values showed little, if any, improvement on last Thursday's reduced rates, while at others they were materially better. Prime woolly lambs and hoggets 12/ to 13/6; prime short wool lambs and suckers 10/ to 12/, good lambs and suckers 7/6 to 9/, medium and light 5/ to 6/6.

CATTLE.

Out of 1368 cattle listed for sale from 46 consignors 1345 head were yarded. The consignments, with the exception of one draught of 90 head from Queensland, came from within this State—mainly from the northern and north-western districts, with occasional lots from the west and south. The yardings contained a very fair representation of prime medium weight bullocks and a good proportion of prime handy-weight bullocks and steers. Cows were well in evidence, ranging from odd yards of very medium and light to a sprinkling of prime. Useful quality formed the bulk of the yarding. Included were occasional yards of calves, yearlings, and nondescript sorts. There was a large attendance of buyers, and as the supply seemed within the demand the market opened to brisk bidding at firmer values for the better qualities. Light and useful quality sold strongly throughout; the heavier bullocks, however, only about held their own. Quotations:—Yards of prime medium weight bullocks £9/12/ to £10/5/, yards of prime heavy bullocks £10/15/ to £11/10/; yards of prime light bullocks and steers £8/10/ to £9/5/, yards of good bullocks and steers £6/15/ to £7/15/, yards of medium bullocks and steers £4/10/ to £6, yards of prime cows £6/5/ to £7, yards of extra prime cows and heifers £7/5/ to £7/10/, yards of good cows £4/5/ to £5/10/, yards of medium and light £2/10/ to £3/10/. Best light beef 25/ to 26/, and useful beef 22/ to 23/ per 100lb.

MEAT TRADE TROUBLE.

PROBABLE EXTENSION.

The trouble among the slaughtermen threatens to spread to members of others unions closely allied with the trade. During the last few weeks the output from the abattoirs at Glebe Island and the Sydney Meat-preserving Company's Works at Auburn has been steadily increasing. This increase is no doubt due to the fact that those who continued killing during the trouble have become proficient. This, added to the fact that all vacancies in country killing establishments have been filled, has caused uneasiness among the members of the Amalgamated Slaughtermen's Union, who, so far, have been unable to obtain employment outside the city.

Yesterday morning a large number of the men were present at the Trades Hall, but maintained silence when questioned as to what new development was in the air. It was subsequently ascertained that the Amalgamated Slaughtermen's Union had invited members of the Butchers Carters, and Basil Workers' Union to make common cause with the slaughtermen, and refuse to handle any of the carcases or skins on which non-union labour had been employed. The union officials admitted that such action had been taken, but stated that sufficient time had not yet elapsed for the other unions to have considered the matter.

THE SALE OF CHURCH LANDS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As an ex-churchwarden of St. Matthew's Church, Manly, and an old resident, I followed with very considerable interest the correspondence in your columns re the proposed sale of the church lands fronting the Corso. It is to the appropriation of the proceeds of the sale of such lands that I most emphatically record my objection. The proposal is to expend the whole £25,000, less expenses, on St. Matthew's Church and school and rectory in East Manly, leaving not one shilling for the extension of church work in West Manly. And yet I am credibly informed by a very old resident that when he first went to Manly in 1864 East Manly had no existence; it was nothing but a wild bush, with scarcely six houses on the estate, which was the property of the family of the late W. C. Wentworth; and 11 years afterwards the Rev. R. S. Willis, our old rector, mentioned when he entered upon the charge of Manly in 1875: "There were only nine houses to the east of the Corso, and," added the reverend gentleman, "I am told, in 1864, when the trustees of the Basset-Darley estate donated the land for the benefit of 'the Church of England residents in Manly,' there were fewer still, all the population of that day being located on the west of the Corso. Now, is it common sense to imagine that the donor of that land should have donated it to the kangaroos or wallabies, which were practically the only living inhabitants then, and not to the living men and women settled on the west side of the Corso? It is absurd; and yet this is precisely what the framers of the ordinance now before the synod for the sale of those lands would have us to believe when they coolly suggest that the total proceeds of lands formerly donated, primarily, to the Church of England residents in West Manly should be wholly absorbed now by East Manly. £25,000, forsooth! A goodly sum to be spent principally on brick and mortar, instead of carrying out the original intention of the pious donor, and applying it to the extension of Christ's kingdom and the good of His Church. The hearty unanimity with which the petition now going round Manly to secure for West Manly a reasonable share of the proceeds of the sale of those lands, originally granted primarily to them, is sufficient to show that a great, an overwhelming, majority of the principal church men and women in Manly are against such an injustice as this.

I am, etc.,

JNO. H. KING.

LONGEVITY OF GOLFERS.

Although golf is a game for the young as far as championship honours are concerned, those of more mature years derive plenty of enjoyment from a round of the links. One of the oldest of Sydney golfers, Mr. W. J. Binnie, is a member of the Killara Club, and on Saturday celebrated his 72nd birthday by playing a remarkably good game of golf.

LITHGOW.

The first qualifying round for the golf club championship was played on the local links on Saturday, and resulted as follows:—T. W. Cohen 85, J. Colley 86, W. G. N. Turner 89, Dr. Gibbes 91, R. A. Bracey 100, C. H. Lefevre 103, A. R. Lloyd 104, W. D. Kirkland 104, W. J. Liggins 104, Rev. J. O. Dick 105, Major Bracey 109.

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION.

METROPOLITAN RUGBY UNION CLUBS.

As the competition now stands Newtown are leading by two points from South Sydney. However, the postponed Newtown v Glebe match has yet to be played before any fixed idea of the club's position can be gained. Should Glebe defeat Newtown the points will then be Newtown 25, South Sydney 21, Glebe 20, University 18.

Newtown are still in a strong position as regards the premiership, the draw with South Sydney being the first match that has not been won by them this season. Their backs suffered from lack of opportunity for attack in the game, so seldom did the ball come out from the scrums. Although well ahead on competition points, they have some very hard nuts to crack in University and Glebe. The forwards are a very solid lot in the line-out and ruck, and one or two possess great pace in the loose. The attacking power of the backs would be improved by Dunbar, full-back, playing centre three-quarter, as he is to a great extent wasted here. Booth would make an excellent full-back. Last time they met Newtown defeated South Sydney by 16 to 6.

South Sydney is one of the grittiest teams in the competition. They were hard pressed in the latter part of the game against Newtown on Saturday, but defended desperately, and on one occasion, just at the finish, a perfect tackle prevented an apparently certain try. Collier and Dymant are two first-class wing three-quarters, and it was unfortunate for the team that Dymant had to go full-back. This was made necessary owing to Brown being an absentee and the substitute being rather at sea. The forwards showed wonderful dash throughout, and were severely handicapped by the weight against them in the scrums. They stuck to it, though, and looked very tired at the finish of the game.

Glebe is on the up grade again as far as form is concerned, and, notwithstanding the number of players who have left them during the year, are a very strong combination. They wore 'Varsity down on Saturday after being behind for half the game, and then scored three tries in quick succession. On their showing of the last two Saturdays they should defeat both Newtown and South Sydney, and appear to be the strongest team in the competition at present. They are to meet South Sydney on Saturday next, and the scores ought to be a good deal different to the last time they met, when South Sydney won by 24 to 13.

University tried an experiment in playing Waddell on Saturday. He played with the New South Wales team against New Zealand in 1907, but has not appeared of late, and was out of form. The team shaped disappointingly after half-time, although it must be said that their victors were playing at their best. Still, 'Varsity appear to be rather off their usual form, which may be accounted for by the great amount of football the team has been called upon to play this winter. Earlier in the season they defeated Glebe by 18 to 6, and had all the better of the game. Adamson is playing ably at present, and is a power in the back division.

Eastern Suburbs are the strongest team in the "B" division, and should account for the rest of the teams as they meet them. Some of the games, however, should be close, and the red, white, and blue will have to keep at it. Some of their short passing rushes were very effective as scoring movements on Saturday, and their handling of the ball is good. Bolden is setting a good example in the goal-kicking line, having dropped excellent field goals in each of the last two matches.

Manly defeated Sydney by a smaller margin than in the previous game, although they scored the same number of points on each occasion. However, their opponents did better this time, as the scores of 8 to 6 compared to the earlier one of 8 to nil shows. Randell reappeared again, and by converting a try gave them the extra two points, which meant the game.

North Sydney are playing consistently, and although halfway down the list are a neat combination. Their biggest defeats came at the early part of the season, but they have shown improved form since then, and may be expected to develop into a useful team by next year. They are unlucky in not having Shaw with them right through, but possess a good three-quarter in Gregory.

Western Suburbs have been experiencing some difficulty in getting a team together in the last couple of matches. On Saturday they played Ray, of the City and Suburban Union, full-back, in place of Wall, who was injured, and he made a creditable showing. Ward Prentice is the mainstay of the backs, and as a lot of defending comes their way gets them out of trouble time after time. Bisett and Anderson both scored excellent tries on Saturday, but the team as a whole was not so dangerous as the last time they met Eastern Suburbs, when they were only beaten by 16 to 11.

St. George had the bye on Saturday, and as they forfeited to Sydney on the previous Saturday have not had a game for two weeks. It is to be hoped that they will be able to place a team in the field for the remaining matches.

Balmain are plugging away, and meeting defeat after defeat in a game fashion. It has been an uphill fight the whole season through, as they have had a lot to contend with. The material is there, but is rather lacking in the finer points of the game. They were making a close game of it on Saturday against North Sydney, but the loss of some of their players weakened them considerably. When these teams met earlier in the season North Sydney was successful by 19 to 6.

Sydney are still at the bottom of the list, although they should have added another victory to their present small number on Saturday. There has been a lack of finish to their work throughout the season, and many fine pieces of work which have started good movements have ended in nought through failure to apply the finishing touch. Some of the forwards are showing good form and are clever in the loose, but the backs, a good deal owing to lack of opportunities, are not very dependable as attackers.

SECOND GRADE.

The second grade competition of the Metropolitan Rugby Union came to a close on Saturday, and was won by Glebe II., with Sydney Training College filling second place.

The winners have a very fine record for the season, as of 15 matches played 14 have been won, to a single defeat.

CITY AND SUBURBAN RUGBY UNION.

Toxteth defeated Holwood, at Alexandria Oval, by 9 to 6. Mr. A. C. W. Hill, referee.

Wentworth A defeated Kiora, at Sydney Cricket Ground, by 21 to 6. Garratt 3, C. Nicholson 1, and W. R. Iredale 1, secured tries, H. Rosward converting one, and K. Willis two; Cruise and Harden scored for Kiora. Mr. F. J. Herlihy, referee.

ARMIDALE, Monday.

The premiership of the N.E.R. Football Union has been annexed by Souths, with Hillgrove All Blacks second, and Norths third. Souths will now have to meet the winning Tamworth Union premiers in competition for the Sawyers Shield.

LITHGOW, Monday.

In connection with the Hartley Rugby Union competition, Waratahs and Cyclists played a draw, each side scoring 3 points. In the senior competition Rovers forfeited to Railway.

LACROSSE.

PETERSHAM STILL PREMIERS.

Sydney and Petersham met for the final match of the senior grade last Saturday at Manly Oval, when Petersham won after a strenuous game 7 goals to 4. From the face-off it was seen that both teams were in excellent condition, as a result of which the pace throughout was particularly fast, whilst the checking was hard and close. Petersham were the first to score, and led at half-time 3 2, after which Sydney tried hard to equalise. Mr. Farebrother was referee.

MAN'S SUSPICIOUS DEATH.

EVIDENCE AT THE INQUEST.

The Coroner conducted an inquest yesterday into the death of Joseph Patrick Lamb, 38, who died at his residence, 14 Riley-street, on Tuesday last. Henry Spencer Hanssen, a cripple, who has been charged with causing Lamb's death, was present in court, and Mr. J. Howarth watched the case on his behalf.

Ellen Quinn, who had been living with Lamb as his wife, said that on August 22, when she arrived home in the evening, Lamb looked strange. He was bleeding from a wound in the left side of the forehead, and in answer to a question told her that Hanssen had struck him with his crutch. He said that they both rolled together on the footpath, and Hanssen was put on his feet, and swung his crutch round, and struck him. "Oh, it was a cowardly blow," he added.

The Coroner: Was there any ill-feeling between Hanssen and Lamb?—Yes.

The Coroner: Did you ask Lamb whether he struck Hanssen?—Yes; and he replied, "I don't know. I can't remember how it happened."

Continuing, witness said that on the Monday night a week after the occurrence, Lamb went to bed, and on waking up during the night complained of his head. She could not wake him next morning, and sent for a neighbour. The police were subsequently informed, and Dr. Riley ordered his removal to the hospital, but Lamb died before he could be removed.

Dr. Palmer, who made a post-mortem examination of the body, said he found a bruise on the left side of the forehead. There was no fracture of the skull, but there was some laceration of the under-surface of the brain, with subsequent hemorrhage. Death, in his opinion, was due to the injury of the brain. The injury could have been caused by either a blow or a fall, but from the outline of the wound he should think it more than likely that it was due to a fall on a hard surface.

Charles Robinson, a carter, said he was standing with his horse and cart outside the Woolloomooloo Lockup on the afternoon of August 22, when he saw Hanssen come out of the side door of the Australian Inn. Lamb followed almost immediately, and seemed to bump Hanssen. The men then grappled with each other, and fell on to the footpath. The deceased was underneath, and Hanssen held his head and bumped it on the ground several times. As Hanssen was getting up he struck deceased in the nose, and witness going over said, "That was a cowardly thing to do." Hanssen replied, "I'll kill him for coming at a cripple." Witness helped Hanssen up, and he walked towards Crown-street. Lamb, who was bleeding from the nose and forehead, also walked away round the corner.

Mrs. Martha M'Intosh said she was sitting on the balcony of her sister's residence, next to the Australian Inn, on Monday afternoon, when she saw Lamb strike Hanssen in the face with his open hand. The latter dropped his crutch, and grappled with the man, and they both fell struggling to the pavement. While there she did not see Hanssen strike Lamb.

What was the condition of the men?—Hanssen was sober, and Lamb appeared to be intoxicated.

At this stage the inquest was adjourned until Friday next.

A.J.C. SPRING CAMPAIGN.

A very satisfactory response was made yesterday by owners and trainers to the general entry for the spring meeting of the Australian Jockey Club, and though the total was 110 short of last year's aggregate, the figures being 800 as against 910, the list for the coming campaign includes the cream of the equine talent of Australasia; and patrons of the turf can look forward with confidence to high-class racing at Randwick next month. Victorian sportsmen have responded pretty liberally, and the visiting contingent from the south will greatly enhance the interest in the w.f.a. and jumping events. New Zealand also figures prominently on the lists in both classes mentioned.

The weight-for-age races promise to be the most attractive ever seen at headquarters. The local section includes the champion Prince Foote, Son of the Marsh, Golden Slipper, and Patronatus, who will measure strides with the Victorian cracks, Alawa, Trafalgar, Comedy King, Lord Nolan, Pendil, Blairfour, Golden Point, and Bobadea; while New Zealand is represented in that division by Master Soult, Artillerie, Crucinella, Gold Lace, Equitas, and Sunburnt.

The exigencies of the recent jumping campaign in Victoria have considerably reduced the ranks of available hurdlers and cross-country horses, but the available talent—local and Victorian—will be supplemented by a select contingent from New Zealand, and the contests over obstacles should be very interesting.

The declaration of first forfeit for the Epsom Handicap and the Metropolitan leaves 51 in the mile race, and 61 in the Metropolitan. The Victorian representatives in the Epsom Handicap include Motoa, Mindful, Broadsword, Bobby, Sentronus, Kingsclere, Golden Point, and Teucer; New Zealand is represented by Crucinella, Gold Lace, Equitas, Sunburnt, and Mundic. Queensland has Bright Laddie and Royal Ned to act on her behalf; while the local talent includes Parsee, Maltine, Irishman, Malt King, Penniless, Rose Allie, Golden Slipper, Desert Rose, Lager, and Ra.

Alawa having been withdrawn from the Metropolitan leaves Trafalgar at the head of the list, and the other Victorians still engaged are Pendil, Lord Nolan, Mindful, Bobadea, Sentronus, Santos, Diabolo, Broadsword, Golden Point, Bobby, and Indiscreet; the New Zealanders are Crucinella, Artillerie, and Sunburnt; Maltine, Parsee, The Acolyte, Son of the Marsh, Golden Slipper, Eric, Lager, Styria, and Ra are among the local contingent, while Bright Laddie and Royal Ned will act on behalf of Queensland.

No fewer than 36 remain in the A.J.C. Derby, but several have evidently been overlooked. Victoria has Blair Gour, Golden Point, Bobadea, Danaus, and Indiscreet among the first acceptors; Haliastur represents South Australia, and Sunburnt New Zealand; while the local candidates for the classic race include Beverage, Lager, Styria, True Spec, Cadonia, King Foote, Duke Foote, Desert Rose, Gigandra, and Tanami.

The first acceptors for the Breeders' Plate number 44, and Victoria is still represented by a couple of fillies, the property of Mr. "S. A. Rawdon"—one, Blythesome, is a daughter of that erstwhile good mare, Gladsome; and the 53 acceptors for the Gimcrack Stakes include the same pair.

FIRST DAY, OCTOBER 1.

CYCLING AND MOTORING.

The Motor Cycle Club of N.S.W. have decided to confine their hill-climbing contest on the Eastwood hill next Saturday to club members only, and the secretary, W. W. Reynolds, will receive entries up till to-morrow night.

Members of the Motor Boat Club of N.S.W. will be engaged at the St. George's Regatta, October 3, the first race at 10 a.m., the second at 3.30 p.m., both are general handicaps, and the trophies for each event are valued at first £3 3s, second £2 2s, and third £1 1s. Owners desirous of competing should notify Mr. E. C. Griffiths as early as possible to avoid any hitch in the arrangements.

The new racing motor boat, built for Messrs. E. C. Griffiths and C. H. Reich, which they are fitting up to race the Fairbanks for the speed pennant of the harbour, is practically complete, and trial runs over the measured mile during the last three days more than satisfied the owners. Several minor alterations may be made, but generally speaking she is complete.

The latest product of the well-known motor engineer and designer, Mons. G. A. Clement, has just reached Australia in the shape of the advanced 1911 model 12-15 h.p. Clement-Bayard car. The design of the chassis is entirely new, with a taper front bonnet, giving an elegant appearance to the car. The radiator is on the dashboard, with an enclosed fan to assist the cooling. The type of bonnet facilitates the inspection of the engine. The system of lubrication is claimed to be fool proof, a reservoir under the crank case holds sufficient oil for 250 miles, the oil is forced by a plunger pump, driven by the cam shaft, through the bearings, and the excess of oil is projected along the sides of the crank case, by centrifugal force, back to reservoir, through a filter. Thus the exact level for proper lubrication is maintained, the level varying with the speed of the engine. The engine is controlled by a foot throttle, with a small lever on the dash to prevent the possibility of stopping the engine in traffic, the act of closing the throttle with this lever also switches off the magneto. A large inspection door, secured by one nut, is fitted to the gear box. The carburettor is of a new design, and easily dismantled and cleaned. The front axle is of a new straight type, H section, with 10in ground clearance. The back axle has large tapered tubes fan in diameter, extending from the differential case to the springs. The car has a very wide lock, and will turn in a circle 12ft 6in in diameter. This should be very handy in traffic. Stanton Cook, and Co., Ltd., the agents, state that in the first three months that they held the Clement-Bayard agency they placed 20 cars.

There are several complaints among motorists about the state of many of our main roads and suburban highways. The medical men in a leading suburb, owning motor or horse drawn vehicles, recently joined in a protest to the municipal authorities, pointing out the bad state of certain streets and roads, in what is a populous area, and their statements can be verified, as in some of the streets it is difficult to drive a motor. The cyclists in the big road race last Saturday complain about the loose state of the road between Lawson and the Lapstone Hill, and blame the motor car; but it must be remembered that the majority of the roads complained of were in bad order long before the motor was in use here. The combined action of the medical men already referred to should have a good effect.

August is generally a slow month for the motor trade, but the perfect weather conditions brought many motor inquiries, and among the traders who were able to turn the demand to advantage, was Dalgety and Co., who handle the Delaunay-Belleville and F.N. cars. They state that in August they sold 15 cars in all, ranging from the Austin runabout 7-h.p. to the big 38-h.p. Daimler. The Halley motor lorry also received a fair amount of attention, but no sales are recorded.

Judging by the number of motor companies already in operation, and the announcements of various prospective companies, all covering the various phases of the motor trade, such as selling cars and accessories, hiring, garaging, cleaning, repairing, and storing, it is evident that a boom in the motor trade in the coming summer is expected. No doubt, there will be a big demand for motor traction, whether for business or for pleasure, but there is always a danger of overdoing a good thing.

Lately reference has been made to the possibility of a passenger on the front seat of a touring car, licensed as a taxi-cab, tampering with the taximeter by turning it back to zero, and thus robbing the driver of his legal fare, or part thereof, and the question was raised as to the best place to fix the taximeter so that both driver and passenger could see it. The position for all practical purposes is decided by the officer passing the taxi-cab, although the left hand side is generally approved; but it is mainly left to the discretion of the officer. The second point is that the driver of a touring car licensed as a taxi is not supposed to have a passenger alongside of him when plying as a taxi-cab, although nine times out of ten he would not be interfered with, except for some special reason. Now, to come to the manipulation of the taximeter by the passenger. The modern taximeter, such as the "Kosmos," has an alarm bell that rings sharply whenever the arm is moved in any way, and thus must be heard by either driver or passenger. Of course, there are many taximeters of the old design running without the alarm attachment, but among the regulations governing the use of the taximeter is one that states it must "be so constructed that it gives audible warning to the hirer by means of a gong or bell whenever the driver moves the lever." A note states:—"This regulation will not be insisted upon until due notice has been given of the intention to enforce it." There is no doubt that should any abuse of the taximeters without alarms become common the regulation will be enforced.

It is generally recognised that the N.S.W. roads are a heavy test on the motor tyres; in fact, on all rubber tyres, whether for bicycle, motor bicycle, touring or commercial car; but the agents for the Palmer cord tyres are now exhibiting 815 m/m x 105 m/m covers which are in excellent condition, after being run all over New South Wales, fitted to a commercial car weighing one and a half ton, and used by one of our leading motor-houses. The rubber is worn right down to the casing on the tread; yet the shape is perfect, and looks fit for many more miles.

"Why are gear boxes noisy," says the "Autocar," at the start of an interesting article on the subject, and opens up with: "There is a good deal more in this question than may appear at first glance, and the person who answers it satisfactorily will earn the thanks of many thousands of his fellow-motorists. Let readers ask themselves how often they have come across a really silent gear box. Not 'comparatively silent' or 'practically silent,' but absolutely so. The matter is of first importance not only to makers and users, but equally almost to the great body of non-motorists who suffer from the nerve-destroying racket of noisy gear boxes. Therefore an early solution of the problem is much to be desired from all points of view." The article is too long to be reproduced in the motor columns of the "Herald," but it deals in an interesting manner with a very important phase in motor mechanics.

According to the "Autocar," dealing with "Street Accidents Caused by Vehicles," based on returns from each police district in England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland for the year ending December 31, 1909, the motor car and motor cycle accidents, apart from tram and 'bus accidents, are little more than half the number of those caused by horse-drawn vehicles. Moreover, out of the total caused by the motors, only 22 were fatal, and the horse-drawn vehicles were responsible for 638 fatalities—a striking commentary on the common belief of the dangers of motor traffic as compared with horse traffic.

COMMONWEALTH EISTEDDFOD.

CHORAL CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST.

The grand open choral contest for the championship of Australia was judged last night, together with the male choruses. The first prize for the championship is £100 and "The Paling" challenge cup. The competing choirs in this section were:—The Harmonic Glee Party (70 voices), Sydney, Mr. W. Bourne conductor; Illawarra District Choral Union (70 voices), Mr. A. J. Walker conductor; Warwick Choral Society (70 voices), Queensland, Mr. C. H. Allen conductor; Illawarra District Choir (70 voices), Wollongong, Mr. J. J. Pratt conductor; Ballarat Choral Union (70 voices), Victoria, Mr. J. J. Bailey conductor; Blackstone and Ipswich Cambrian Choir, Queensland, Mr. L. Francis conductor.

The competing choirs in the male chorus were:—The Wesley Male Voice Party (30 members), Sydney, Mr. J. E. F. Penman, B.A., conductor; and the Blackstone and Ipswich Cambrian Male Choir, Ipswich, Queensland, Mr. L. Francis conductor.

The result of the final piano solo (under 16 years of age) was.—Miss Nora Gallagher (Lismore), 1; "Nil Desperandum" (Ipswich, Queensland), 2; Miss Inez Mumford (Granville), 3.

GRAND MASSED CHOIR NIGHT.

To-night will be "grand massed choir night." The competing choirs in each section will be massed, and choral items will be rendered. The order of the programme will be juvenile choir (300 voices), female choirs (150 voices), church choirs (120 voices), warehouse factory firms (60 voices). Second choral choirs (160 voices), male chorus (80 voices), and grand champion choir (420 voices). Immediately after each item has been sung the result of the competitions will be displayed on a large screen on the platform. The adjudicator will then deliver his comments on the various items. The grand organ will be presided over by Mr. O. L. Steele. Mr. T. S. Tearne, State superintendent of music, will conduct the juvenile and church choirs, and Mr. Stanley Hawley, F.R.A.M., the other choirs.

There will be about 1600 choristers taking part, and they will comprise all the champion interstate and New South Wales choirs.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

BROKEN HILL, Monday.

West Broken Hill Rifle Club finished the N.R.A. medal competition on Saturday. Pound, with a total of 245, won, with Jones, 243, second, and Walker, 240, third. Pound also won the medal for the highest score off the shoulder.

The United Tramways Club fired a handicap match at 200 and 300 yds. The chief scores were:—Owen (18), 65; Sheehan (8), 62; Barwick (15), 62; Taylor (scr), 61.

KEMPSEY, Monday.

A match was shot between Smithtown Club and Kempsey Club, on the Kempsey range, on Saturday, at 600 and 900 yards, when Kempsey won by 11 points.

PORTLAND, Monday.

Shooting for the Commonwealth Cement Company's Cup and the N.R.A. medal at 500 and 600 yds, the following scores were registered:—W. Burgess, 65; T. Verney, 61; G. M'Manus, 62; Captain C. M. Wettie, 62; J. E. Cook, 62; G. Barron, 61; F. Scharr, 58; W. Rutherford, 57; W. Thomas, 56; A. E. Coates, 55; S. Clarke, 53; S. Williamson, 50.

Your Garden needs a Perdriau Rubber Hose

Perdriau Rubber Hose is the standard Australian hose. We maintain a perfectly equipped and thoroughly modern factory at Drummoyne—right on the foreshores of Sydney's famous harbour—and here we are continually producing the hose for which our name stands as a synonym of all that is worthy and reliable.

The "Watering" season is here—now—and you probably need a new hose. You will certainly be wise to get it from us if you wish to ensure perfect satisfaction in every respect.

Perdriau Rubber Hose is made with an inner tube section of the very strongest pure rubber, wrapped in three—or four—ply, tightly-woven fabric, which will not expand nor develop leaks under high water pressure. The outer casing is of extremely tough elastic rubber, so that it will stand any amount of dragging around without injury. Perdriau Hose is always fresh, and is by far the most durable, serviceable garden hose ever made, very different from the kinds that crack, burst, peel, or leak after a few months' use.

There are four grades of Perdriau Hose, all of which are the best procurable at the prices, but that which we specially recommend is the "Watershed" Brand of Red Hose. This is absolutely the best hose made. It resists sunburn, perish, kinking, splitting, and bursting, and is light, strong and flexible.

Price List and samples will be forwarded free upon request. Write for them to-day.

We give prices here of two of our grades of hose—the "Prospect" the best hose that can be made at a low price, and the "Watershed," the best hose that can be made at any price.

BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

PROGRESS OF THE TRADE.

INCREASED COST OF BUILDING.

Much discussion has taken place of late with respect to the scarcity of men in the building trade. The builders assert that they are almost at their wits' end to get enough men to carry on their work, particularly stonemasons, bricklayers, and carpenters. The Trades Hall people, on the other hand, assert that there are plenty of men available if the builders will only pay a shilling or two more in wages. Still the fact remains that the increased cost of building is to-day assuming very big proportions, in fact is reaching a critical point, and architects are feeling the strain very much in having to submit tenders to their clients much in advance of what the amount was for the same class of work a few years ago. In consequence there is a growing tendency for clients to hang back, waiting for a more favourable opportunity to build. A set of plans and a contract were shown the writer yesterday for a villa which was built in 1902 for £850. The owner, desirous of building another villa from the same plans on an adjoining site, called tenders the other day for this work. Only about one third of the number of builders tendered on this occasion, and the lowest price submitted was £1374. Of course in 1902 Sydney was suffering from depression, and many men were out of work. Still, the question with all concerned is how long will the present high prices continue, and will they advance still further? The general opinion is that we have reached the summit. There is a strong feeling that for the workmen engaged in the building trade there will sooner or later be a slump. However, the men say "Not yet," and judging from the amount of new work advertised each week it would appear that the men are not far wrong.

GENERAL NOTES.

The falling off in the number of tenders received of late for many of the jobs connected with the Government Architect's Office is strong evidence of the activity that is going on in the building trade of Sydney. Tenders were received yesterday for erecting the female wards at the Hospital for Consumptives at Waterfall. The job is a large one, a class of work that builders generally like to tender for; but only four tenders were received, and as these were above the departmental estimate the figures were withheld by the tender board.

Another job dealt with yesterday by this board was for additions to the superintendent's quarters at the Hospital for Insane at Callen Park. In this case only one tender was received, and the price was withheld for the same reason.

Among the contracts let last week was one for constructing the permanent road of the line of tramway from Waverley to Bronte, which is to be carried out at once. Messrs. Wilmot and Morgan are the contractors, and they will do the work at shedule rates.

In the office of Mr. Alfred G. Newman, architect, plans are being prepared for a row of shops at Wollongong, and also for a shop and dwelling at Concord. In the same office plans have been completed and tenders called, returnable on 20th inst., for the erection of a girls' rescue home at Newcastle.

In the office of Messrs. Nixon and Son, architects, September 12 has been fixed as the closing date for a pair of semi-detached cottages at Randwick, and also for a residence at Hornsby.

In the office of Mr. F. Trenchard Smith, architect, plans have been completed and tenders are to be called for a residence in Stuart-street, Manly. In the same office tenders are under consideration for a villa and a cottage residence at Manly, and for a cargo shed at Nukualofa, near Tonga.

A contract was let last week for the erection of large premises at the corner of Oxford and Brisbane streets, city, for the Union Bank. Mr. Scott is the architect, and Messrs. Robert Wall and Sons are the builders.

Sir Luke Fildes, who recently recovered from a successful operation for appendicitis, is known all the world over as the painter of "The Doctor." Most people will recall the cottage interior of that famous picture, but how many know that the artist built the cottage itself in his studio for the purpose of the painting? Having conceived the idea of the picture, the painter set out in search of a suitable mise-en-scene, which he found at length in a little village in Wiltshire. He bought the cottage as it stood, took it down stone by stone, and re-erected it in his studio.

A BETTER BOOT POLISH AND MORE FOR YOUR MONEY.

CHERRY BLOSSOM BOOT POLISH has qualities which improve the leather, rendering it pliable, waterproof, and foot easy.

Once you get the CHERRY BLOSSOM shine, you will want no other, and the paste needs to be applied but seldom. A rub with a soft cloth will always renew its brilliancy, so that CHERRY BLOSSOM is also very economical.

Nearly all the leading dealers sell CHERRY BLOSSOM—Black or Tan—in large tins, at 3d and 6d. You can get good outfits from them, too.

If you have any difficulty in being supplied, write to us, and we will have the matter fixed up.
